Experts' Report on New Building Shows Some Laxity of Inspection; No Graft Evidence.

COMMEND THE STRUCTURE

Three Minor Charges Substantiated; Will Be Corrected; Eight Claims "Unfounded."

Exhaustive investigation by experts has proved that Chicago has under construction a city hall of the highest grade.

The three specialists who subjected the building to a searching examination at the instance of the Chicago bureau of public efficiency found some defects, but none vital, and discovered much worthy of praise. Of the charges made by Thomas Coulson three were substantiated, while eight were declared without foundation. Seven other defects were unearthed by the investigators, of which four had already been noted by the architects for correction.

After noting these findings the report of the bureau, signed by Julius Rosenwald, chairman, and made public yesterday, concludes:

"The three experts agreed that with the exceptions noted the structure is well built and the work conforms to the specifications. The faults found, it is further agreed by the experts, are relatively minor in character and are not of a kind to affect seriously the construction of the building. It is important, however, that they should all be remedied, and assurances have been given that they will be.

"The existence of such defects as were brought to light by the inquiry does indicate that the inspection was inadequate in the particulars noted. There is, however, no warrant for charges of dishonesty in anything that has been brought to light. The three experts all join in commendation of the new city hall considering the structure as a whole."

Coulson Charges Found Warranted.

The three charges made by Coulson and found warranted are:

Concrete protection of the ten light court columns had been partially omitted.

Stone concrete had been omitted in places in the segmental arches and rubbish had been left in the haunches.

Spandrel beams at the corners of the building were bare of concrete on the lower flanges in two instances.

Other Charges Found Baseless.

Coulson's other charges are disposed of as follows:

The backs of the steel columns in the granite columns were concreted in every instances where opened.

The capital of the granite column in the county building, stated to be empty, was filled with concrete and brick work.

The brick backing of the granite columns conformed to the specifications.

The mortar used for common brick work was of good commercial quality.

The arch tile of segmental arches were of good commercial grade.

The spaces over the stone caps of windows at corners of the building were left hollow where Coulson claimed they should have been concreted. The plans did not require them to be concreted.

The spaces between the spandrel beams at the corner of the building said to be filled with rubbish were properly filled with concrete.

The concrete coverings of the steel columns on the first floor were found solid and in good condition.

Defects Which Had Been Found.

ARMED MOB LED BY GIRL IN FIGHT

Revolvers Discharged by the Police and Rioters During Bold Clashes in the Garment Workers' Strike.

STRIVE FOR AGREEMENT.

More Hundreds Walk Out; Lone Bluecoat Beaten; Pickets Outwitted; Seventy-five Disturbers Arrested.

Increased rioting and walkouts of several hundred additional clothing workers marked the progress yesterday of the garment workers' strike.

For the first time since the strike movement began the police were forced to use their revolvers in dispersing riotous mobs. Several shots were fired by rioters, but the "gun men" managed to escape in the confusion when the police charged.

More than seventy-five strikers were arrested, among them a 14 year old girl, Josie Milowski, 1488 Holt street, who, at the head of a mob of 200 strikers, led an attack on the police reserves in a riot at West North avenue and Wood street.

Pickets sent out by the Woman's Trade Union league were treated with scant courtesy by the police on guard at the several strike bound shops. Settlement workers and college girls among them were given no more consideration than the regular pickets, and several were grabbed by the arm and shoved along by the unsympathetic bluecoats.

Try to Bring About Agreement.

Members of the citizens' investigating committee began an attempt to bring a semblance of order out of the chaotic strike conditions by a study of the grievances said to exist. Prof. Graham Taylor arrived in Chicago during the day and agreed to serve on the committee. He immediately joined in the work of inquiry.

It is understood an effort will be made within a few days to bring about a conference between Harry Hart of Hart Schaffner & Marx and President Thomas A. Rickert of the United Garment Workers of America with a view to a settlement.

The strikers are sparring for time in order to be in a position to demand closed shop agreements. Their tentative demands, as formulated by the officers of the union, call for agreements recognizing the principle of "collective bargaining," recognition of the union, a forty-eight hour week for cutters, and a fifty-four hour week for tailors and other shop employds.

The proposed agreement provides that in the event of disputes the questions shall be submitted to a committee of the employers and the district council, and if they fail to agree arbitrators shall be called in for a decision.

Steward Hears Strikers' Plaint.

A committee of the union called on Chief Steward and asked him to stop charged police brutality. Chief Steward told the committee that the police are going to maintain order and that cases of brutality, if any exist, will be investigated when the strike troubles are over.

One of the worst riots of the day took place at West Ohio and Bickerdike streets, across the street from the residence of Mrs. Raymond Robins, who lives at 1457 West Ohio street. When Mrs. Robins, who was not at home at the time, received word that 5,000 strikers and sympathizers attacked a tailor shop near her residence, she exclaimed:

"Evidently I should have remained on picket duty at home today."

A humorous feature of the day's developments occurred at the plant of Lamm & Co., West Adams and Jefferson streets, where a delegation of "aristocratic pickets" took up a position late in the afternoon to await employés at quitting time.

The pickets were Miss Gertrude Barnum of Riverside, Miss Ellen Gates Starr of Hull house, and Mrs. Anna Wilmarth Thompson. They were accompanied by several strikers and Attorney Harold Ickes, counsel for the league, who was on hand to take notes on "police brutality" for the purpose of starting personal damage suits.

Pickets Victim of Ruse.

There was no brutality, however, unless the ruse played by A. H. Lamm of the firm be so construed.

When Mr. Lamm learned that a delegation of distinguished pickets surrounded the building he had the bookkeeper prepare hurriedly a payroll book. Then he sent one of the policemen on duty at the door to invite the settlement workers into the office for a brief conference.

The pickets, including Attorney Ickes, fell into the trap and accepted the invitation. Marching into the office, the women were received by Mr. Lamm, who ushered them into a private office and locked the door. As the lock clicked the elevator man signaled upstairs and the employés on the upper floors began pouring out of the building in streams.

When the conference was over most of the employés had left the building.

"Those women would be fine pickets in war time," commented one of the policemen on duty outside.

"They were asleep at the switch," shouted a mounted policeman, as he spurred his horse and rode away after seeing that possibilities of a riot were eliminated.

She Thought 'Something Was Wrong.'

Miss Starr was the first to leave the conference. She said she suspected something was wrong.

"Mr. Lamm showed us the pay roll of his cutters," said Miss Starr, who is a colleague of Miss Jane Addams. "I didn't want to look at his pay roll. Neither did the others. We told him that the pay might be fairly good four months in the year, but what about the other eight months? I suspected he took us in there to play a trick and it looks as though he succeeded."

Miss Barnum argued the closed shop question and "unionism on moral grounds" with Mr. Lamm, who said he listened patiently until he was sure all the employés were out of the building.

Other pickets for the league went to Milwaukee avenue and Robey street, where they did "picket duty" in front of a Hart Schaffner & Marx vest shop. In this detail were Miss Emma Steghagen, secretary of the league; Miss Stella M. Franklin, Miss

THE POLITICAL GRAND OPERA.

PUNCTURES FOES' CAMPAIGN PLEAS

Deneen Says Democrats Distort Facts in High Living Cost Arguments.

"CANNOT FACE TRUTH."

"Demoralized and discredited."

Gov. Deneen applied the lash to the Democratic organization in Illinois with this phrase in the running fire of attack which he made in his campaign tour of the city last night.

"It cannot face the facts of the situation nor agree upon a creditable program to which it is willing to pledge itself," said the governor.

"The present situation the Democratic party views with alarm, and it can neither point with pride to the past nor view the future with confidence. So the leaders of the party who are responsible for this situation have joined in a chorus of vilification and defamation in order to confuse the truth of the matter and hide their own incompetency."

Replies to Attack on Tariff.

Gov. Deneen fired his heaviest broadside in his speeches at the accusations and claims of the Democrats regarding the tariff, referring particularly to the allegations concerning the high cost of living.

"The assertion that the tariff is responsible for high prices, made by the Democrats, is bold misrepresentation," he continued. "Evidence of the fallacy of this assertion lies so close to the surface that any man who gives the matter a moment's consideration cannot be misled. Not only has there been an advance of prices on articles on which no change whatever was made by the present tariff law, such as flour and dairy products, but the same is true of articles upon which the tariff was greatly reduced, and upon others which were placed upon the free list by the Payne bill.

"One or two examples selected from articles with the prices of which any housewife or householder is familiar will serve to show this. On beef the tariff was reduced 25 per cent. Has anybody heard of a recent 25 per cent reduction in the price of beef? If he has, let him send the name and address of his butcher to the Democratic campaign committee. And what has been said of beef is true of a long list of articles such as pork, veal, lard, and vegetables, which are in everyday use in every household.

Attacks Democratic Arguments.

"But a Democratic tariff argument has never yet lacked in vigor for want of facts to support it, no more than it has lacked in novelty. Any man of mature years in my audience can recall some of the exploded Democratic tariff arguments.

"'The tariff is a tax paid by the consumer' did yeoman service for the Democratic party at the time that prices were being reduced to the consumer under a protective tariff. 'The tariff is the mother of trusts' was a prime favorite of Democratic campaign orators and statesmen until it was discovered that the greatest trusts and combinations in the country, like the railroad pools and combinations, had no tariff protection whatever and that trusts and combinations flourished in free trade England as much as they did in protective America.

"And so today we find the Democratic party which has been forced by the logic of events to abandon every position it has ever occupied upon questions of national importance, which has seen its previous tariff utterances thrown into the limbo of exploded and discredited fallacies along with bimetallism, nationalism of railroads, anti-imperialism, opposition to Panama construction, and other 'issues' cheerfully entering upon the present campaign with the brand new slogan 'the tariff is responsible for high prices.'

Give Bad Name to Illinois.

Reverting again to state issues, Gov. Deneen said with greatest emphasis that "at the door of the Democratic party in Illinois can be laid the confessions, investigations, exposures, and indictments which have disgraced the state and given it its bad preeminence in the nation. The responsibility for the conduct of the coalition which maintained its organization from the beginning until the end of the last general assembly belongs to the Democratic party.

"The Democrats furnished a great majority of the votes of that coalition, while the minority, which was Republican in that coalition, has been a small and steadily diminishing element in the Republican party, which exercised no influence in framing the present Republican platform."

FOSS DISOWNS THE SPEAKER; WILL NOT VOTE FOR CANNON.

Congressman Says That in Accordance with Wishes of Constituents He Will Support Some Other Republican.

Congressman George Edmond Foss of the Tenth congressional district and Republican nominee for reelection in the Lake View-Evanston district, formally disowned Speaker Cannon in a statement issued by him last midnight at the Union League club. It follows:

"On Aug. 27 I stated that I was visiting various portions of my district with the view of determining the sentiment of the people on the question of the speakership as well as on other questions. I have publicly stated that I am committed in no way and am under no obligations to any particular individual as speaker of the next congress, and that I would be guided by the wishes of my constituents.

"Since that time I have made a careful canvass of my district and found the sentiment unfavorable to the reelection of Mr. Cannon. Recognizing it to be the duty of a representative in congress to voice the wishes of his constituents, I desire to state that in the event of a Republican house, and the present speaker's candidacy, I shall vote for some other Republican."

"Do you mean by your statement that you oppose Mr. Cannon personally or that you stand against 'Cannonism?'" was the question put to Congressman Foss after he had made his statement.

"I do not know how to define Cannonism," was the reply of Congressman Foss. "The people have put all their woes and grievances into one blanket and have called it Cannonism."

After waiting two weeks to marry a woman worth $50,000 a fortune teller had told him was "crazy about him," Anton Wosny, 2230 Maplewood avenue, caused the arrest yesterday of the seeress, Mme. Marie Alwes.

He said she told him he was to be married inside of two weeks to a "dark complexioned woman worth $50,000."

Wosny paid the fortune teller 25 cents. She is charged with obtaining money by means of a confidence game.

GOOD INTENDED; WOMAN ARRESTED

Downtown Visitor Sees Man Supporting an Intoxicated Companion in Street.

ASKS HUSBAND TO AID.

For defying a policeman who ordered her to "move on," Mrs. Marie Bush, daughter of the manager of the Globe theater, was arrested last night at State and Van Buren streets.

It is the first time in the recollection of the oldest policemen at the Harrison street station that a woman was held on such a charge.

A desire to enact the part of a good Samaritan was the underlying cause of Mrs. Bush's tilt with Patrolman Finnin. She and her husband, George Bush, were walking in State street when they saw a man supporting a woman who was under the influence of liquor. The man was trying to put the woman on a street car, and she objected.

"Will somebody please help me?" was the man's appeal that attracted the attention of Mrs. Bush.

Sends Husband to Aid Woman.

"George," said Mrs. Bush to her husband, "go and help that man."

Mr. Bush endeavored to give help, but the woman balked at getting on the car and the efforts of the two men attracted a crowd.

Detectives O'Rourke and Brandt appeared on the scene and arrested the woman.

Relieved of his burden Mr. Bush went in search of his wife. He found her in custody of Policeman Finnin.

"The policeman spoke to me in a surly tone, telling me to move on," said Mrs. Bush, "and as I was waiting for my husband I refused to obey him.

"I was standing in the doorway of a cigar store and was not blocking the sidewalk. Why the patrolman should pick me out of all the crowd is a mystery.

Incensed, She Upbraids Policeman.

"I tried to tell him that I was waiting for my husband, but he pushed me away. Then I got angry and told him he was no gentleman.

"I was taking down his number when he grabbed me and hustled me toward the patrol box.

"He was insolent and arrested me without cause. The patrol wagon arrived in a few minutes and I was bundled into it with the intoxicated woman whom I tried to befriend."

George C. Taylor, advertising manager of the Globe theater, signed Mrs. Bush's bond and she was released. She will be arraigned at the Harrison street court this morning.

SUICIDE DIES WITH FOUR PETS.

Despondent Woman Asphyxiates Herself and Poodle Dog, Guinea Pig, and Two Birds.

Mrs. Lillian M. Dempsey, 3806 Parnell avenue, committed suicide in her residence yesterday by turning on the gas, and also asphyxiated four pets, a poodle dog, a guinea pig, and two canary birds. Her body was found by her husband when he returned home about 1 o'clock in the afternoon after an all night's absence, the police say. Despondency because of her husband's failure to return is believed by the police to have led her to end her life.

INDICT ERBSTEIN FOR GIVING BRIBE TO BROWNE JUROR

Investigators Vote True Bill That Carries Possible Prison Term.

GIVE SCANDAL DETAILS.

ATTORNEY GIVES BONDS OF $10,000

"You don't want to be working for the Adams Express company all your life. I will take care of you, Mac. You will be taken care of well, financially and with a good position."—Attorney Charles E. Erbstein's offer to Juror Grant McCutchen, as set forth in the indictment.

Charles E. Erbstein, attorney for Lee O'Neil Browne in both of the legislator's trials on a charge of paying Representative C. A. White $1,000 for voting for Lorimer for senator, was indicted yesterday afternoon by the Cook county grand jury. The specified accusation is that he paid $100 and also made promises to Grant McCutchen, juror in the second Browne trial, to corrupt McCutchen and influence his vote for acquittal.

The indictment was returned before Judge Kavanagh at 4:35 p. m., a bond of $10,000 being specified. Half an hour later Erbstein appeared with his attorney, James T. Brady, and a representative of a surety company, the same that gave bail for Browne and Representative Robert E. Wilson. After the formalities before Assistant State's Attorney Fairbank, Judge Chetlain, who had waited in the County building, approved the bond and the defendant returned to his office.

"We are ready for immediate trial," said State's Attorney Wayman.

May Be a Prison Sentence.

Conviction on the charge specified in the indictment will carry with it an alternative penalty, discretionary with the trial jury. There may be a penitentiary sentence of from one to five years' imprisonment or the defendant may be committed to the county jail for not more than one year and in addition fined not more than $1,000.

Return of the indictment ended a day crowded with rumors of impending action. The grand jury, it was disclosed, had been ready to vote a true bill last week and Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Marshall worked through Saturday and part of Sunday so that the document might be ready on Monday. New evidence, however, continued to come in and the presentation was delayed in order that several witnesses might be heard and the investigation's tag ends might be rounded up.

The decision to report the indictment was reached when State's Attorney Wayman, Assistant Victor P. Arnold, who had examined the witnesses, and Assistant Robert Crowe, who had been in charge of most of the "outside work," agreed that the case was holeproof and nothing was to be gained by further delay. Pending investigations of several details, however, will be continued.

Witnesses Heard by Jury.

Witnesses whose names appeared on the back of the indictment as having been heard by the grand jury are the following:

HARRY T. STACY, confessed go-between in the negotiations between Attorney Erbstein and Juror Grant McCutchen.

GRANT McCUTCHEN, juror who has confessed he and Stacy each received $125 from the $250 alleged to have been paid by Erbstein.

THOMAS HOGAN, in Erbstein's office.

ALICE MORAN, stenographer in Erbstein's office.

E. M. HUTTNER, in Erbstein's office.

GEORGE M. CUMMEROW, attorney associated with Erbstein.

SCOTT ROGAN, attorney in Erbstein's office.

JOHN G. RAUM, attorney in Erbstein's office.

DAVID MURPHY, clerk.

WALTER WESTON, clerk in the office of Secretary of State James A. Rose at Springfield.

Except as to David Murphy, the testimony given by these witnesses before the grand jury has become known in the main. Neither Mr. Wayman nor his assistants, however, would disclose what Murphy had stated. The mystery with which his information was surrounded excited comment in the Criminal court building.

Mrs. McCutchen's name did not appear on the back of the indictment for the reason that she was not a witness before the grand jury, but made her statement in the presence of the county prosecutor and several assistants. It being taken down by a stenographer. Her name can be added to the list of witnesses later before the trial, which may take place within a month.

Gives New Details of Scandal.

Several important details of the bribery scandal that have not become public are cleared up by the allegations of the indictment.

Aug. 28 last is specified as the date on which the alleged attempt to influence Juror McCutchen "corruptly and feloniously" was made by Attorney Erbstein. On that day, it is set forth, Stacy communicated to McCutchen that Browne's lawyer had made an offer and promises, thus establishing the connection that later is said to have resulted in the payment of cash. Stacy's name, however, is not mentioned, either in this connection nor elsewhere in the indictment.

Also, but without a specification of the time or other circumstances, Erbstein is said to have talked directly with McCutchen and said to him:

"I know just what you want. You don't want to be working for the Adams Express company all your life. I will take care of you, Mac. You will be taken care of well, financially and with a good position."

The only sum of money mentioned in the indictment is $100, which it is charged Erbstein in person paid to McCutchen in person, some time after the offer to "take care of" him and give him "a good position." This sum, as McCutchen told in his confession, the juror kept. Subsequent payments of $50 and $100 to Stacy, who told the grand jury he paid McCutchen $25 out of the $50, are not referred to.

Erickson Is Not Named.

Neither is any mention made in the indictment of Representative Fred E. Erickson, who is a nominee for reelection in the Twenty-first senatorial district. According to the grand jury testimony of Stacy, it was Erickson who took him at midnight to where he met Erbstein, who drove up in an automobile on Milwaukee avenue. Erickson, according to Stacy, then slipped away and left him to talk with the lawyer regarding McCutchen.

Seven counts set for the alleged crime in the indictment as drawn by Assistant State's Attorney Marshall. Six of the seven are "in pairs"—that is, the first of each pair recites that an "offer, promise, gift, and gratuity, of a kind and character unknown to the grand jurors," was made to McCutcheon by Erbstein. The second count in each pair makes the same statement of facts but alleges that the gift was $100.

Counts one and two give the fullest details of the alleged transaction. Counts four and five are more condensed. Counts six and seven are based upon a precedent-approved by the Supreme courts of several states. The other count, No. 3, sets forth the alleged bribery in the words of section 33 of the bribery statute without specifying the circumstances as they appear elsewhere in the document.

Offer of Cash and Job.

Erbstein's offer to McCutchen of cash and a good job are alleged in the fourth count, where it is further charged that "Erbstein meant and intended thereby that the said McCutchen would be well paid and taken care of financially by said Erbstein by the payment of money to be paid by Erbstein and that Erbstein would take care of McCutchen, juror, by obtaining for him a good position and employment better and more remunerative than the position then held by McCutchen, if McCutchen as a juror would corruptly find and vote for and bring in a verdict for said Lee O'Neil Browne, or hang said jury, to the end that McCutchen might be unlawfully, knowingly, and feloniously bribed and corrupted as a juror by the promise and offer of said gift and gratuity."

Following the offer, it is charged that Juror McCutchen "then, there, and thereby was bribed and corrupted by the said Charles E. Erbstein in relation to the verdict in said case" of Lee O'Neil Browne.

After he had given his $10,000 bond, Mr. Erbstein said:

"Mr. Wayman has been trying to indict me for two years and now he has succeeded, but wait."

Refuses to Talk of Trial.

Asked when he would be ready to go to trial or if he wished to make any statement regarding his side of the case, Mr. Erbstein referred inquirers to his attorney, James T. Brady.

"I don't want to say anything at present," said Mr. Brady. "I haven't even had time to examine the indictment."

"How is your nerve?" some one asked Erbstein.

"You don't see my hand shaking, do you?" he retorted, holding out his left hand.

While waiting in the office of Assistant State's Attorney Fairbank during the preparation of the bond, he posed for a flashlight photograph as he stood beside Mr. Brady.

State's Attorney Wayman was not in his office in the morning, although he left his home at 7 a. m., and his absence, in connection with other circumstances, stirred rumors regarding an investigation said to have been carried on outside the Criminal Court building.

Eludes His Pursuers.

When Bert E. Betts, the official stenographer, received a telephone summons and hurried out the Michigan street exit, a notebook showing in a coat pocket, newspaper reporters slipped out in pursuit and followed at a distance on the opposite side of the street. Detectives Kerr, Oakey, and Murrane, however, were on watch and their whistles warned Betts, who dodged into the Revere house and eluded his pursuers. He was gone two hours and refused to say where he had been.

Mr. Wayman did not come to his office until 2 p. m. He also had nothing to say regarding his absence and renewed his refusal at 5:30 p. m., when he started for home. In the meanwhile, but previous to the return of the Erbstein indictment, there was a series of conferences that indicated the investigation was being pushed in an undisclosed direction.

Adds to List of Scandals.

The indictment of Attorney Erbstein adds one more to the long list of scandals that have resulted from the two trials of Minority Leader Browne. Following the first trial, the parents of Juror Oscar Morford told of alleged efforts to reach and influence their son in favor of the defendant. On this testimony an indictment was voted against John Malloy, a grocer.

What Judge Kersten styled "an outrage" and a travesty on justice" developed during the examination of talesmen for the second jury. Veniremen told of being approached by "investigators" for the defense, and so generally was this method found to have been adopted that, following his interrogation of talesmen, he dismissed two entire venires of nearly 100 each and parts of two others. William Lavin, now a fugitive from justice, was indicted for telling Venireman McLaren that "Wayman packed the first Browne jury."

The same special grand jury that indicted Lavin also indicted George F. Gloss, a motorman on the Ogden avenue line, on a charge of perjury.

ROOSEVELT ISSUE IN EMPIRE STATE

FIGHT IS MANY SIDED.

Republicans Assert Upstate Will Swamp Tammany Vote in New York City.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 2.—[Special.]—New York is alive with an issue of large importance to the state and nation. Involved therein is, first, the question of good government; second, the question of the extension of the power of Tammany from the city of Father Knickerbocker to the farthest boundaries of the state, and, third, the question of whether money continues to be omnipotent in New York political events.

Involved in it also is the personality of Theodore Roosevelt and the extent of the political influence he enjoys in the community over which he presided as governor. Indeed, Col. Roosevelt has become the center of the whirlpool in which the state is plunged.

If Mr. Roosevelt's candidate, Henry L. Stimson, be triumphant the credit of the victory will belong to him, for before he entered the campaign it was generally accepted that the Republicans were beaten. If the Democratic candidate, John A. Dix, be elected, Roosevelt's enemies will delight in describing the result as a rebuke to the alleged third term aspirations of the former president. In the one case, the entire country will realize his power and he will practically determine the next presidential candidate of the Republican party. In the other, his influence will be undermined and the Old Guard will insist that his influence is at an end.

People Interested in Colonel.

The fact that Stimson is running, good man as he generally is recognized to be, is lost sight of by the great mass of the people in the dominating personality of Col. Roosevelt. They are interested to a slight extent in Stimson, because of his record in connection with the prosecution of the sugar trust, and the sugar trust officials. But they are more deeply interested in the man who so strenuously is advocating Stimson's election. They want to see this man whom all the world has acclaimed, they want to hear him, and Democrats as well as Republicans listen to his body blows at Democracy, at Tammany and at Dix in this, his last tour through northern New York.

Mr. Roosevelt does not convince every one, to be sure. The Democrats assert that his attitude toward the men asking him questions is one of irritability and has caused the loss of a great many votes to his candidate.

But, on the other hand, Mr. Roosevelt has made many converts and has brought home to thousands the necessity of exercising their right of suffrage and of supporting Stimson as against the alliance of Tammany and Wall street.

State in Two Divisions.

New York, politically, is divided into two geographical divisions. In the populous region known as Greater New York City, where there are congregated more than five million persons, Democracy, as wet nursed, tutored and guided by Tammany, has absolute control. In the stretch of territory running north and west from the city Republicanism is triumphant. The success of the Republican party in the election is determined largely by the majority it brings down to the boundaries of Bronx and by the falling off in the Democratic vote therein.

So, in reaching any conclusion whatever about the conditions in the Empire state, it is necessary to make two distinct and separate inquiries, one in the area outside of New York City and the other in the city itself. I have investigated the northern and western sections and it must be said that the information I obtained does not warrant the claim of the Democrats to the heavy reduction in the size of the Republican vote.

Upstate the Democrats concede 75,000, which the Republicans say is ridiculous. The latter assert they will be disappointed if they do not roll up 150,000 and that they would not be surprised if they got 200,000 majority. This, however, seems to be campaign talk and if the figures were put around 125,000 or 130,000 it might be nearer the truth.

Western Counties Give Basis.

This estimate is more or less guesswork. It is based upon figures which have been carefully compiled in fourteen counties of western New York and which show a Republican majority of 28,000 alone. These figures I regard as accurate but conservative. They show a falling off from the previous years when the presidential candidates were not running, but not to such an extent as to show any serious defection.

Nor must the fact be lost sight of that W. R. Hearst's campaign will cut into the Democratic vote. There are so many angles to the campaign that even those who are involved in it despair of making them fully understood by the people or are unable to forecast the effect they will have upon the vote.

As has already been said, the overshadowing issue is that between Col. Roosevelt on the one hand and Tammany and Wall street on the other. As is generally known, Tammany dictated the nomination of Dix and there is indubitable evidence that Wall street has contributed money to the Democratic campaign fund for the purpose of beating Stimson and thus, in its opinion, destroying Roosevelt.

Raise Cry of "Panic."

There also is indubitable evidence that this money has been used upstate and, in addition, that the business men have been urged to vote the Democratic ticket on the ground if Dix should win and the apprehension of Roosevelt grow, a panic will be precipitated.

It is believed that the "old guard," which was turned down in favor of Roosevelt by the Saratoga convention, is working secretly against the Republican ticket, hoping through its defeat once more to regain its power. In any event, it is not actively engaged in behalf of Stimson.

The men who suffered through the destruction of the business of horseracing, in consequence of legislation obtained by Gov. Hughes in this connection, have ceased to talk of personal liberty, but believe that a change in the state administration will be advantageous to their interests, and will so vote.

The campaign of the Democrats has been conducted largely on two issues, the alleged aspirations of Col. Roosevelt to return to the presidency and the high cost of living. Republican corruption in the state has been largely discussed, but it has been lost sight of since the Democrats also were involved in much the same situation existing in New York as has prevailed in Illinois, to the disgust of its decent citizens.

Oppose Friendship with Boss.

Col. Roosevelt has been asked why he should refuse to recognize Senator Lorimer of Illinois, and at the same time do business with certain bosses upstate, notably Greiner, the Republican boss of Erie county. But the people, except in Buffalo, take only a comparatively slight interest in the colonel's attitude toward Greiner since he compassed the defeat of Vice President Sherman, Barnes, the Republican boss of Albany; Aldridge of Rochester, and others who were far more influential.

The Democrats also charge Col. Roosevelt with inconsistency upon the tariff, berate him for the principles he enunciated in his Osawatomie speech, and get what ammunition they can from his service as president of the United States.

CHARLES E. ERBSTEIN

UNITED ATTACK ON ROOSEVELT BY NEW YORK DEMOCRATS.

Former President Is Accused of Bearing False Witness and Double Dealing in Politics.

New York, Nov. 2.—[Special.]—Theodore Roosevelt tonight was the target of the oratorical broadsides fired in the meeting at Carnegie hall, which marked the opening of John A. Dix's personal campaign in Greater New York. All of the speakers denounced Roosevelt's sayings and political actions, and a letter from Mayor Gaynor was read in which the former president was bitterly attacked.

Dix himself charged Roosevelt with willful falsehood in the wall paper trust charges made by the former president. He accused Roosevelt of double dealing in joining hands with W. R. Hearst, whom four years ago Roosevelt "branded as responsible for the bullet which made him president."

Says Office Is Disgraced.

He declared Roosevelt was the first man who had held the highest office in the country who afterwards "caused the people to blush" by his "threats, abuse, and public misrepresentation." Dix referred to Roosevelt's "reckless utterances and misrepresentation concerning one of the most distinguished jurists of the country," and pointed to his "assaults on the courts and upon the freedom of the press."

During the early part of his address Mr. Dix was interrupted by a woman who demanded a statement of his position on equal suffrage. After several interruptions the woman was removed by police.

Gaynor Indorsement of Dix.

Mayor Gaynor's letter, which was his first public indorsement of the Dix campaign, was sent because the mayor's voice was too weak to permit him to speak. In it he referred to the corruption at Albany and declared Dix to be the man needed to stop such acts. He said the convention did a service to public decency by refusing an alliance with political scamps and denied flatly the assertion that Dix was selected and nominated by Tammany Hall.

Martin W. Glynn, who was a candidate for the nomination at the Albany convention, devoted most of his address to what he termed the political vagaries of Roosevelt. "What he affirms today he denies tomorrow," said Mr. Glynn. "At Saratoga he spends a day fighting for what he calls decent citizenship; everywhere else he spends all his time in the indecent crusade of bearing false witness against his neighbor."

MAC VEAGH PLEADS FOR TAFT

Secretary of the Treasury Asks Ohio to Back Native Son.

KNOX ALSO TALKS FOR HIM.

Tells Voters President Is the Real Issue in Their State.

Toledo, O., Nov. 2.—"As the twig is bent in 1910 the tree will be inclined in 1912," declared Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh in an address here tonight, in which he urged Ohio Republicans to stand by their colors, to keep in power the Republican party, "the most powerful political organization of progress existing today in any nation of the world," and to indorse William H. Taft, "already laden with practical and permanent triumphs and not in any degree near the end of his broad and wise plans and purposes of public usefulness."

Acknowledging fear of possible defeat for the Republican party in the coming elections, Mr. MacVeagh said that the "demand of the time, therefore, so far as we Republicans are concerned, is that we shall each and all 'sit up nights' to think out ways to secure the triumph of the party and to think out ways of keeping it in power."

Knox Defends President.

Columbus, O., Nov. 2.—Declaring President Taft the real issue of the political campaign in Ohio, proclaiming the Payne-Aldrich tariff law "the broadest measure of practical reciprocity" ever enacted, and affirming that recent progressive legislation had done more to confirm the Republican party as "a party of constructive progress than anybody of substantive law since Abraham Lincoln's death," Secretary of State Philander C. Knox appealed to the Republicans of Ohio tonight to indorse the achievements of their native son when they go to the polls next Tuesday.

"However much you may be assured that the great issues in this campaign are local," said Secretary Knox, "it is not so. They are national. However much the Democratic party may desire victory in other states, it is as nothing compared with its frantic hopes to defeat the Republican ticket in Ohio and thus arm itself for 1912 with the cry that Ohio has condemned the Taft administration, has repudiated her own son.

Fears Internal Dissensions.

"The issue is the party's life and it cannot die unless it is destroyed by its own members, and it should not be destroyed now that we stand on the threshold of better things. The great reformer who drove out the money changers did not find it necessary to pull down the temple."

Secretary Knox appealed to the Republicans of the state to forget their party differences and expressed the assurance that they would rise above trifling considerations, "support their ticket as a whole, and send to Washington the benediction, 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant.'"

M'KINLEY THINKS G. O. P. WILL WIN

Chairman of Congressional Committee Takes Roseate View of Prospects.

LETTER IS SENT TO TAFT.

Have Made Gains in Districts Lost Two Years Ago, Says Illinoisan.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2.—President Taft today made public a letter from Representative W. B. McKinley, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, in which he takes a roseate view of Republican prospects at next Tuesday's election.

Mr. McKinley has been optimistic from the outset of the campaign and his letter to the president regarding the situation is enthusiastic to a marked degree. He indicates that in his opinion the Democrats haven't the slightest chance of gaining a majority in the next house.

Making Gains, He Says.

Mr. McKinley's letter follows:

"Chicago, Oct. 28, 1910—Dear Mr. President: It gives me great pleasure to inform you that every sign points to Republican control of the house of representatives in the Sixty-second congress. This information is based upon what I believe to be reliable reports from practically every one of the so-called 'doubtful' districts. We have made and are making substantial gains in districts which were lost in the election two years ago by a narrow margin.

"Three months ago pessimistic Republicans and optimistic Democrats expressed the belief that this was a Democratic year. Their prediction was not shared by yourself or others charged with responsibility for carrying forward the Republican campaign. I am pleased to advise you that there has been a decided change in sentiment in the last few weeks. Democratic hopes are fading and Republicans generally are now enthusiastic in their belief that while this may have been a Democratic year in July, it is a Republican year in November.

"In your letter to me of Aug. 20, 1910, you state that the question was not what complexion of Republicanism one prefers, but whether it is better for the country to have a Republican party control the legislation for the next two years and further redeem its promises, or to enable a Democratic majority in the house either to interpose a veto to Republican measures, or to formulate and pass bills to carry out Democratic principles.

Party United, He Declares.

"Your clear and just analysis of Republican principles and your brief outline of the great work to which your administration is committed, was adopted by the Republican congressional committee as the slogan of this campaign. The differences within the party which were manifested in the two sessions of the present congress have been composed on the basis of your letter and a militant and united party is approaching the biennial election with confidence of deserved victory.

"We have sought to make this a campaign of education, and while in some districts the real issues are obscured by local questions and personal animosities, I am convinced that our literature and our speakers have brought home to the voters as a whole a realization of the fact that Democratic success in the congressional elections this year would be a staggering blow to national prosperity, would impede, if not prevent, the enactment of all useful and progressive legislation, and would make legitimate business the plaything of politics for two years.

"I take this opportunity to thank you for your genuine and valuable cooperation with the committee in this campaign. We have made a clean, straightforward fight for the great principles of the Republican party and I am looking with the greatest possible confidence to the result.

"WILLIAM B. MCKINLEY, Chairman."

MANY FORGET CONTEST RULE

Forfeit Votes as Rules; This Is Time to Work Hard.

Suppose you were asked to take a hand in the new game, or a game you never had played, what would be your first question? Wouldn't it be, "What are the rules, and how is it played?" THE TRIBUNE'S great house and lot contest is in the nature of a game, a contest of wits, perseverance, energy, hustle, of every faculty which you possess, a contest in which there are many players. Over a month ago THE TRIBUNE announced the contest and published full and explicit rules for the contest. When you entered the contest it was your first duty to learn the rules of the game. Did you?

The question is asked in a heart to heart talk with all contestants, for there are a number of them who still do not know the rules. This is evidenced by the fact that yesterday and the day before many October coupons, which were marked clearly "not good after Nov. 1," were sent in. The contest editor repeatedly has urged you to send in your coupons early, to keep in mind the dates of the coupons, and to be sure and have them sent in before the date of expiration.

In furtherance of this end THE TRIBUNE began to print the November coupons a full week before Nov. 1. Yet a number of contestants neglected to send in their October coupons on time, and now these will be a loss.

Remember the Rules.

Remember the rules! Note that the present series of coupons is marked "not good after Nov. 15." That clearly means that they must be sent in by Nov. 15. It could mean nothing else. Within a week a later series of coupons will be printed, coupons which will be valid up to Dec. 1. The same general rule will apply to these—they must be sent in before the date of expiration. After that a final set of coupons, good from Dec. 1 to Dec. 10, the closing date of the contest, will be issued. It is needless to tell you to send these coupons in on time, for midnight on Dec. 10 will mark the final hour of the great contest, and any votes sent in thereafter will meet the waste basket fate.

You have had and will have ample time to send in your coupons. The end of each series has been and will be printed a number of days before the date of expiration, and the new series begins promptly. It is too bad you should lose votes, and in most cases the loss is not the fault of contestants, but of people who are sending in voting coupons to help them. So warn your friends and the subscribers you have won as to the rules of the contest, impress upon them the necessity for sending in their votes promptly, or, better still, have them send you their votes every day and then turn them in to THE TRIBUNE yourself.

This Is the Time to Work.

It is unnecessary to warn you that the days of the great contest are drawing toward a close. Now is your time to get in your best efforts, to make a driving finish to your campaign, to derive the benefits from its cumulative force and from the widespread general interest which the contest has aroused. Do it now! Put in all your spare hours and work a little every day, if only to maintain the advantage you have gained and to prepare for your "big days" later in the week and month.

Above all things, read the wording of the voting coupons which THE TRIBUNE prints every day, read the daily announcements, and keep in touch with the progress of the contest.

Why The Tribune Prints More Advertising Than Any Other Chicago Newspaper

Advertising is just news—the news that the stores want customers to know about, but that honest newspapers cannot publish free. So the newspapers set aside some of their columns for the news of the stores, and the merchants pay for the space at so much a line. In order that its readers may be able to judge for themselves how much free news and how much paid-for news they are getting, The Tribune prints the two kinds in different styles of type.

After the merchants buy the space for their store news, they must fill that space with what they wish their customers to know about. Some of them have regular editorial and art departments for this purpose, and very wisely spend a great deal of money in writing and picturing their store news. He would be a foolish merchant who would spend several thousand dollars for the space to talk to his customers, and then fill that space with words that did not mean anything, or pictures that were badly drawn.

During the past ten months, The Chicago Tribune has made frequent use of its own advertising columns to tell its readers what advertising really means, and why they should read it. To many people, there is more concrete money value in reading store news than in reading the other kind. It is a wise thing for every reader of a newspaper to know where the best things may be bought at the best prices, and to learn to be discriminating and economical in purchasing. The advertising columns of The Tribune teach all this and more.

In the preceding ten months, The Tribune has used no less than 1,162 columns (166 pages) of its own advertising space to talk to its readers about advertising. At regular rates, this space would cost about $100,000. In this way Tribune readers have been taught how to appreciate advertising and have responded quickly to it. That is one reason why The Tribune printed more paid advertising than any other newspaper in the six largest cities in the United States.

To those readers (they averaged in number 173,701 daily, and 295,412 Sunday, during 1909)—the most intelligent readers of advertising in Chicago, have recently been added more than 47,000 new daily and 55,000 new Sunday readers, whose education in reading and appreciating advertising has already begun. These new readers formerly read some other newspaper, but have been attracted to The Tribune by its merit as a newspaper and by the fact that they can now buy it for the same price as they had to pay for a smaller paper. Perhaps, too, they realized that The Tribune printed far more advertising than any other newspaper, and for that reason offered them greater opportunities to purchase wisely and economically.

The education of these new readers in the appreciation of advertising has already begun. They will read this page, and others to follow, and soon they will be far more responsive to advertising than they ever were when they were readers of some other newspaper. The merchants already realize this fact, and are talking to Tribune readers more and oftener than they ever did before. And it will pay them well to do so.

Here is a comparison of the opportunities to purchase from advertising, offered to their respective readers by the newspapers of Chicago for the month of October, 1910:

SENATOR BREIDT IS MADE A TARGET

North Kedzie Avenue Improvement Association Is Behind Charges.

WORKS FOR OPPONENT.

Business Men Adopt Resolutions Asking Votes for Johan Waage, a Democrat.

State Senator Herman H. Breidt—candidate for reelection—is the latest member of the last legislature to be the object of accusations. The charge is made by the executive committee of the North Kedzie Avenue Improvement association, which declares that the legislator three years ago demanded $1,000 as "attorney's fee" to use his influence to have a part of Kedzie avenue made a boulevard.

It was learned yesterday that the committee, at a meeting last Monday night, adopted resolutions setting forth the $1,000 demand of the senator from the Twenty-fifth senatorial district, declaring him unfit to represent his district in the legislature and pledging the club's support to Johan Waage, his Democratic opponent.

Tell Voters of Alleged Demand.

President Victor L. Hanson of the club said last evening the accusations were to be given publicity to show to the voters of the district the manner of man who was seeking reelection. The resolutions are to be presented to the entire club at a meeting to be held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Max Sheuer hall, Armitage and Kedzie avenues. The resolutions follow:

"Whereas, Be it known to the citizens of the Twenty-fifth senatorial district that a committee from the North Kedzie Avenue Improvement club held an audience with State Senator Breidt in a public improvement capacity, and,

"Whereas, In reply to their request Senator Breidt stated that he would attend to the committee's request for the sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000), and,

"Whereas, We find by careful observation said Senator Breidt unfit and unqualified as senator of the Twenty-fifth senatorial district.

"Be it resolved, That the North Kedzie Improvement club do hereby indorse Johan Waage the Democratic candidate for state senator."

Explains the Incident.

Joseph Kempf, one of the members of the committee that waited on the senator with the club's request, was asked in the evening about the circumstances of the alleged demand made by Senator Breidt.

"Well, we had been trying to have Kedzie avenue boulevarded from Palmer square to Humboldt park," he said. "All of the property owners were favorable and the club several times sent committees to see the west park board about the matter. We always got the reply that the board had insufficient funds for the improvement.

"The club finally appointed a committee to wait upon the senator, as some thought that political influence might help us. I in company with six or seven other members of the committee, called upon Mr. Breidt one evening at his home—it was in the spring of 1907. We told Mr. Breidt we wanted him to use his political influence and the influence of his office to help us get the boulevard.

"'Influence don't go a great way,' he said, 'but if you can raise $1,000 for legal advice I think you can get what you want.'

"I said we didn't want legal advice, but a boulevard.

"He explained that he couldn't do anything without the attorney's fee. That was all we could do.

"Just before the next meeting was called to order I sounded some of the property owners, as did others, and we saw that no such sum as that could be raised. The committee presented its report and the club members expressed their surprise at the demand, but we agreed nothing could be done and that we had better say nothing of the matter."

Other members of the committee who went to see the senator were said to include Magnus Johnson, B. Jakobs, John Stoltenberg, Math Walsh, J. E. Pierson, and C. H. Nielson.

Mr. Breidt could not be found last night at his residence, 3052 North Hamlin avenue. It was said that he was out in the city some place. After midnight repeated telephone calls elicited no reply at the residence.

OPEN VERDICT IN THE CASE OF GIRL KILLED BY AUTO.

Coroner's Jury Refuses Either to Hold Driver or Exonerate Him—Victim's Relative Resents Suicide Suggestion.

The coroner's jury investigating circumstances surrounding the death of Miss May McClelland, who was run down by an automobile driven by Charles F. Hummel at Superior and Rush streets Oct. 28, returned an open verdict yesterday, refusing either to hold the driver to the grand jury or to exonerate him.

The possibility that Miss McClelland might have committed suicide was suggested at the inquest held at the Gavin morgue, 662 North Clark street by Hummel, the defendant chauffeur. He said that he thought Miss McClelland threw herself in front of his machine at the time of the accident.

"Such a suggestion is outrageous," said Thomas S. McClelland, an uncle of the girl with whom she made her home at 226 East Erie street. "There was no reason under the sun why she should kill herself. She was always punctual about the hour she arrived home, and she got to this crossing just at the time she regularly did.

"Her brother, William McClelland of Livingston county, might bring action against the automobile company, but he did not seem inclined to do so when he was here to attend the funeral. I do not think I will take any action in the matter."

RECKLESS POLICEMEN FINED.

Indiscretion in the use of revolvers resulted in fines for three policemen yesterday. A similar charge against a fourth member of the force was continued for one week by the police trial board. Another policeman, William R. Loney of the West North avenue station, was fined ten days' pay on a charge of intoxication.

The policemen accused of reckless use of revolvers were:

Martin Halland, who shot his son, William Halland; fined thirty days' pay.

Patrick Martin; shot Aziel Tillman, 10 years old; fined fifteen days' pay.

Sergt. Michael J. Crowe; threatened Mrs. Mina B. Weber, his tenant, with a revolver; fined two days' pay.

Thomas F. Crotty; shot Horace P. Dresser in the leg; case continued one week.

John Thorssen, dog catcher at the pound, who was absent from duty without leave, was fined five days' pay.

Rudolph Spreckels in Chicago.

Rudolph Spreckels of San Francisco passed through Chicago yesterday stopping at the La Salle hotel and leaving for the east in the evening.

Editha Phelps, and Miss Lillian Carr, a school teacher.

Police Talked Real Gruff.

"The police were terribly brutal to us," said Miss Franklin, after returning to strike headquarters, at 275 La Salle street. "They grabbed us by the arm and talked real gruff. They also used their clubs dreadfully on some inoffensive boys who wouldn't move fast enough to suit them."

The riot near Mrs. Robins' residence broke out late in the afternoon, when a crowd of 5,000 strikers and sympathizers attacked and partly wrecked the tailor shop of A. Lott & Co., West Ohio and Bickerdike street. The mob entered the building, dragged the sewing machines into the street and stoned the place. Nearly every window in the building was broken.

More than a dozen strikers were cut and bruised in a fight which followed with the police. A riot call was sent in and wagon loads of policemen responded from the West Chicago avenue and the Rawson street stations. Inspector Healy took personal charge of the police, but the rioters were so fierce that reserves had to be summoned from the Desplaines street station. The police then charged the mob with drawn revolvers and clubs.

Many Knocked Down.

Many of the rioters were struck by the clubs wielded by the police and several were knocked down and trampled on in the rush for safety. Some of the men in the crowd were picked up later with gashes in their heads, bleeding from injuries received in the fight.

Twenty of the most persistent rioters were arrested and locked up at the West Chicago avenue station. All the employés in the place quit work and joined the mob when the riot started.

The attack on the police, led by 14 year old Josie Milewski, occurred shortly after the noon hour at the shop of Kuh, Nathan and Fisher, West North avenue and Wood street. She was arrested with Frank Brez, 21 years old, 1628 Kenmore avenue, and locked up at the Rawson street station.

A force of pickets and strikers forced their way into the building, while others smashed windows, when the police arrived in response to a riot call. Just as the police began charging the crowd, the girl yelled:

"Get together, men; charge them. Go for the police."

Police Pound Rioters with Clubs.

About 200 strikers responded to her call and attempted to make a sweeping charge on the bluecoats. Then the police rained blows on the heads of the mob, finally dispersing them.

In a riotous outbreak in front of the shop of Fred Shau, 1106 West Huron street, Policeman Carroll Johnson of the West Chicago avenue station was injured severely by bricks and stones hurled at him by a mob of 300 strikers. Johnson was alone at the place when the mob attacked the shop and, single handed, he attempted to guard the place. He was taken home in an ambulance and was said to be in a serious condition.

Eight of the rioters were arrested and locked up at the West North avenue station charged with inciting to riot.

Outbreaks also occurred in front of B. Kuppenheimer & Co.'s shop at 1001 Bloomingdale road, and in front of the shop of Cohen & Co., 1522 North Ashland avenue. Many of the windows in the Cohen shop were broken.

MACKAY HOST OF OPERATORS AT INAUGURAL OF OPERA.

Postal Telegraph Company Head Reserves 100 Seats at Eleventh Hour and Will Entertain Employes.

Ninety heads of departments of the Postal Telegraph company in Chicago will form the largest single opera party at the performance of Verdi's romantic opera, "Aida," in the Auditorium theater tonight. They will be the guests of Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Postal Telegraph company, who also is chairman of the executive committee of the Chicago grand opera company.

Mr. Mackay wired to the Chicago management yesterday afternoon from New York requesting that a block of 100 seats be reserved for him in some part of the house. With the house practically sold out it was difficult to comply with the eleventh hour demand for accommodation, but, with much shifting and changing the seats were secured, and the party of telegraph employés will be largely in one section of the house.

Several days ago Mr. Mackay sent word ahead that telegraphers in Chicago would be his guests, and there was immediately a scurrying to libraries for copies of the libretto.

On subsequent nights Mr. Mackay plans to entertain at the opera all other employés of the Postal system, including the corps of messenger boys. He will arrive here from New York on the Twentieth Century limited today.

Admit Patten Will to Probate.

The will of the late George W. Patten, brother of James A. Patten, millionaire board of trade member, was formally admitted to probate before Assistant Judge Ninian H. Welch yesterday. Mr. Patten died Sept. 26, leaving a fortune estimated at about $2,400,000.

PASTOR ARRESTED; FORGERY CHARGED

The Rev. J. W. Wade of Sycamore Accused of Defrauding Mission Board.

TRACED FROM KENTUCKY.

Detectives Sit in Church and Hear Him Preach on Fate of Dishonest Men.

The Rev. J. W. Wade, pastor of the Sycamore Universalist church at Sycamore, Ill., has been arrested and today will be started on his way back to his former home, Harlan, Ky., to face a charge of forgery. He is accused of swindling the board of missions of the Presbyterian church out of $1,000.

Mr. Wade was walking through the main streets of Sycamore Saturday afternoon when two Pinkerton detectives saw him. He had a strong resemblance to a minister they had been looking for, and at once sent to Chicago for photographs. Upon receipt of the pictures they declared that they recognized in Mr. Wade a minister who fled from Harlan several months ago.

Sunday morning Mr. Wade occupied his pulpit as usual. It happened that his text allowed him to preach of the disgrace that is brought down upon the man who has committed a dishonest deed. He did not know that two detectives were seated in his congregation watching him and that officers were on their way to Sycamore with a warrant for his arrest on a charge of forgery.

Arrested on Charge of Forgery.

The following morning State's Attorney J. B. Carter arrived in Sycamore with the warrant. The clergyman at first protested that a mistake had been made. Finally he consented to accompany the officers back to Kentucky. His congregation was shocked at the news.

Mr. Wade, according to Attorney Carter, forged the names of a number of persons to receipts while he was at Harlan, where he was founding a Presbyterian school. He had been sent there by the board of missions. He is said to have collected more than $1,900. He turned into the offices of the society in New York receipts which indicated that he had paid out various sums for labor and other purposes. He is alleged to have made out the receipts himself and kept the money.

Detectives Put on Trail.

A short time afterwards he disappeared from Harlan and an officer of the society went to the Kentucky city to inquire into his affairs. Warrants were issued for his arrest and the Pinkertons were put on his trail.

Mr. Wade appeared in Sycamore about two months ago and preached two sermons in the Universalist church. He made such a good impression that he was asked to accept the pulpit. He did so, went to Chicago the same day, and was admitted as a pastor to the church.

PRESIDENT OF NICARAGUA ASKS FREEDOM OF COINER.

Cablegram to U. S. Representative Said to Have Been Sent Concerning Secrest—Not Received at Capital.

Provisional President Estrada of Nicaragua has notified Señor Arellano, Washington representative of the provisional government of Nicaragua, to request the release of H. N. Secrest, who was arrested here Oct. 22 on a charge of counterfeiting $1,500,000 worth of 5 peso notes, according to a dispatch yesterday from Managua, Nicaragua.

Advices from Washington, however, at night asserted that the state department had not been apprised of any communication received by Señor Arellano. The latter could not be found.

Secrest, who is a prisoner in the county jail, declared that he expected such action to be taken.

The communication said to have been sent to Señor Arellano explains that Secrest acted under the orders of the revolutionary leaders in having the money printed in Chicago. The order was issued before the retirement of Madriz and subsequently was canceled. Secrest, however, it states, probably received a notice of the cancellation of the order too late.

Steward to Ask Revocation of Licenses of Saloonkeepers Who Open in Polling Time.

Chief of Police Steward announced yesterday that he would recommend to the mayor that the license of every saloonkeeper found open on election day be revoked.

WOMEN WANT WRAPPED LOAF

Protected Bread Laws Sought by Chicago Reformers.

LICENSE FOR MOTORCYCLES.

Speaker Says Schoolboys Set Good Examples for Adults.

At a business meeting of the reform department of the Chicago Woman's club yesterday morning it was decided to appoint a committee whose purpose it will be to secure laws compelling all public bakers to wrap every loaf of bread made for sale to prevent the spread of disease.

It is not unusual to see bread spilled upon the sidewalks in its delivery and between the baker and the purchaser it passes through many hands. To make it germ proof, or at least clean, is the effort of the club women.

Still another activity which the department purposes inaugurating is the licensing of motorcycles. Motorcyclists at present are permitted to run riot without either license or number, although the danger to pedestrians is almost as great as from the automobiles from which both are demanded by the city.

That the efficiency which the high school boy demands of the baseball players and other athletes representing the schools and colleges sets the example of high mark for the adult in politics and all civic interest was the idea brought out by Henry W. Thurston at a symposium on "The School and the Community," discussed before the education department and civic committee of the Chicago Woman's club in the morning.

BRIDE ARRESTED AS THIEF PUTS BLAME ON "HIGHBALLS."

Mrs. Margaret Seaborn Takes $60 Muff in Store—Says She Doesn't Remember Stealing It.

A woman, who gave the name of Mrs. Margaret Seaborn and said she lived at 3100 Groveland avenue, was arrested in a State street department store yesterday on a charge of larceny. She told Detective Guy Biddinger that she was the wife of H. A. Seaborn, a railroad clerk. James Lyons, a saloonkeeper at Thirty-first street and Shields avenue, signed bonds in the amount of $900 and she was released.

Mrs. Seaborn was detected taking a muff valued at $60. She told the police that she had been drinking and did not know what happened.

"It's a case of too many highballs," she said, "and I have no recollection of picking up the muff or walking off with it."

Mrs. Seaborn claimed that her father, a Detroit dentist, was a relative of former Mayor Carter H. Harrison. She was married in June.

SOUTH CHICAGO REALTY MAN KILLED IN DEPOT ACCIDENT.

Steps from Train, Falls to Tracks, Fracturing Skull, and Trucks Smash Ribs —Dies at Residence.

Louis Fry, 9037 Exchange avenue, South Chicago, a wealthy real estate dealer, was injured fatally last night after he had stepped from a south bound Illinois Central train at the Ninety-first street station of the road. He fell from the platform to the tracks. He was removed to his residence suffering from a fracture of the skull and of three ribs on the right side. He died at 10 o'clock.

Harry Darling, conductor of the train, saw Fry fall and ran to his aid, pulling the unconscious victim from the tracks.

CZERNOWITZ FOLK KEEN ON TRADING

Stroll Through Market Place Shows Them Sharp in Driving Bargain.

PRAISE OF RUSSIA HEARD

Emigration Agent Likes Peasants of That Country, but They Lack Money.

BY GEORGE A. DORSEY, PH. D., LL.D

CZERNOWITZ, Bukowina, Austria, Sept. 24.—"Come on, and I will show you something," said Texas. "Now, look here, how much do you pay for this room?" "Sixty cents." "O, they ought to be all dead. What a swindle! I get a better room than this for forty cents. They swindle me because I'm American."

Down in the market place we found a shriveled little woman sitting behind some fruit. Pears were assorted according to quality. The poorest did not look fit for human beings to eat. I remarked that she would have difficulty in selling them. "Aw, don't you believe nothing. Watch me." We looked interestedly toward her stock in trade. She tried to sell us of the poorest quality, exalting the shriveled up pears as superior. "Listen to her. You would think those pears worth $1 a pound. They ain't worth a cent."

We went to another stall. I inquired the price of a pound of grapes.

"Twenty cents."

"Now, let me show you."

They wrangled for three minutes, in Yiddish, and he bought a pound of grapes for four cents.

Beggars and Peddlers.

We left the heart of the city, turned down a side street, and entered a quiet little garden, where we sat down at a table under the trees. A Jewish orchestra interspersed modern music with strange strains of Roumanian folk music, for they were Roumanian Jews. Some of the airs sounded like the Midway. After a few moments a woman approached us with a plate.

"Beggars!" exclaimed Texas. "Why don't you let a fellow alone?"

Naturally she did not understand.

"Don't you talk English?" he asked her in Yiddish. And he gave her a crown, probably a larger sum than she had received from any individual in a year.

A wizened little peddler approached.

"Good evening," said Texas. He said it in an inimitable way which could only come from a fount of innate humor so deep that I again asked him, "Are you really from Russia?"

"Why, ain't I asked you to go home with me? I've got a house and carriages and horses, the finest things you ever saw. And a garden. You ought to see that garden. This country ain't got nothing like it. Why, I can step right out of my garden into the river. It's the finest swimming in the world. That's the country for you. Russia is the best country in the world.

Speaks in Praise of Russia.

"Russia is the place. They are the most honest people in the world. You have got to come to Russia if you want to see the world. For 40 cents a day you live like a prince. That's the place for watermelons and fruit. Come over and go fishing with me. I will show you the finest fishing you ever saw in your life."

"Do you have any trouble getting Russians to go to America?"

"The only trouble is they ain't got money. I want people that have money."

"How about the peasants?" I asked.

"They are the most honest people in the world. Suppose a man promises you something and swears to it, makes the sign of the cross, you can trust him with anything. He doesn't know how to lie or steal."

Open Air Theater.

"Want to go to a show?" said Texas. I said: "No," for I suspected there was nothing in town but a cinematograph performance. "Sure, there is a theater." So we got in a cab and he told the driver our destination. We drove a long way back toward one side of the city. In front of an ordinary looking house he handed the driver 12 cents. The driver thanked him. With a stranger he would have been less content with 50 cents.

The street in which we found ourselves was an ordinary residence street, quiet and in one of the cleanest and most respectable quarters of the city. There was nothing in sight that looked like a theater. We entered what appeared to be a garden gate. After two or three turns to the right and left we were in front of a rude ticket office. Texas demanded three seats. He received three—third class tickets.

"Naw," protested Texas, "we are Americans. Give us the best you have got." Provided with three slips of yellow paper we continued walking back into the heart of a big block. Here we found an open air Yiddish theater. Two or three hundred staid family people, listening eagerly to a Yiddish performance of "Die Kluge Frau."

The stage was as simple as a Chinese theater, but without the naïveté of the latter. It is the sort of stage you would expect in a theater where the price of a first class ticket is 17 cents. The performance itself was serious and sober. The actors took themselves as seriously as the audience.

HOLDS HIS ISLAND BY FORCE

Commandant of Amapola Defies Davila to Oust Him.

U. S. GUNBOAT IS ON HAND.

Honduras Official, After Quitting Post, Changes His Mind.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2.—Back on his own island and safely intrenched behind his battery of machine guns, Gen. José Valadares, the eccentric commandant of Amapala, the Pacific port of Honduras, has openly defied President Davila to put him out of his job. The United States gunboat Princeton has been ordered to remain at Amapala until relieved.

Minister McCreery in Tegucigalpa telegraphed last night that Valadares had left the capital a few days ago with Gen. Calipto Carias, who had been designated by the president as Valadares' successor. Valadares told the president he would turn the island over to Carias.

Sends His Successor Back.

Arriving in Amapala, however, Valadares changed his mind, issued a manifesto, which he telegraphed to the president, asserting that the president was weak and unworthy and dominated by foreigners, and that he considered it his duty to resume command of Amapala. He sent Carias back to the mainland in a launch and announced that he would make trouble if any foreigners interfered.

Valadares had been governor of Amapala since 1907, when Davila became president. He always had been hostile to the administration, but was permitted to retain his office, it is said, because the president feared he might incite a revolution if an attempt to oust him was made.

Threatens Foreign Residents.

Early last month Valadares made threats against foreign residents in the place—there are only fifteen—and, at the request of President Davila, the United States sent the gunboat Princeton to Amapala. Valadares telegraphed to Davila that he would relinquish his office as soon as he could close up his accounts. When the Princeton arrived he reluctantly received Commander Hayes, and assured him he had had no trouble with foreign residents other than a controversy over some goods passing through the customs house.

Amapala has 1,500 inhabitants, including 250 well armed soldiers, said to be loyal to Valadares.

CABINET RESIGNS; AIDS BRIAND PLAN

French Premier to Form a New Body Which Will Support His Program.

RESULT OF BIG STRIKE.

Fallieres Seeks to Have United Action if Another Crisis Should Come.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, Nov. 2.—President Fallieres and Premier Briand today took drastic action to get control of the situation in France and prevent the recurrence of troubles such as the recent railway strike and the threatened revolution under the cover of the labor disturbance.

Under the leadership of Briand, the entire cabinet resigned. Then Fallieres asked the premier to form a new cabinet which would be more in harmony with their views on parliamentary programs. Most of the members of the old cabinet will be retained in the new, but several of the ministers who have opposed the views of the president and premier will be dropped.

The task of forming the new ministry will be difficult to Briand because he must offer a body satisfactory to the changing majority of the Republicans, in which a large number of Radicals are opposed to what they term Briand's conservatism. In forming the new cabinet Briand has the assistance of Leon Bourgeois, former premier; M. Clemenceau, whom M. Briand succeeded in office, and Jean Sarryen, ex-premier and ex-minister of justice.

Four Ministers to Remain.

It is likely that Foreign Minister Pichon, Minister of Commerce Dupuy, Minister of War Brun, and Minister of the Navy Lapeyrere will remain in the new cabinet. M. Millerand, minister of public works, posts, and telegraphs, and M. Viviani, minister of labor, dissented from Briand's program, and their retirement is likely to be permanent. Millerand especially was dissatisfied, insisting that the principle of arbitration should be recognized more broadly by the government.

Just what Briand's program of future legislation provided had not been made known to the public when the resignation of the cabinet was announced.

At the meeting at which Briand suggested the resignation, he thanked his comrades for having stood together in the national crisis and shouldered unitedly the harsh attack in the chamber. He said he had been violently accused, and even charged with nourishing an ambition to throttle public liberty. It was true that these attacks had been repudiated by a strong Republican majority, which voted confidence in the government, but nevertheless out of the railroad strike and out of the debate in the chamber, whose character was so exceedingly grave, new and serious problems had arisen, which must be met by a united ministry. For this reason the premier suggested the retirement of the cabinet.

Briand Winner of Fights.

Briand has been one of the strongest powers France ever had as premier. During the time he has been in office many big questions have been decided.

Briand, who was a Socialist, was made more conservative by the responsibility of power and experience. His opponents took delight in throwing in his teeth his defense of Herve in 1903, when the latter was prosecuted for his anti-military writings. At that time Briand identified himself with his client's opinions, but Herve's attitude later became more violent.

Briand was confronted on Oct. 30 by the railway strike on the Northern railroad, and which, spreading to other lines, threatened to paralyze traffic throughout the republic. He met the situation with a firmness that challenged the admiration of the world. Declaring that the strike was a rebellious movement fomented by labor leaders at the hour that the government was trying to bring about concessions in their behalf by the railroad companies, he set about to crush the movement. He broke the backbone of the strike by calling to the colors the railway employés as reservists.

PORTUGAL FACES NEW REVOLT

Soldiers Demand Promotions and Pensions from Braga.

SAILORS ALSO IN MUTINY.

People of Provinces Demand Better Men for Officers.

LISBON, Nov. 2.—Portugal is threatened with a military revolution. The Second and Fifth regiments today addressed a notification to Provisional President Braga saying they were prepared for an insurrection if they were not granted the promised promotions and pensions for helping overthrow the monarchy. The government probably will yield.

The crew of the cruiser Sao Raphael, which bombarded the royal palace during the revolutionary outbreak, has been dismissed. The crew of the cruiser Adamaster, which also fired upon the home of King Manuel, has refused to leave the vessel unless the members are guaranteed a pension of $15 a month each for life.

In order to avoid disorders it is likely that the government will grant all of these demands.

There is trouble in the provinces where the people refuse to recognize the government's appointees to positions of trust on the ground that the new officers are incapable. Disorders at the elections for members of the constituent assembly are feared.

RUMORS OF SPANISH REVOLT ARE WITHOUT FOUNDATION.

Mayor Who Sought to Win Troops Over to the Revolutionary Movement Is Arrested.

MADRID, Nov. 2.—The rumors of revolutionary outbreaks in Spain, particularly in Barcelona, are without foundation.

The Republicans have made an attempt to win over the garrison at Badajos to the side of the revolutionary movement. Mayor Santos, who asked an officer of the garrison to join in a conspiracy, has been arrested.

Señor Blasquos, president of the Federation of Young Socialists, has been arrested for anti-military speeches which he made at a massmeeting held to protest against the arrest of Prof. Ovepero of Madrid university, who has been identified with the anti-military campaign.

Shoots Woman Who Refused to Elope.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 2.—James M. Sheets shot and seriously wounded Mrs. Louise Sullivan today and then shot and killed himself because the woman refused to elope with him.

Wash That Itch Away

It is said that there are certain springs in Europe that give relief and cure to eczema and other skin diseases. If you knew that by washing in these waters you could be relieved from that awful itch wouldn't you make every effort to take a trip to Europe at once? Would you not be willing to spend your last cent to find the cure?

But you need not leave home for these distant springs. Relief is right here in your own home town!

A simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, and other ingredients, as compounded only in D. D. D. Prescription, will bring instant relief to that terrible burning itch and leave the skin as smooth and healthy as that of a child.

If you have not already tried it get at least a 25 cent bottle today. We assure you of instant relief.

"SUSPECTS" DROP IMMUNITY PLEA

Petition That Special Commission Investigate Registration Withdrawn.

MUST APPEAR IN PERSON.

Farwell Denounces Coughlin's Tactics as a "Menace to the Nation."

The immunity petition in the Circuit court of the "suspects" registered from the First and Eighteenth wards was withdrawn late yesterday afternoon. Instead of an investigation by a special commission as proposed by Ross C. Hall, attorney for the Democratic county central committee, the men to whom "suspect" notices have been sent will have to appear in person before the election commissioners and "prove up."

In addition to this the wards are being ransacked by a detail of investigators. This announcement was made before Judge Honoré by Frank D. Ayers, attorney for the commissioners. Mr. Ayers' demand that the functions of the election board be not interfered with was the death blow to the petition.

Nearly fifteen hundred "suspect" notices were sent out; almost all of them in the lodging house districts of the First and Eighteenth wards. Most of the affidavits were sworn out by the Chicago Law and Order league.

Farwell and Coughlin Clash.

The withdrawal of the petition to have the election commissioners prohibited from denying votes to the "suspects" by Attorney Hall followed a long wrangle in the course of which Arthur Burrage Farwell and "Bathhouse" John Coughlin had a brisk verbal battle. Farwell was accused of unwarrantably filing affidavits. He responded by denouncing Coughlin as the engineer "of the slickest political machine for the defeat of honest government ever constructed."

"You want an honest count?" said Farwell, ironically. "The whole fabric of decent government is menaced by the corrupt system of registering hobos in the First ward. There is a conspiracy to run 'repeaters' in your ward, and you know it. In a close contest the First ward might turn the scale in a state election and change the policy of the national government."

Farwell was summoned from his office when Attorney Hall proposed that Attorney Ayers appoint an investigation commission to visit the "suspect" districts instead of having the "suspects" come in person to the commissioner's office to be examined. Judge Honoré declared himself in favor of the plan and called for Farwell. Attorney Ayers also fought against the petition and it was withdrawn.

Apathy Shown Downstate.

General "don't care" sentiment and overconfidence by members of the party organization in the downstate districts stand in the way of the usual offyear Republican cleanup in Illinois.

These were the apathetic reports brought in to Chicago during the day by members of the executive committee of the Republican state committee, in session at state headquarters at the Grand Pacific hotel.

From southern Illinois the word was brought that conditions have changed since the St. Louis roundup and that the chances are in favor of the reelection of Congressmen Chapman, Rodenberg, and Thistlewood.

Fear that the Republican vote would not get to the polls next Tuesday caused the executive committee to issue a call to arms addressed to each of the Republican precinct committeemen in the state. The letter was sent out last night.

Sergt. Mueller to Succeed Rohan.

Sergt. Ernest Mueller, now in charge of the bureau of transportation is to receive the lieutenancy made vacant by the resignation of Lieut. Andrew Rohan. Mueller heads the eligible list and has been on the force over eighteen years. It is reported that he will be assigned to one of the outlying stations and that Lieut. Crane of the stockyards station will take Rohan's place at Central station.

O'CONNELL GIVES HIS SIDE

Discusses Southwest Land Tunnel Contract Episode.

DENIES HE AWARDED IT.

Says He Referred Matter of Forfeit to City's Counsel.

William L. O'Connell, Mayor Dunne's commissioner of public works, and now Democratic candidate for county treasurer, has taken exception to the statement that the report of the Merriam commission upon the southwest land tunnel, which was the subject of its investigations last May, will show that it was through his influence that the contract for the third section was let to Jackson & Corbett, the highest bidder, whose bid overtopped that of Joseph Henreddy, the lowest bidder, by more than $100,000.

O'Connell Gives His Side.

Relative to his handling of that contract Mr. O'Connell says:

"The facts are these:

"After a consultation with Mayor Dunne regarding this contract I transmitted all data in reference to it to the council finance committee with a complete statement as to the situation, requesting that committee to take such action in the premises as it deemed necessary. On Feb. 11, 1907, the finance committee recommended to the city council that the contract be awarded to Jackson & Corbett, the next lowest bidder, there being only two bidders for the work, the Hanreddy company and Jackson & Corbett. On Feb. 18, 1907, the city council, acting on the recommendation of the finance committee, passed an ordinance awarding this contract to Jackson & Corbett. These are the facts which the record of the proceedings of the city council will verify in every respect.

"It will, therefore, be seen that I had nothing whatever to do with the awarding of this contract, and I sincerely regret that such erroneous statements should be given publicity.

"The same article also contains a statement that I failed to forfeit Joseph Hanreddy's check for $75,000, which accompanied Hanreddy's bid. The matter was referred to Corporation Counsel Lewis, and I was advised by him that under the law I had no right to retain Mr. Hanreddy's check."

Says He Consulted Mayor.

Mr. O'Connell explained to the Merriam commission last May that the reason Hanreddy did not get the contract was that Hanreddy could not furnish bond, and then, being asked by Attorney Fisher why he did not forfeit the $75,000, he offered the explanation that he discussed the matter with Mayor Dunne and the corporation counsel and thus reached the decision to return the $75,000 to Hanreddy.

The Merriam findings are not yet reported.

G. O. P. CAMPAIGN LIVENS UP WITH TWO NOON MEETINGS.

One in Garrick Theater to Aid in the Reelection of B. B. McCormick as Head of Sanitary Board.

The Cook county campaign will speed up today, marked by two noon loop meetings, one at McVicker's theater and the other at the Garrick, and all afternoon the automobile parade boosting Frank A. Vogler for sheriff will carry the Republican enthusiasm into all sections.

George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental-Commercial National bank, is to preside at the McVicker theater meeting. Graham Taylor will be the chief speaker.

Senator Walter Clyde Jones will be the chief speaker at the Garrick theater. This gathering has been arranged by the organization of young men who are pushing the campaign in behalf of Robert R. McCormick for reelection as president of the sanitary district board of trustees. Senator Jones is prepared to handle with bare hands the insinuations which were made by the interests which oppose the reelection of President McCormick.

Denied Custody of His Child.

Theodore Beck, 728 Milwaukee avenue, was denied a writ of habeas corpus in Joliet yesterday to secure possession of his 2 year old son. Beck and wife had quarreled, it was stated in court, and Mrs. Beck had returned to Joliet to reside. The court held the child is too young to be taken from its mother.

'WETS' AND 'DRYS' POINT TO FRIENDS

Anti-Saloon League and the United Societies Issue Recommendations.

BASED ON OPTION PLEDGE

Only One Legislative Candidate Wins Indorsement in Both the Lists.

Simultaneously yesterday afternoon the Anti-Saloon league of Illinois and the United Societies for Local Self-Government made known their final positions with regard to the local option fight in the next general assembly.

The Anti-Saloon league indorsed candidates all through the state, based upon the league's platform of a pledge that the nominees will stand for county option in the next legislature rather than for the township local option law now on the statute books.

Recommendations of the United Societies to the 180,000 members combined within the organization, according to President Charles H. Kellerman, are confined to the Cook county districts and have been given to legislative candidates who stand for personal liberty in city and state.

In the two lists affecting the Cook county districts, only one candidate, George A. Miller, in the Twenty-fifth district, is indorsed by both sides.

Avoids Action on Judges.

The political action committee of the United Societies, after a long conference in the evening, determined finally to make no recommendations to the membership regarding many of the judicial candidates. This goes for the Superior, Circuit, and Municipal court candidates, and for the nominees for Probate and county judges.

The attempt was made to cause the recommendation of John E. Owens, the Hearst candidate for county judge on the Democratic slate, as against Judge Lewis Rinaker, but this failed, as did also the attempt to condemn Judge Albert C. Barnes, one of the Republican Superior court nominees. To save trouble, the judicial affair, all the way through, was left wide open. A resolution was adopted, indorsed the planks in the Democratic state and county platforms, referring to personal liberty and noted with emphasis that the Republican platforms made no references thereto.

In the "dry" list, the star affixed to the candidate's name means that he has had a legislative record in the last or previous sessions deemed satisfactory by the Anti-Saloon league. In the United Societies' list, the star indicates that the nominee has been a member of the legislature.

OFFICIALS TOLERATE SIGNS OF DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES.

Republican Administration Withholds Order to Remove Them Through Belief It Would Be Misconstrued.

The signs which disfigure lamp posts and other city property throughout Chicago are unmolested by the Republican administration because they advertise Democratic candidates.

This is due to no bi-partisan alliance, to no desire on the part of the mayor and the chief of police to elect a Democratic ticket next Tuesday, but through the belief that an order to remove the signs would be misconstrued.

Chief Steward stated yesterday that when the inundation took place he neglected to act for a day or two, thinking that the police in each district would stop the abuse without specific instructions.

When this was not done and he prepared to issue an order he was informed that practically all the lithographs were of Democratic candidates, and it was suggested that his action would be construed by certain campaign orators as a utilization of the police force by a Republican administration to tear down Democratic posters.

"But it won't happen again," he said. "I give warning now that such an abuse will not be tolerated at the next election."

Sore Throat Not a Trifling Ailment

Almost every one has had sore throat—will have it again. It is one of our most common ailments and, because it, in itself, is not fatal, is too often looked upon as a small matter, requiring little or no attention.

On the contrary it is a very serious affection because every person with Sore Throat is in danger of Tonsilitis, Quinsy, or Diphtheria and other serious maladies. In fact these diseases are almost invariably preceded by Sore Throat.

The air we breathe, the food we eat, the liquids we drink, all pass through the throat, and if that is diseased infection may be carried to every part of the system. To cure a Sore Throat often means to prevent Diphtheria or one of the other more serious throat diseases. Curing Sore Throat is TONSILINE'S special mission. It is made for that—advertised for that—sold for that one purpose. TONSILINE is the one and only Sore Throat cure which is sold over a large part of the United States. TONSILINE is so well and so skillfully prepared as a Sore Throat cure that the first dose gives decided relief, and a very few doses cure.

Remember—Sore throat is Nature's danger signal. Keep TONSILINE in the house and be on the safe side of Sore Throat. 25 cents and 50 cents. Hospital Size $1.00. All Druggists.

ONE GRAND RALLY EVANGELIST PLAN

Gipsy Smith May Join Chapman, Sunday, Monroe, and Trotter in Meeting.

200 RESPOND TO APPEAL.

North Side Audience Asked to Write Parents; Ostrom on West Side.

The greatest meeting of the Chapman-Alexander evangelistic crusade—a meeting which will bring together a quartet of noted evangelists—is planned for next Saturday night at the north side tabernacle.

On the platform and taking part in the meeting will be Dr. Chapman, "Billy" Sunday, Harry Monroe, founder of the "midnight mission," and Melvin Trotter of Grand Rapids.

If a proffered invitation is accepted, Gipsy Smith also will attend.

The meeting, which is planned as a climax to the Chapman-Alexander north side crusade, will be the first Saturday night assemblage, and Dr. Chapman promised last night that the services will be lead by fifty Chicago men who have broken the drink habit and have been converted during the crusade.

"For Saturday night I can promise you one of the best meetings ever held in Chicago," Dr. Chapman announced. "You will hear Billy Sunday Harry Monroe, and Mel Trotter You will hear fifty men who have been redeemed from drink. Come! And if you can, come to the meeting arranged for the theatrical people on Friday afternoon at the Illinois theater—there will be seats for a thousand people besides."

Refreshes Memories of Listeners.

To an audience which filled the big tabernacle, Dr. Chapman preached a straightforward evangelistic sermon.

"Many of you don't need to hear what I shall tell you, but I speak tonight to refresh your memories," he said. "You heard it back there in the years at your mother's knee. Your father, perhaps, told it to you when you left home to gain your way in the world.

"But today, in the great cities, we have become heedless, and in the rush of a busy life we have become thoughtless. God is speaking to Chicago these days and I appeal to you to come.

"If you cannot come in your own strength, he will help you. Come! The man who has turned away from Christianity has lost that which is best in manhood.

"The woman who has not accepted Christ has lost that which makes for the sweetest womanhood. The young man who has put Christianity out of his life has lost that which nerves him for the conflict of life, which makes him strong to resist temptation and steadfast in the right.

Makes Character Like Adamant.

"There is not a man in this audience who has refused Christianity who has not lost that which makes life worth living, home like heaven, and character like adamant.

"I would that I could forget that there are 5,000 people in this audience, and I would that you could forget it. I would that the man who is bound by doubt and fettered by sin could forget that I am a stranger to him. Let us forget both obstacles, and in the quiet of this moment we can transact the business of eternity. Who is there here tonight who will say, 'Tonight I will write a letter to my old mother, to my father, and tell him or her that I have accepted Christ?' O, say it, man! Answer tonight."

Two hundred upraised hands answered the hand of Chapman and a murmur of "I will" and "I do" ran through the audience. Then Chapman told incidents of many evangelistic crusades and meetings, and closed the meeting by receiving members of the audience in front of the platform.

Ostrom Leads West Side Meeting.

The west side auxiliary evangelistic meeting was lead by Evangelist Henry Ostrom at the Central Park Presbyterian church. To an audience which filled the church, he spoke from the text, "How Can God Forgive Sin?"

"Moral wrongs are not alone discussed in the pulpit," he said. "There is honor among thieves. Even the brothel has its code and enforces it. In the prize fight there are rules beyond which the fighters may not go. In the Bible the standard is placed on what is right. That standard must obtain in relation to both God and man.

"Your worth and your neighbor's worth and God's good name are all involved in how God can forgive. It shows the costliness of God's plan for forgiveness."

At the close of the service many lifted their hands in a request for prayer.

Jealousy.

(By the Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman.)

It works with blighting power in the life of the offender. It inexpressibly grieves the one against whom the offense is committed.

It has left its mark upon all the years of time. It has even left its imprint on the pages of the Bible, and, like the trail of the serpent, we trace its goings on the pages of holy writ. In the book of books we read of brother arrayed against brother, children against parents, households divided, and lives wrecked. It fairly eats away the heart of the one who is guilty and is the sharpest cause of suffering for the one against whom it is committed. It is one of the most harmful failings in the world.

Jealousy is caused by a depreciation of one's self and by lack of fair treatment of those of whom we are jealous. Sometimes it is apparent because we are tired, often when we are sick, but as a rule when we ourselves are not right.

We are jealous when we know that we have fallen below the standard of right living ourselves. Jealousy comes when we brood over wrongs which, as a rule, are imaginary and not real.

The Cure.

Make the most of your own life. Fight your failings, multiply your virtues. Make the world ashamed because it can say no evil thing against you.

Treat the one of whom you are jealous thus: Think kind things of him, render him some special service, say some good thing about him. There is no one so far fallen but that there is in him some virtue of which we may speak.

Here is a good prescription—fill it, take it, keep on taking it until you are set free:

"Get right with God."

WIFE ACCUSES AN AUTO MAKER AND LUCKY BALDWIN'S WIDOW

Mrs. Anna Howard of Los Angeles Asks Divorce—Congress Hotel Meeting Place, She Alleges.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 2.—[Special.]—An action for divorce was filed in the Superior court by Anna M. Howard, wife of William D. Howard, proprietor of the W. D. Howard Motor Car company, involving serious charges against the husband and Mrs. Lilly Bennett Baldwin, widow of Elias J. (Lucky) Baldwin.

It is alleged that in May, 1910, Howard ostensibly went to Cleveland, but in reality was at the Congress hotel, in Chicago, with Lilly Baldwin.

During the auto show in Chicago, it is alleged, Howard met Mrs. Baldwin and was often seen in her company. After the exhibition one night Mrs. Howard says she went to a hotel and saw her husband and Mrs. Baldwin enter the place, where she asserts they remained until 3 o'clock the next morning.

CAUGHT FOR CHICAGO POLICE.

B. P. Conger of Detroit Arrested in Denver—Will Be Taken to Kansas City First.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 2.—B. P. Conger of Detroit, son of the head of the United States weather bureau station there, was arrested here tonight on the charge of forgery and working a confidence game.

A telegram from Chicago police asking for his arrest started the search, but in the meantime it was learned that Conger was wanted also in Detroit, Kansas City, and Oklahoma City.

FIRE VICTIMS FIND ESCAPES CUT OFF

Hurl Themselves from Second and Third Stories of Burning Factory.

LADDERS ARE TOO SHORT.

Foreman Lowers Burned Woman with Rope of Webbing; Bookkeeper Heroine.

Fire escapes, which ended at the second floor, added to the danger and panic of sixty employes of the John Kimmeth & Co. furniture factory at Wood and Clarinda streets, which was destroyed yesterday afternoon by fire.

Three men were injured by jumping from second and third story windows, and many others received minor bruises upon dropping from the incomplete fire escapes.

Mrs. Josephine Sustman, 2169 West Twelfth street, was lowered from a window of the second floor by an improvised rope made of pieces of webbing by Foreman August Breitbart of the sewing room in which she worked. Her hair had been singed by the flames which cut off her escape by the stairway.

Two Leap from Third Story.

The injured whose names were given to the police are:

ANTHONY CUMMINGS, 1560 West Van Buren street, foreman of the finishing room, jumped from a third story window; injured internally and taken to the county hospital.

SIGMUND HOKOWITZ, 1636 North Lincoln street, cabinetmaker, jumped out of a third story window, left arm fractured and head and body severely cut and bruised; taken to the county hospital; condition not serious.

The identity of the third injured man was not discovered by the police, as he went home unassisted. He jumped from a second story window. The building was four stories high.

Bookkeeper Gives Alarm.

Miss Carolyn Berberich, 2514 Burling street, bookkeeper, when the fire was reported, ran to the upper floors giving the alarm, then returned to the office and called up the fire department. Before she left the building she put the firm's books and money in the safe and turned the combination.

The fire started in the rear of the second floor, but, on account of much inflammable material, spread with great rapidity.

Tenants in Wood and Clarinda streets, nearest the fire, moved their furniture and other belongings from their residences.

FEAR MOB MAY STORM JAIL TO LYNCH GIRL'S ASSAILANT.

Peoria Sheriff and Chief of Police Hold Deputies and Patrolmen in Reserve to Repel Expected Attack.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 2.—Fear that a mob might attack the county jail, in which Joseph Hoffman and two other assailants of women were confined, caused the county authorities to hold the entire police department and sheriff's forces on reserve tonight.

Hoffman, a young farmer, who confessed today that he attacked Miss Mazo Clark, a school teacher, last night was placed under bonds of $20,000.

CONTEST OVER ECKERT WILL.

One Son and General's Brother Seek to Have More Equitable Division of $3,000,000 Estate.

New York, Nov. 2.—[Special.]—A legal battle for the $3,000,000 fortune left by Gen. Thomas T. Eckert of West End, N. J., who was assistant secretary of war under President Lincoln and for a long time president of the Western Union Telegraph company, is to be instituted by one of his sons, Clendennin Eckert, and the general's brother, William Eckert.

In the general's will Thomas T. Eckert Jr., his eldest son, who presumably was unmarried, received the bulk of the estate, more than $2,750,000 in cash, stocks, and real estate.

"Undue influence" was practiced upon the old general, acording to the contention which the son and brother will make. They will assert that his most constant attendants were Thomas T. Eckert Jr. and a woman who is either a Miss Egan—a former maid at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel—or is Mrs. Thomas T. Eckert Jr.

KNOCKS OUT BILLBOARD ACT

Judge Eberhardt Holds Law Is Unconstitutional.

SIGNS ON BOULEVARDS O. K.

State Can't Move Them Because They Do Not Imperil Life.

"Chicago Beautiful" received a severe jolt from Municipal Judge Eberhardt yesterday when he laid down a construction of the police power of the state so strict as to cause him to declare unconstitutional the act of 1909 prohibiting billboards fronting on boulevards.

Must Be Serious Consideration.

The judge held that the police power may be exercised to take property only when the health, life, property, or morals of citizens are involved, and not for mere esthetic considerations.

The act provided for the removal of all electric, wooden, steel, and other signs and advertisements from property fronting on boulevards and parks within a year from last July under penalty of a fine of from $50 to $500.

Facts of the Case.

The Haller sign works was warned by the city to remove a sign from the old Lakeside club on Grand boulevard, and did so. It then attempted to recover from the Physical Culture Training school which occupies the building. The defense that the contract was illegal because in violation of the act was held bad by the court because the act was unconstitutional.

Boulevard property owners and sign companies will be saved many thousands of dollars by the ruling.

HUSBAND OF ARTIST'S MODEL SUES RICH MANUFACTURER.

William Kerting Asks $25,000 from Walter Cunningham of Hinsdale, Following Wife's Divorce Suit.

Not the lure of the stage, but love for a manufacturer of toilet articles, is said to have wrecked the domestic bliss of William Kerting, a stock exchange broker, and his beautiful wife, Marjorie Hamilton Kerting, an artists' and photographers' model.

Two weeks ago Mrs. Kerting filed in the Circuit court a petition for divorce. She charged her husband with nonsupport and habitual drunkenness.

Kerting at the time refused to make any comment on his wife's action other than to express surprise and declare that he turned all his salary to her support and never drank intoxicants.

Yesterday he began suit in the Circuit court asking $25,000 damages from Walter Cunningham of Hinsdale. Only the praecipe of the suit was filed, but it is said Kerting will attempt to show that Cunningham caused the alienation of the affections of Mrs. Kerting from her husband.

"Mrs. Kerting has been an artists' model and she fell in love with Cunningham while she was posing for some advertising matter," said George E. Gorman, attorney for Kerting. "Cunningham has several automobiles and I understand he is an expert when it comes to lavish entertainment. So far as I can learn, he is a manufacturer of toilet articles, and wealthy. He was divorced from his wife some time ago, and about three months ago Mrs. Kerting applied for divorce herself."

Arrest Illinoisans for Trespass.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 2.—[Special.]—United States marshals today arrested nine residents of Bath, Ill., for trespassing on the grounds of Grand Island Lodge, a game preserve on the Illinois river which is in the hands of the United States court pending settlement of a suit involving the ownership of the property.

DETECTIVES MAR TWO HONEYMOONS

Arrest Bridegrooms Entering New York from Iowa on Charges of Theft.

ONE IS RICH YOUNG MAN.

Bride Shows Certificate of Marriage Performed by Chicago Pastor.

New York, Nov. 2.—[Special.]—Peter C. McMartin, a wealthy young farmer from Beaman, Ia., and William Adolph, a friend from Des Moines, were enjoying the spectacle of the Harlem river while having their coats and hats brushed, while their two brides were being dusted by the porter on an incoming New York Central train today, when three detectives from the central office informed the two westerners they were under arrest.

McMartin, who is a handsome six footer, expressed himself as being dumfounded. Adolph was equally at a loss.

Telegram Leads to Arrest.

The men were arrested upon the information furnished by the following telegram received here today from E. E. Johnson, chief of detectives, at Des Moines:

"Please arrest Peter C. McMartin and William K. Adolph, who left Chicago yesterday on the Lake Shore 5:30, due in New York 4:42. Wanted for grand larceny of $1,400. Take possession of all money found on them."

The dispatch said the men were accompanied "by two small sized ladies."

McMartin had $637 in cash and a draft for $1,500 on the Farmers' Savings bank of Beaman, Ia. He is unable to throw any light whatsoever on the charge.

Married Vaudeville Actress.

McMartin's bride was Miss Pearl Washburn of the vaudeville team called the Washburn sisters, Pearl and Dot. The marriage ceremony took place at the residence of the Rev. Andrew C. Lewis on Chalmers street, Chicago, and was witnessed by Adolph and W. C. Washburn, the girl's father, who is said to be an artist.

News of the Theaters.

Chicago Grand Opera Inaugurated Tonight.

CHICAGO grand opera!

A half million dollar season of operatic performances, backed by Chicago capital, with the names of Chicago musicians on chorus and orchestra rosters, Chicago singers signed among the soloists, the bright particular star a former Chicago high school girl, and the whole housed in Chicago's remodeled Auditorium theater, has its inaugural tonight.

A year and a half ago a grand opera company for Chicago was proposed. The project was declared impracticable and its promoters called visionary art enthusiasts. Just a year ago today the Chicago Grand Opera company signed a lease of the Auditorium theater, the place to become the permanent home of Chicago grand opera.

Bright hopes of eighteen months ago achieve brilliant realisation today. Conversion of fancy into fact has meant weeks of arduous toil, journeys to far corners of the earth, countless diplomatic conferences with musical czars and opera interests of the country, and the construction of an executive organization of admitted superiority.

Today the Chicago grand opera possesses an excellent orchestra, the chorus is of magnificent proportion and thoroughly equipped for every demand to be placed upon it, with but one or two exceptions the greatest singers of the world have been engaged as soloists, and these have pronounced the Auditorium theater a grand opera home unsurpassed.

The season opens tonight with a performance in Italian of Verdi's romantic opera "Aida." In the cast will be Eleanor de Cisneros, Jeanne Korolewicz, Nicola Zerola, Nazzareno de Angelis, Mario Sammarco, Dante Zucchi, Mabel Riegelman, and Berardo Berardi.

For the production of this opera the entire lower floors of the theater have been sold out and could have been sold twice over. The same is true of the presentation Saturday afternoon of Charpentier's opera in French, "Pélléas et Mélisande," in which Mary Garden will sing.

Eighty musicians will make up the orchestra tonight. This will be the regular orchestra. The number is augmented to 106 for the production of "Salome" and one or two other compositions.

The regular size of the Chicago chorus is 125. Forty more singers are available upon demand, members of the Chicago grand opera school, and will be used when needed.

Fifty performances of standard operas, French, Italian, and German, and four or five new operas, never before presented in Chicago, will make up the season. Those works which the management of the Chicago Grand Opera company characterizes as "novelties" and for which new scenery and equipment has been provided, include "Thais," "Le Jongleur de Notre Dame," "Louise," "Pélléas et Mélisande," "Salome," "Samson et Delila," and "The Girl of the Golden West."

During certain Sunday afternoons "Stabat Mater" and "Requiem" by Verdi will be sung.

The present seating capacity of the auditorium is 3,747. By the construction of 11 new boxes forming the "diamond horseshoe," the seating capacity was reduced 380 seats.

Aside from the construction of this tier of boxes and the redecorating and relighting of the interior of the theater, large sums have been expended in providing for the stage all the necessary mechanical devices. On the remodeling and refurnishing of the big theater $100,000 has been spent. Five hundred thousand dollars is estimated as the expense for fifty performances of opera, placing the expense for each production at $10,000.

Harold F. McCormick and Charles G. Dawes worked persistently from the start in the formation of Chicago's grand opera company, and with them were associated John C. Shaffer, John G. Shedd, and Julius Rosenwald. The men who gave particular support to the project at the New York end were Clarence H. Mackay and Otto H. Kahn. These men with Philip M. Lydig, Harry Payne Whitney, and H. Rogers Winthrop make up the executive committee of the Chicago Grand Opera company.

Andreas Dippel is the general manager, Bernhard Ulrich the business manager, and Cleofonte Campanini the general musical director.

Eleanora de Cisneros, the mezzo-soprano, who will appear in the first performance, was born in New York City. Her maiden name was Eleanora Broadfoot.

She did not remain long in her native city, however, for with her marriage to Count François de Cisneros, a Cuban journalist, she went to Italy. In the nine years since then she has sung contralto and mezzo-soprano rôles in the most important opera houses in Europe. For two seasons she sang at the Teatro alla Scala in Milan. There, in 1906, she sang in the premiere of Franchetti's "Figlio di Jorio," the poem being that of D'Annunzio, the Italian dramatist. D'Annunzio warmly congratulated Mme. de Cisneros upon her artistic conception and rendition of his lines. The same year she created the rôle of the Countess in "Pique Dame," by Tschaikowsky. In 1909 she was re-engaged at La Scala to create the part of Queen Klytaimnestra in the first production in Italian of Richard Strauss' "Elektra." Mme. de Cisneros has appeared for five seasons at the Royal Opera at Covent Garden, London, at the Imperial Opera and the Conservatory of St. Petersburg, at the Imperial Opera of Vienna, and in other music centers of Europe.

Jeanne Korolewicz, the young Polish soprano of the Chicago Grand Opera company, was born in Warsaw. Her musical education was received at the Conservatory of Lemberg, from which she was graduated at the age of 17. She was so successful as a student that she enjoyed a scholarship given by Mme. Marcella Sembrich. At her graduation she won a gold medal.

Her debut as a singer was made at the Lemberg opera, and she was received so favorably by the public that soon afterwards she was engaged by the Imperial opera at Warsaw. There for over five years she enjoyed a series of successes hardly matched by any other Polish singer. There she created the leading soprano rôle in Paderewski's opera "Manru."

Mme. Korolewicz, remembering how she had profited by Mme. Sembrich's scholarship, established scholarships for two pupils at the Conservatory in Lemberg.

The full cast for tonight's opera follows:

MISS MARY GARDEN IN HER "HOBBLE SKIRT"

Mary Garden's Little Lamb.

MARY had a little lamb,
Its fleece was white as snow,
And everywhere that Mary went
The lamb was sure to go gamboling along just as such a frisky little creature can.

Mary watched it day after day. It kicked up its little legs and hopped around free as the air. Mary thought a good deal about the unhampered fashion in which the little lamb frolicked. "If lambs can frolic, why can't I?" she asked herself, much after the style of one Darius Green.

So she had the little lamb fleeced and the fur woven into cloth. It made a couple of yards or so. Then the lord high cloth cutter of the pasha's private tailor shop was employed and when he finished the daintiest pair of Turkish women's trousers waited for Mary Garden to take them home.

She packed them away and got them through the custom house at New York somehow. In New York she ran right into the hobble skirt craze, so the new pantaloons got under that class.

"Double barreled hobbles!"

Thus Miss Garden described them yesterday. She put them on so a photographer could aim his camera at them. When she stands still the outfit looks like an extreme hobble skirt well laced in at the bottom. But when she walks it is easy to see how she has accomplished for herself the freedom of her little pet lamb.

"Going to wear 'em out loud—I mean, on the street?"

"Yes, certainly."

"When?"

"The first bright day."

So watch for the first bright day and them. Miss Garden really promised, cross her heart and hope to die, that she would wear the Turkish double barreled hobbles on Michigan avenue some sunshiny day soon.

Studies Chicago as Tragic Drama Center

CHICAGO is likely to be the place where Alexandra Viarda, the European tragedienne, will organize her own company of players for the purpose of presenting tragedies such as "The Bride of Messina" by Frederick von Schiller, "Alexandra" by Borhard Voss, and "La Signora di Challant," by Giuseppe Giarosa.

"I am making this trip across the country just to see what city is best suited to the work I propose to do," she said yesterday. "I go from here to San Francisco, where I am well known, and where there is demand for the tragic drama. But I am inclined to think that Chicago is the place best suited to the organization of a company.

"I wish to train them myself and to teach them the direct method of acting which has won success for me. If actors and actresses would throw more spirit and life into their portrayals of character they would achieve greatness more rapidly."

Want Gaby to Tour America.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, Nov. 2.—A New York impresario has commissioned a Berlin theatrical agency to negotiate with Mlle. Gaby des Lys, the petite French dancer and favorite of King Manuel of Portugal, for a tour of the United States. Her managers demand $600 a night. She takes less in Europe. She is now in Vienna.

Madame Bernhardt Makes "Les Bouffons" Tolerable.

BY PERCY HAMMOND.

IT is not at all likely that Madame Bernhardt will achieve anything else so uninteresting in the course of her Chicago engagement as "Les Bouffons." Playgoers here made passing acquaintance with this work by Miguel Zamacois when, in the late spring of 1908, Miss Adams acted it for a fortnight in the translation and adaptation made for her by Louis Napoleon Parker as "The Jesters." That acquaintance, however slight, accounted, seemingly, for the greater part of last night's considerable gathering in the Studebaker, although, of course, the great star's compatriots were drawn thither by the fact of her appearance in a rôle she had not before acted in this country. The two factions of the audience, in consequence, made for a great deal of expressed appreciation of the performance—quite as much, indeed, as was noted at the performance of the more familiar plays of Monday and Tuesday.

Jacasse (it is recalled that Mr. Frohman, in Miss Adams' venture with the play, showed due regard for the gentlemen who write comically about the drama for the New York City newspapers by effecting a phonetic compromise in the name of the character) affords the great Frenchwoman no opportunities not comprehended by the more familiar plays of her repertoire. Seeing and hearing "Les Bouffons" in the vernacular serve to explain two matters—to wit: why it was successful in Paris, and why it was not successful even with the potential Miss Adams in the Bernhardt part. The play belongs to a division of rhapsodical and rhetorical drama that is essentially French, and without an exact equivalent in the drama of even the Latin countries. It is purely drama of inaction. The single situation is posed in the beginning, and remains stationary until the end. It is, of course, of a school in which Madame Bernhardt studied in her youth, and of which she is today the greatest exemplar, if exception be made of M. Monnet-Sully, who, however, is of that school and no other, whereas the visiting actress is as versatile as she is in all other respects wonderful.

She acted Jacasse last night in exacting conditions, although the rôle asks little of her in the way of mere physical expenditure. She had played Reichstadt in the afternoon, the curtain falling on the matinée at nearly 6 o'clock. She is engaged in learning the rôle of the mother in "Madame X" against next week's two performances of that play; and her task is so complicated by the fact that her company, too, is strange to the Bisson play, and not at all easy as an ensemble, as was shown in the Monday and Tuesday performances. So few of them were engaged in "Les Buffons" that the performance, as a whole, was more fluent, if not particularly distinguished. So it was not at all strange that there was lacking last night some of the wonted rapture in her reading of the lyrical Zamacois text, and nearly all of the wonted fire in the tirades. The apostrophe to the breeze, Jacasse's contribution to the joust of the jesters, was spoken with superb beauty and expression, however; and Bernhardt did more—or, at least, so it appeared to those who put the actress above last night's especial play—than the author himself to idealize that gentle, persuasive duologue that marks the end of the third act, with the victorious jester turned the successful wooer of the gentle Solange. Her acting of this sheerly poetic scene revealed a facet of Bernhardt's art not often shown in the plays in which she acts while among us.

Only Mme. Duc of the cast was at all persuasive or in the spirit of the star. Hardly the physical ideal of the yearning maiden, she was none the less exquisite in her exact appreciation of the part in the scheme of the play. Her acting in the long scene of the joust was a lesson to our own players in what they themselves call, we believe, "playing straight" or "feeding." She beautifully and with perfect ease suggested the gradual, sure awakening of interest as the uncomely Jacasse progressed through the apostrophe and did much to make drama out of what is, after all, sheer rhetoric. Her voice—at least in the dead level speaking called for by Solange—is as beautiful as Bernhardt's own.

"Les Buffons" was staged adequately, but hardly with any regard for the fantastic, elusive spirit of the play, and not at all, perhaps, as it was staged in Paris. Certainly the pictorial aspect of the performance suffered when compared with Miss Adams'.

Madame Bernhardt's plans have been changed for this week, and a "composite" bill will be presented on Friday evening, instead of "Fedora," as advertised. This "composite" bill will consist of acts from "Camille," "L'Aiglon," and "La Tosca."

Statement by Marc Klaw.

The following statement by Marc Klaw was made yesterday:

"There is absolutely no truth in the statement that Mr. Charles Frohman or Klaw & Erlanger or either of them has signed any paper of truce with the National Theater Owners' association, and it is time that the assertion which appeared in some of the papers this morning was flatly contradicted. We have always regarded the attitude of the National Theater Owners' association as a huge joke, and nothing has happened since my return from the northwest to change our opinions. The one-night towns in that part of the country, as elsewhere, are clamoring for our attractions. Some attractions booked by us would probably like to play them, but a resolution passed by so-called National Theater Owners' association last summer made that impossible. These foolish, deluded men, after clamoring for a long time for what they called an open door, when they got within sight of it promptly shut the bolt by passing a resolution that nobody could book more than two interests. That meant simply that Klaw & Erlanger could book their own shows and the shows of some one other manager, but would have to stop there, while, on the other hand, the National Theater Owners' association could book any number of shows. That is all that the one-night stands are suffering from today. Overtures have been made to us to try to ease this situation. Unfortunately, our lips are sealed as to the individual who made the overtures, and we are not in the habit of breaking either our words or our contracts, consequently we are in an awkward position of waiting for the other fellows to do it; but we do not propose to tolerate misrepresentation on the subject, and if false reports and lies are sent out we intend to promptly nail them. There is no agreement signed with the National Theater Owners' association and there will be none. None is necessary."

Woman and Her Interests.

What Love Is.

BY LAURA JEAN LIBBEY.

What is love, that all the world
Talks so much about it?
What is love that neither you
Nor I can do without it?

LOVE is a mystical, gossamer, golden thread of heaven's own weaving, so minute no human eye may behold it. At either end are powerful magnets, which draw two human hearts together, though the width of the world lies between them at birth.

Love is the sunshine of life, beautiful in its morning, most soul satisfying at life's noon, and dearest, tenderest, truest as life's sun fades into the gloaming. Love is that which is earthly of the soul which God has loaned to human beings, for the breath of heaven, the taint of earth is in it. It is the root of the world's joys, and where its seed has been planted in rank soil is the source of its keenest, bitterest woes. It is the yearning for another heart to respond unto its own.

There is love—and love. One, the poppy which buds and blooms in an hour, and as quickly falls into decay. The other, the perennial rose whose beauty and perfume lasts forever.

Love hallows its object, never debases it. Love is the nectared cup which youth and maid sip with reveling delight in its newness and sweetness. Love is the draft which brings contentment to man and womankind, and recompenses for all life's pains.

Love is heaven's true messenger. It can transform the humblest cot, wherein are mated hearts into an earthly paradise. Love is what the object of its affection makes it. A tree whose branches reach joyously up toward heaven's sunshine, or a noxious weed, poisoning the air upon which it feeds, a thing which brings death to those who fondle it.

Love is the treasure which comes free to all mankind, the oil of contentment which lubricates the heart, keeping it from wearing and rusting out.

Love levels all ranks, knows no rule to guide its selection of a mate, knows no counting in days or years as to the length of time love should ripen until it reaches perfection. The glance of an eye, the touch of a hand, gives it birth. Love is a drowsy god, ever slumbering in the breast until it is awakened by its mate.

Love is the brightest jewel in the world's diadem. Implanted in every human heart is the craving for love, the realization of the attraction of another heart and that only the welding of these two hearts together can make life complete.

The depth of love is as boundless as the ocean's immeasurable depths, and love's bark is as easily wrecked as a toy sailboat sporting with a fickle wave.

Love is, in some breasts, gentle as a zephyr or the dews of heaven; in others, like a sirocco blast or a tornado, wrecking all within its path into ruin and chaos.

There are as many kinds of love as there are individuals; all things that bloom are not roses. The deadliest of weeds put forth the most flaming blossoms. Love's attraction is not to be confounded with the attraction of a passion. They are as dissimilar as the lily and the weed, the white dove and the hawk. We can live our lives out without everything the world holds, except love; without love the heart would grow sour, hard, cold, and bitter.

Love is the birth of a soul which knows not content until it finds that other soul which heaven intended as its mate. Each unconsciously approaches the other, the one intuitively recognizing the other, and the search is over. No one is so great—so noble, so powerful in this world that he could successfully battle against love's entrance within the guarded fortress of his heart; and love cannot be ousted when it settles itself down for a life's tenancy.

There are as many counterfeits of love as there are diamonds rare, and there are countless ways of detecting the spurious from the genuine, saving the bankruptcy of a heart.

Love is the one thing in this great world that makes life worth living. Heaven pity those who strive to exist without it. When the heart is empty, life is lonely. All the wealth and honor the world can bestow cannot equal the priceless treasure of love.

Why He Is Distant.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I have been keeping company with a young man for a year or more and am deeply in love with him. He has told me he loves me many times, and I think he has proved it, as I went to a theater with another young man the night I knew he was coming down. He did not get angry, but came the next day to see me, although he lives out of the city. In all his letters he tells me how much he loves me, but the last two are very cold. He used to answer my letters at once; now he waits a week, sometimes more. Now, Dear Miss Libbey, what I want to know is how can I find out what the matter is, as he will not answer that question? ESTELLE."

It would not be necessary to have second sight to see what's the matter. He probably didn't like the way you treated him, Estelle. It was hardly the courteous thing, was it, to go off with the other fellow? How would you like such treatment? If you expect to be considered you must be considerate of others.

* *

Too Young.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I hope you won't laugh at me because I am so young. I am but 17. All the girls laugh at me when I tell them of my little affair two years ago. I lived in a little town in Ohio, and in going to school I got acquainted with a boy two years older than myself. They live on a small farm. That is, he and his brother and sisters. His mother and father are dead.

"My parents are also dead. Now, Miss Libbey, I think of him all the time since I came to Chicago and would like to correspond, but don't like to write first. I wish you would tell me what to do. I would be very thankful for your kindness. I am a great admirer of your books. I think I have read most all of them. Hoping you will help me, I remain in waiting.

"GWENDOLIN."

Gwendolin, you are too young to waste time over the boy. Put your mind on your work and don't waste a silly, stupid thought about the boy back in the home town. If he cares anything about you he will find some way to let you know, and you are too proud a girl, I am sure, to give your love unsought to any one. Aren't you?

Good Man Not to Marry.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am 18 years of age and much in love with a young man of 21 years, and I know my love is returned strongly. Now, there is great objection on his side simply because I have no money, and my friend and myself are at great loss to know what to do. Now although he is putting up a very hard fight, I fear we may have to break up, and that means so much to me and ever so much more to him.—Now do you think he will be happy if he marries for money? Although he says he will never go with any one else if he can't have me. Now, dear Miss Libbey, what would you advise us to do, as we love each other truly and we don't want to part as it will be very bad for the two of us. Please give us your advice what to do in regard to his parents, as they are trying the worst way to separate us, all because I have no money. HEARTBROKEN."

Dear little heartbroken girl! He can't be greatly in love with you when he will allow the question of money to come in. As the boys would say, "I think he's stringing you." And the best thing you can do is to tell him to run along quickly like a good little boy and get a girl with money—that you, too, are looking for a man with money. The man you write about would be a good fellow not to marry, according to my way of looking at it.

Health and Beauty.

BY MARIAN MARTINEAU.

ACIDITY is a great factor in the decay of the teeth, and in order to prevent it a mouthful of the milk of magnesia should be taken every night before retiring, allowing it to penetrate into every nook and cranny of the mouth. Bicarbonate of soda, common baking soda, is recommended even more highly for overcoming the acidity of the mouth. The soda is used by putting a tablespoonful into a quart of water and rinsing the mouth thoroughly with it every night and morning.

BEATRICE: Not the place where we are obliged to spend our life but the spirit in which we determine to spend it rules our health. The years are not so many since our foremothers never dreamed of closing their houses to fly to Florida in winter and to the mountains or seashore in summer. But they were well, they were calm, tranquil, and happy, and they lived to a good old age.

AN ARDENT ADMIRER: An excellent nail powder consists of finely powdered oxide of tin, to which may be added a little oil of lavender. It may be colored with carmine and can be applied with the hand or with a nail polisher. I am delighted to hear that you are so well pleased with my formulas.

Hot Rolls.

ONE feature of modern indulgence is the eating or hot breads. Manifestly indigestible and unwholesome are these, yet so obviously dainty and toothsome when well made, that many housewives always serve them when guests are present, although they may not be thus unkind to their families. In some sections of our country a meal without hot bread is a desolation. But in simpler days and simpler breads the hot roll, biscuit, muffin, and so forth were not known. In some countries bread is not baked oftener than twice a year, but then it is a process of days even of a month, and the product what some people would consider their idea of nothing to eat. The brown crisp crust of hot breads is no great menace to health and peace of mind, but the uncarameled center is likely to be.

Light Rolls.—Peel a small Irish potato, cut it up, and cook it in just enough water to cover it. When done mash it and return it to this same water. Add one-fourth cake of compressed yeast dissolved in a little warm water, a dessert spoon of sugar, and enough flour to make a thin batter (a scant cup). Set in a warm place, and at the end of an hour it will be light and bubbly. Sift a pint of flour and add a dessert spoon each of sugar and butterine, also a half teaspoon of salt. Make a hole in the middle of the flour, pour in the yeast, and mix, adding warm water if needed to make a dough as soft as can be handled. Knead till it blisters. Place in a one-half gallon crock or bowl, well greased. Cover closely and keep at an even temperature in a warm place. In five or six hours it will have risen to the top of the vessel. Work again, and make into rolls of any desired shape, or roll out and cut with a biscuit cutter. Place in a pan and allow to rise again—one hour. Bake in a quick oven for about fifteen minutes, till nicely browned.—Mrs. H. B. McClellan, Lexington, Ky.

Hot Rolls I.—Dissolve one cake of compressed yeast in a cup of lukewarm water. When dissolved add to it a pint and a half of tepid water. Stir into this one-fourth cup of sugar and one teaspoon of salt before adding one quart of white flour. Let this stand until it is light and spongy, or about two hours, generally, then add a quart and two-thirds of flour and knead well. Possibly a little more flour will be needed, as some flours do not swell as much as others. Allow this dough to rise to twice its height and then make a round pan of rolls, about ten to a pan. There will be enough left to make two small loaves of bread. Let these rise to twice their size and then put them in a hot oven. After the bread and rolls are nicely browned some of the heat should be turned off the oven. The bread needs to be baked an hour and the rolls forty-five to fifty minutes.—Mrs. James F. Robertson, 9420 Charles street.

Hot Rolls II.—Dissolve one-fourth of a cake of compressed yeast in one-fourth cup of lukewarm water. Scald one-fourth of a cup of milk and pour over one-half teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of sugar, and one teaspoon of lard. When lukewarm add yeast and one and a half cups of flour. Let rise three hours, form into rolls, let these rise an hour and a half, brush the tops with a little lard, and bake twenty minutes. This makes eight excellent rolls, which can be made and baked in five hours.—Mrs. D. S. Wentworth, 6949 Normal avenue.

Raised Rolls.—Rub into a quart of flour mixed with a half teaspoon of salt and a teaspoon of sugar one tablespoon of butter. Add a cup of warm milk and a third of a yeast cake that has been dissolved in three tablespoons of warm water, and knead this dough for twenty minutes. Set to rise for six or eight hours, make into rolls, pour them in a greased baking pan, and let them rise for half an hour before baking.—Mrs. W. S. Bell, 1237 Victor avenue.

Hot Raised Biscuit.—One cup of flour, one cup of lukewarm water, one level teaspoon of lard, one level teaspoon of salt, one-fourth of a yeast cake, and one level tablespoon of cold lard. Make at night a sponge of the flour, water, salt, and yeast and level teaspoon of lard. In the morning add flour to make dough of good consistence and let this rise. When ready for biscuits take the tablespoon of cold lard and cut in pieces over dough. Flour the hands and work lard and dough together. Make into round balls and bake in quick oven. If for dinner at night set in the morning.—Carrie Rumery, Oshkosh, Wis.

Round About Chicago.

The True Story of Aida.

BY RICHARD HENRY LITTLE.

THERE are many books and librettos for sale concerning the operas that will be sung at the Auditorium during the continuance of the grand opera season in Chicago. But the best information on what the different operas are all about may be obtained on direct application to Willie, the call boy. Willie was given a nice, shining, silver quarter yesterday afternoon and told to hasten to some nearby book store and purchase a libretto of "Aida." Willie objected.

"What do you want to cough up two bits fer a dope sheet fer," asked Willie. "I'm hep to all this grand opery thing. I work here. Ask me."

Whereupon little Willie was told that he could keep the nice, shiny, silver quarter, and stow it away deep down in his trousers pocket, if he would give a full and truthful account of "Aida" as he had gathered the sad story from the various rehearsals he had attended.

"It's like this," said little Willie: "there was a dame named Ada, see? She lived in Egipt, and while she was kinder saddle colored she wasn't a regular coon. She had a mash on a big gink named Reddymees. This guy, Reddy, was a soldier, and some soldier, take it from me. Gee, you wait till you see him Thursdy nite. Jack Johnson hain't got a thing on him. He could whip Johnson in two rounds, but I suppose there's more money in this opery game. Well, anyhow, when the show opens, there's a guy named Rammerfleas, er something like that, who's the big noise in Egipt, telling Reddy to round up the army and go over and take a wallop at a gink named Moneyacero, or somethin' of the kind. This party has been rough-housing all over Egipt, an' every time the police tried to raid him he took a fall out of 'em. Well, Reddy gets his big cheese knife out and puts a razor edge on it, and he whistles up the army and he goes out to get this Moneyacero party an' get him good. Reddy is tickled to death because when he comes back he is going to tie up with Ada.

"Say, I haint put you wise to Ada, have I? Well, she was a flewsie that was captured by the Egiptians. She was a peach, all rite, an' she certainly thought that Reddy was the candy kid. This Moneyacero guy was her old man, but she never let on even when she knew that Reddy was going out to pull him fer running a brace game. But there's another flewsie named Am-Knee-reese, git that, and she's got a mash on Reddy, too. Am-Knee-reese's old man is the kink of Egipt, an' whatever the gal wants the old man sees to it that she gets. So when she tells him that she wants little Reddy for a birthday present the kink says, 'Suresh thing you know, Reddy is yours; go ahead an' order the wedding cake.'

"Well, Reddy goes out with his gang and cleans up old Moneyacero an' brings him back and puts him in the booby hatch. This makes Reddy pretty strong an' everybody throws a fit over him. Am-Knee-reese finds out that Reddy is stuck on Ada, an' she gets busy to cut her out. Reddy gets wise to old Moneyacero being the daddy of Ada, an' he wants the kink to turn him an' the girl loose, but this other dame does a little knocking an' its Ada and her old man to the bridewell.

"The old man gets hep to Reddy having a crush on Ada, so he tells the gal to git Reddy to join his gang an' help him break jail, an' then the whole outfit will hike back to the hills, an' the old man says he will give Reddy an' Ada the finest little wedding they ever had in their lives. Reddy don't fall for the scheme, but he don't want to pull any rough stuff on Ada, so he says, 'Dream on, little one; I'm sure the curly haired boy an' you can't put over anything that I haint a going to harken to.' But this other girl, she is certainly some sore on Ada, and she has some plain clothes cops trailing Reddy around an' they get wise to this scheme of Ada's. They give the office to Am-Knee-reese, an' she is certainly some sore. She says that she will sure put a crimp in anything that calls for wedding bells for Reddy and Ada. She is so sore at Ada that she doesn't stop to think that if she puts the kink next to the scheme she is going to get Reddy in awful bad. So she beats it to the kink and says, 'Say, Reddy is going to take the old man an' that hussy Ada out of jail, an' they're all going to blow.'

Then the kink has Reddy pinched, an' they sticks him in the clink an' gives him a trial as the judges say that Reddy has got to die. They don't hang people in Egipt, so they decided to do something nice an' easy to Reddy, and they tell him he's going to be put in a cellar an' bricked in. After he eats up all the air in the cellar then its good night for Reddy. So, sure enough, they brings in Reddy an' sticks him in th' coal hole. Reddy never bats an eye when they chuck him in. He sings something in Dago about how it was coming to him and he got it.

"But when he looks around, durned if there hain't Ada. She said if they are going to hand it to her Reddy they would have to hand it to her, too. So she climbs in the coal hole ahead of Reddy, and when he is chucked in there she is. Reddy says it's no place for a nice girl, an' he tryes to shove over the wall so that Ada can make a getaway, but there's nothin' doin'. He tryes to shove over the wall so that Ada can make a getaway, but there's nothin' doin'. He and Ada eat up all the loose air an' then they up and die all over the cellar, singing Dago songs to each other. Amkneereas is sorry that she done it, an' she comes to the outside of the coal hole an' serenades Reddy as the curtain comes down. Ain't that a woman for you?"

Thus ends the sad but truthful tale of unhappy Aida, as related by Willie, the human libretto.

CLASSES SCHOOLS AS 'BIG BUSINESS'

Union in Annual Report Recommends 'General Manager at Large Salary.'

JUST LIKE A RAILROAD.

Praises Mrs. Young's Work and Shows Economy in Building Construction.

The public school system of Chicago should be classed as "big business" and, like other institutions, should have a high salaried general manager, a man who should hold the same relation to the board of education as the president of a great bank or of a railroad to a board of directors, in the opinion of Alfred R. Urion, president of the board of education.

President Urion expressed this opinion and recommended consideration by members of the board in his first annual report, which was presented at the regular meeting of that body yesterday.

It is Mr. Urion's idea that the departments of the board of education should have a high salaried superintendent, who should occupy the same position as does the superintendent of schools for the educational side.

Urges Progressive Methods.

"From the results obtained in the first venture into the reorganization of the business departments of the board it must be clear to you that further progress along these lines should be made in order that the most efficient service on the most economical basis consistent with such service be obtained," decalres the report. "Progressive business methods must be introduced and carried out in the various business departments which will bring about an administration equal to that of any successful banking or manufacturing organization in Chicago.

"A plan should be developed whereby there shall be one business head charged with the responsibility, as is done on the educational side in the case of the superintendent of schools. I urge that this be one of the matters for early consideration during the coming year. A year ago, when the changes were made in handling of accounts in some of the departments of the board of education, a record was instituted whereby the exact cost of running each school was ordered kept by the auditor.

"Of course, it is difficult to draw comparisons between the different schools in view of the varying conditions, but many general comparisons can be made by the officials and employés familiar with the conditions with the view of ascertaining whether some schools are run on an extravagant basis, others conducted economically, and perhaps others on a parsimonious basis."

Commends Supt. Young's Work.

The administration of Supt. of Schools Ella Flagg Young is highly commended in the report, as follows:

"The year just closed was an important one in the history of the public schools of Chicago. Mrs. Young was the first woman to be elected to the position of superintendent in the history of the city of Chicago, and also the first woman to be placed in charge of a large city public school system anywhere in the United States.

"I am firmly of the opinion that the Chicago public schools are now working under the most effective conditions found anywhere in the country."

The report advocates the placing of the John Worthy and Chicago Parental shcools in the hands of the state authorities, as follows:

"I am strongly of the opinion and recommend to the members of this board that efforts be put forth to place these institutions entirely in the hands of the state, one being a penal, the other a corrective institution, and that due consideration be given during the coming year to this subject through conferences with city, county, and state officials looking to this separation from the public school system of Chicago."

Shows Economy in Buildings.

Regarding the architect's office, the report says:

"Upon my election to office, the board instituted a most thorough inquiry along practical lines looking to a more economical administration in connection with the erection of buildings, and a demand was made for a less expensive type of school building; the new type to contain ample light, the most modern heating and ventilating apparatus that can be procured, a thorough school equipment, eliminating nothing that would decrease the safety or limit the comfort of the pupils or impair the educational efficiency of the school plant.

"In order that the public may know how fully the change was justified and how urgent its need, I submit tables, showing the cost of new buildings, together with their seating capacities, which show an aggregate saving of $611,520.00 in erection of buildings, and seventy-five more school rooms in the eight months than were added during the whole of the year 1909."

Few in Half-Day Sessions.

The president's report is supplemented by reports from the various departments. The report of W. L. Bodine, supervisor of compulsory deucation, in part follows:

"The official returns for the year show the largest enrollment and attendance within the life of the public schools and the smallest number of pupils in half-day sessions at public schools within a decade."

NEWS OF THE SOCIETY WORLD.

BISHOP C. P. ANDERSON will perform the ceremony at the wedding of Miss Barbara Deering, daughter of Mr. and and Mrs. Charles Deering, 3045 Sheridan road, and Mr. Richard Ely Danielson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Danielson, to take place Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in St. Mark's church, Evanston. Miss Marian Deering, the bride's sister, is to be the maid of honor and Miss Lucy Blair, Miss Ethel Forgan, Miss Marian Forgan, Miss Mary Glazier, and Miss Helen Parke the bridesmaids. Mr. Philip White is to be Mr. Danielson's best man and the ushers are to be W. McCormick Blair, Arthur Cable, Theodore P. Dixon, Philip Lyndon Dodge, Hugh Smith Knox, Bruce D. Smith, and Hugh Wilson.

Mr. Clarence Mackay and Mr. Phil Lydig will be on from New York for the opening of opera and will be box guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. McCormick this evening. Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr. will be other members of this party. Mr. Otto Kahn will reach Chicago on Saturday. One of the largest of the companies for this evening will be that of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Blair. Mr. and Mrs. Blair will have two boxfuls of young folk at the opera, one-half of the company occupying their own box and the other to be seated in the box of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Willing, who have presented their seat holdings to Miss Anita Blair for the evening. In the two companies will be Mr. and Mrs. Blair and Miss Blair, Miss Margaret Keep, Miss Adelaide Chatfield-Taylor, Miss Louise Bowen, Miss Sarah Farwell, Mr. Edward Ryerson, Mr. Kent Clow, Mr. Walter Dray, Mr. William Given Jr., and Mr. Donald Dodge. Later the young folk will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Blair at supper.

The marriage of Miss Preston Owsley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Heaton Owsley of 221 East Erie street, to Sterling Morton, son of Joy Morton, was an interesting ceremony of last night, celebrated at 8:30 at St. James' Episcopal church. The Rev. James Stone, the rector, officiated.

The wedding party was not large, the bride's only attendant being her sister, Miss Lina Harrison Owsley, whose engagement to John W. Root, now in Paris, was announced shortly after that of Miss Preston Owsley and Mr. Morton. Norris B. Henrotin returned the favor of a few months ago by serving Mr. Morton as best man, and the ushers were Joseph M. Cudahy, Alfred H. Abbott of Buffalo, Charles Presbrey of New York, Aldis J. Browne, Francis E. Manierre, and Kenneth Sawyer Goodman.

The bride, who is a granddaughter of the martyred world's fair mayor, the late Carter H. Harrison, has been considered one of the beauties of the north side since her introduction one year ago. At the wedding she wore a gown of white satin with a tunic and train of white lace. Her veil was of tulle and was caught with orange blossoms. Miss Owsley wore a costume of satin in one of the new shades which tones between golden and pink. The gown was slightly hobbled and was trimmed with iridescent spangles. She carried lavender orchids. Mrs. Owsley was in a gown of white brocaded satin, over which was a drape of white marquisette.

A reception followed at the family residence. Mr. and Mrs. Morton are leaving for a trip of some length and after their return will be at home at 65 Oak street.

The semiannual holiday sale of the Woman's exchange was held yesterday at the residence of Mrs. Albert J. Earling, 1400 North State street, from 10 until 6 o'clock. One thousand five hundred dollars was realized by the sale of the attractive linens, and fancy pieces which will serve a double duty for charity, many purchases yesterday having been turned in to the Crippled Children's bazaar of Nov. 14 and 15. Mrs. R. T. Crane, president of the Woman's exchange, was in charge, assisted by Mrs. Philip Schuyler Doane, vice president, and Mrs. Robert S. Palmer, treasurer. The women in charge of the various booths were Mrs. A. J. Earling, Mrs. J. W. Gary, Mrs. Charles W. Leland, Mrs. E. W. McKenna, Mrs. A. C. Bartlett, Mrs. Robert J. Dunham, Mrs. Bertrand Walker, Mrs. H. C. Barnard, Mrs. Samuel Insull, Mrs. Hubbard Carpenter, Mrs. Benjamin C. Allen, Mrs. Shirley T. High, Mrs. H. F. Williams, Mrs. Andrew McNally, Mrs. Ward Vilas and Miss Grace Dixon.

Mrs. Graham Harris will give a dinner and theater party for Miss Bertrande Spalding on Nov. 17.

Mrs. Charles Edwin Rollins Jr., 4520 Sheridan road, has issued cards for a luncheon on Saturday, Nov. 19, at 1 o'clock at the Woman's Athletic club. There will be a large number of guests and a musical program to be given by Bruno Steindel will follow.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Foley, 4635 Grand boulevard, announce the engagement of their daughter Jessie to Joseph F. Carrigan of San Francisco.

The engagement of Miss Berenice Katherine Austrian, daughter of Alfred F. Austrian, 583 Melrose street, to Robert Frederick Deutch, is announced. At home date later.

Owing to a death in the bride's family the plans for the wedding of Miss Johnie Spencer Rosencrans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Conlin of Mt. Vernon, Ind., and Harold Adelbert Smith of Chicago, have been changed. The marriage will take place at the residence of the bride's parents Wednesday, Nov. 16, and will be attended only by relatives.

The marriage of Miss Marie Louise Whitmore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Whitmore, 5340 Ellis avenue, to Le Roy Clinton Roberts will take place on Saturday, Dec. 3, at the family residence.

Dr. and Mrs. N. S. Davis have come in from Lake Forest and have opened their town house at 8 East Huron street. Their daughter, Miss Ruth Davis, who is to be one of the season's debutantes, is at home again also after a summer abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin P. Dewes, the latter formerly Miss Grace Wooldridge of Baltimore, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Dewes since July, have taken an apartment at 665 Sheridan road.

After touring Holland, Switzerland, Austria, and Germany, Mr. and Mrs. Truman G. Palmer of Irving Park are spending several weeks in Berlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Paxton Conkey (Virginia Barnwell Quinn), 4617 Magnolia avenue, whose wedding occurred Oct. 15 last, have returned from their wedding trip and will be at home after Dec. 1.

WOMAN GIVES $2,000 FARM IN SWINDLE FOR $3 FIDDLE.

Mrs. J. M. Lightner of Paris, Mo., Defrauded by Man Representing Himself as Lyon & Healy's Agent.

Carrying a carefully wrapped bundle in both arms and mumbling excitedly to herself, "I've got it," a little old woman stepped nervously into the violin department of Lyon & Healy Tuesday.

Five minutes later she was carried to a car, moaning hysterically. What she believed to be a genuine Hopf violin, an almost priceless instrument, proved to be a fiddle not worth $3. She had been swindled, she said, out of her home, a farm worth $2,000, bought with her life's savings.

The woman was Mrs. J. M. Lightner of Paris, Mo. She told a pathetic story to the officers of the piano house. Early in July, she said, she was approached by a man giving the name of N. M. Ewing, representing himself as an agent of Lyon & Healy. He said that he was searching for a rare Hopf violin for which he asserted the company would pay $5,000. A confederate giving the name of Price then appeared in Monroe, Mo., with the instrument and Mrs. Lightner hunted him up and bought the violin.

"I had to go twenty-four miles to find Mr. Price," wrote Mrs. Lightner in a letter to Lyon & Healy. "He had heard that the violin was very valuable and I had to pay him $2,000 for it. I didn't have that much money and deeded over my farm to him."

Ewing never called at the Lightner home to buy the instrument. The victim became suspicious and wrote Lyon & Healy on Aug. 27, making inquiry about the agent and asking what price would be given for the violin. A reply was sent stating that no such person as N. M. Ewing was in the employ of the company. Then Mrs. Lightner was also notified that it would be necessary to see the violin before any price could be made.

After learning how she had been swindled Mrs. Lightner took the first train for home. The case has been put in the hands of the police.

MAN "DEAD AND BURIED" ALIVE; "GHOST" SHOCKS WIFE.

George Randall's "Widow" and Woman Friend Faint When He Returns Home from Trip.

Returning to his home several weeks after funeral services had been held for him and his supposed corpse had been laid away in its last resting place, George Randall, a gray haired, itinerant blacksmith, frightened his wife and Mrs. Amanda Seville, 5013 Normal avenue, a friend, so badly that they fainted, believing that the spirit of the departed had visited them. When the "widow" recovered consciousness she was overcome with joy to find that the husband she thought she had buried on Sept. 25 was really alive and well.

Yesterday Randall and his wife visited the coroner's office and asked to have the record corrected in an inquest held over the body of a man which was found in the lake in the latter part of September and which bore a remarkable resemblance to Randall. The widow and others had identified the body as that of Randall.

The blacksmith told Coroner Hoffman that he had been working for the Chicago and Northwestern railroad in Wisconsin and had neglected to write to his family for several weeks.

The bulk of automobiles are bought by the real people who do the work that makes this country what it is. They find a car earns its keep by saving time, promoting health for every member of the family.

Don't Spite Yourself

Of course the automobile, like any other good new thing, has suffered from some of its friends. The "joy rider," the conscienceless "speed merchant," the "road hog," the "dust thrower," the "horn maniac," the blatant "sport" and the "cut-out kid" have all been abroad in the land.

But to let these fast passing evils, which are decried by every reputable dealer and manufacturer, prevent you from having the benefit of a motor car would be a good deal like going without dinner because the cook swore at the ice man.

But don't forget that while you were standing on the corner criticising the man who made a holy show of himself through misuse of his car, a dozen sane, sensible, everyday, honest-to-gracious American citizens slipped past you in their cars. They slipped past without noise, without excitement, going about their own business with speed and efficiency, with fresh air in their lungs, and satisfaction in their hearts.

The bulk of automobiles are bought by such men as those who conduct stores, manage factories, operate railroads, build ships and bridges, run banks, sell goods, write books, edit newspapers and magazines, direct corporations; doctors, lawyers, farmers, engineers, contractors, business men, printers, artists, real estate men—in short, the real people who do the work that makes this country what it is.

These men find that the automobile helps them in their business, that it pays high interest on the investment and earns its keep by saving time—by enabling them to do more things—by promoting health—by affording change and recreation in the out-of-doors. They find that a car is of equal benefit and pleasure to every member of the family. They find that as soon as a car is bought it ceases to be a luxury and becomes a necessity. They find they couldn't possibly get along without one and they never try to any more.

Chalmers Cars appeal to this class of people because they have beauty and style and distinction—a certain way of their own. There are quite a few people nowadays who really prefer very fine and beautiful things to the ordinary sort.

Decide Upon Your Car by Comparison

Some people do not object to saving as much as $1000 to $2000 in the purchase of a motor car that will answer every possible requirement.

The Chalmers "Forty" appeals very strongly to such people.

This famous car has all the power anyone can ever need; seats for seven if desired; luxurious finish; beauty and style; the quality to wear. The price of $2750 includes Bosch magneto, Preat-O-Lite tank and gas lamps.

It is an easy matter, of course, to spend more for a car, but if you start out some day seriously to find enough more in one to justify a higher price, you have forty-eight chances in fifty to fail, and you will put in the hardest day's work of your life.

In the end, you will probably conclude there is no other value so convincing as the Chalmers "Forty."

This car is in its fifth season. It is one of America's truly famous cars. The first one we ever made is running yet. It runs all day, every day, in Detroit, as a factory errand car.

The man who owns a "Forty" will tell you there is no better car. He is a little prejudiced, of course, in favor of a beautiful and faithful friend—just as we are.

But if you think of buying a car, you can discount this prejudice by examining the "Forty" for yourself in comparison with others of any price.

If you can buy more dollar for dollar value anywhere, of course you will, but—well, we think you will buy a "Forty" after you have looked into the matter thoroughly.

The 1911 model, big, handsome and competent-looking, is now on our floor. We invite you to come and see us.

URGES GAME FOR 'BIG EIGHT' TITLE

Eckersall Says Minnesota Should Meet Indiana-Illinois Victor.

CHICAGO TO SEE CONTEST.

Conference Battle Could Be Staged on Saturday After Thanksgiving Day.

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

Followers of football in the west already have started much agitation for a post-season game between the winner of the Illinois-Indiana game and Minnesota for the conference football title. As the Gophers have one more conference team, Wisconsin, to meet, and as there is every reason to believe that Minnesota will emerge from this contest victor by a comfortable margin, and as the winner of the Illinois-Indiana struggle will have just claims for disputing Minnesota's right to the championship, it is only fair to both institutions that steps should be taken to arrange for a post-season struggle which will decide the title to the satisfaction of all followers of the popular college sport.

Minnesota won from Chicago in a more decisive manner than either Indiana or Illinois, but the comparative score method is such an unsatisfactory basis of determining the strength of different elevens that the only satisfactory means of settling a question which is sure to be disputed by followers of both elevens is by playing a post-season game, which easily can be arranged if the officials of both institutions are willing.

Both Have Strong Teams.

Indiana and Illinois are represented by strong aggregations, and as it is the first time in years that either has had a team which could lay claims to the title, it is no more than just that the winner of Saturday's battle be given a chance to combat for the highest title in conference football circles.

In the winter of 1905-06 the faculties of the different universities in the conference passed resolutions limiting the number of games to be played to five and seven in each season, but since that time most of the elevens, with the exception of Northwestern and Wisconsin, have played seven contests. As Minnesota, Illinois, and Indiana will play seven games this year, this resolution on the part of the faculties seems to be the only thing which will prevent a post-season conflict.

Not since 1899, when Chicago and Wisconsin battled at Madison in a post-season game for the western title, has a game been played after the regular season to decide a championship. This contest attracted much attention in the football world, and as Michigan is not in the conference, the situation is more complicated than ever. With Minnesota having its strongest team in years, and with the same thing true of Illinois and Indiana, it will be a mighty hard proposition to award the conference title to any of these institutions unless a post-season game is played.

Gophers Show Their Strength.

Minnesota demonstrated on Saturday in its game with Chicago that it has a powerful offensive and defensive team, one that would be a worthy opponent for any eleven in the country, but followers of the Illinois and Indiana teams are of the same opinion, and it is certain that those who are interested in the winner of Saturday's battle at Bloomington will lay claim to the conference title.

It is the consensus of opinion among those who have seen Minnesota, Illinois, and Indiana in action that either the Hoosiers or Illini would give the Gophers a hard, close game. The contention is that Illinois and Indiana both have strong lines, and any eleven which has as powerful a quintet of forwards as Minnesota is sure to give the Gophers a close game. In the games which Minnesota has won this year the lion's share of the success which the backs have experienced in making end runs and line plunges has been due to the powerful linemen, who have opened up holes of held long enough to allow the backs to get started on the different plays.

As Minnesota and Michigan will meet at Ann Arbor on Nov. 19 in a game which will go a long way in determining the champion of the west, the situation becomes more complicated. If the Gophers are successful in downing the Wolverines, followers of the northwest aggregation are sure to claim both the conference and western titles, and with the winner of the Illinois-Indiana struggle having a clean slate it will be a hard proposition to determine the strongest eleven in the west without showing any partiality.

Contenders Are Improving.

Since their games with Chicago, Illinois and Indiana both have improved and allowances must be made for this fact by followers of the Minnesota eleven. The Gophers were pointed toward the Chicago contest since the season opened and it is only reasonable to assume that Coach Williams' aggregation would be coached to a higher point of football proficiency. At the same time allowances have made for the improvements which Coach Stagg made in his team.

Minnesota's team is composed of a goodly number of veterans, while the same thing is true of the elevens representing Illinois and Indiana. The Gophers have a backfield made up of fast, experienced players, who are experts in executing plays made possible by the new rules and the different shift formations are sure to cause any eleven much difficulty in stopping. On the other hand the backfield players on Indiana and Illinois use all sorts of plays in which the forward pass is depended upon for substantial gains, and in this department of the game the Hoosiers and downstaters are further advanced than the Gophers.

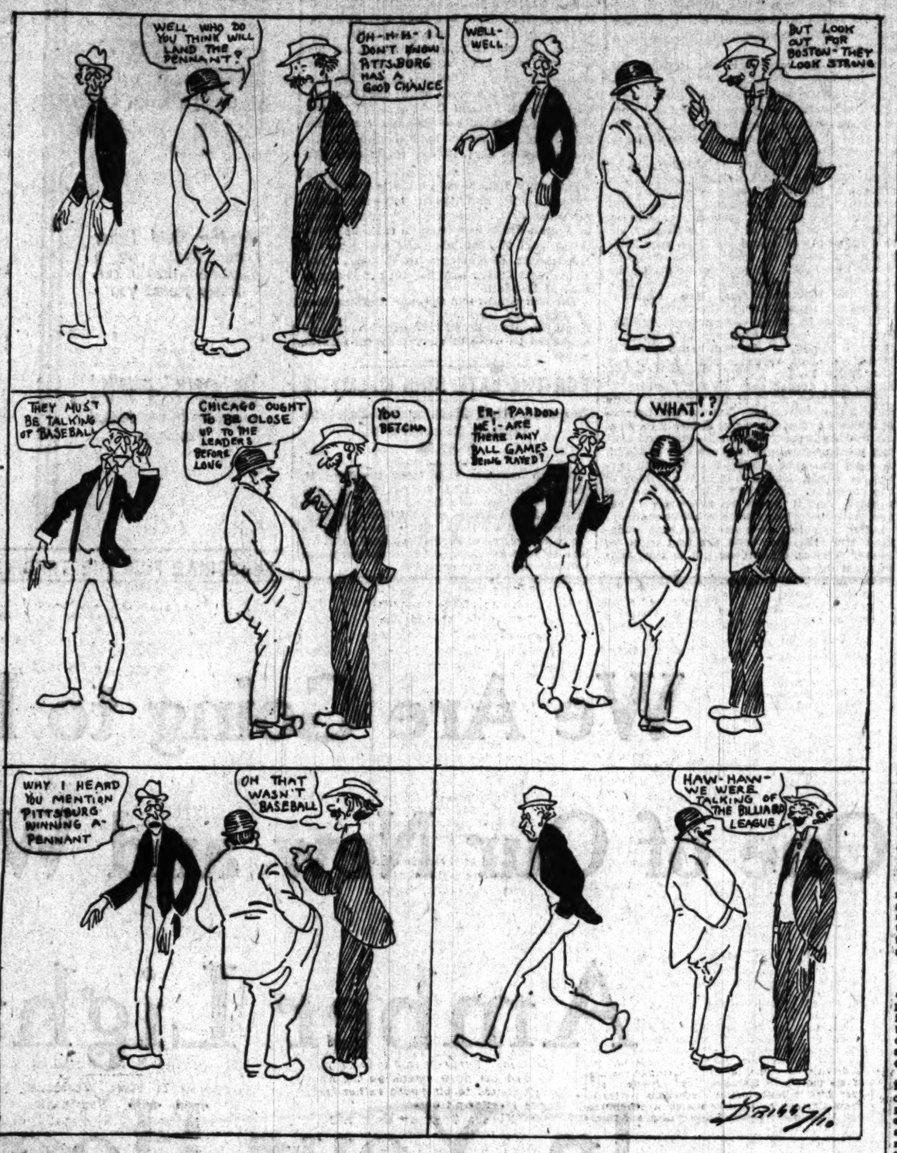
In the kicking departments McGovern for Minnesota, Keller for Illinois, and Gill for Indiana are about equal, and with such star players being past-masters in the art of booting the ball long distances on punts and fairly accurate in kicking goals from the field, no eleven would have any advantage over the other in this department. These four artists have demonstrated their cunning on many occasions, and in the event a post-season contest is played, the work of the kickers certainly would be an important factor.

Chicago Would Be Good Place.

In case the officials of both institutions can agree on playing a post-season contest, the place for such a battle easily could be arranged, but it is hardly likely the contest would take place in Bloomington, as the accommodations in the Hoosier town are not adequate enough to care for the large crowd which would watch the struggle. If the officials could not agree to play the game in Minneapolis, the most likely place then would be Chicago, where many fields are accessible. In the event Marshall field could not be obtained, either one of the large ball parks could be secured easily, and the game could be played on the Saturday following Thanksgiving day.

If the Illinois-Indiana contest results in a tie, then no efforts will be made to play such a game, but it is certain that Coach Sheldon of Indiana and Coaches Hall and Lundgren of Illinois will teach their respective teams all the football they can to bring about a victory. As the game is to be played on the Hoosiers' field, Indiana may be a slight favorite, but the battle is sure to be one of the hardest fought contests of the year in western football.

THERE'S A NEW FAN IN TOWN.



LAKE VIEW TEAM BELOW STANDARD

North Side High Eleven One of Weakest in Cook County Football League.

MATERIAL SEEMS GOOD.

Lack of Proper Coaching Held Responsible for Poor Showing Made This Fall.

Lake View High school this season is represented by one of the poorest teams in the Cook county gridiron league. Although prospects at the beginning of the season looked exceptionally bright, at least much better than a year ago, the team has not come up to expectations, owing in a large measure to the lax support by both players and students.

The material apparently is there, but the development has not shown itself. Although the squad is one of the lightest in either the major or minor leagues, the players individually have as much speed and dash in their work as some of the heavier schools of the league. Collectively, however, the teamwork, the necessary factor, especially under the new code, has been lacking.

The players have striven hard at times to develop a satisfactory team and although the practices have been marked with considerable dash and ginger, the team has not shown anything worthy of merit in any of the games played this season. The greatest fault, according to the coaches, is that the line charges too high and as a result the opposing backs have made easy progress through the forwards.

Tackles Are New Men.

The tackles are new men, and although much has been shown them by the coaches in the way of playing the positions the boys have not been able to follow the instructions to the letter, although they have appeared willing. The back field is a fair one, but without the assistance of a strong line no holes for openings for the quarter the team has gained little ground this season. Clark at quarter is one of the best in the league, but his help has not been with him enough to show what he really can do.

The team started in the northern division of the major league, playing North Division in its first game and losing by a score of 5 to 2. The team showed poor form at the start of the game, but as the play progressed the boys got together and in the last quarter gave the followers of the school an inkling of the best in them.

Team Has No Coach.

Recently the team forfeited to Lake High because it could not get together enough eligible players to play. Three men were declared below in their studies, but it is expected that all will be over the general average mark by next Saturday. Lake View has two more games to play and under decided improvement is shown the team is doomed for a disastrous season.

The weakness of the team can be accounted for in a measure by the fact that it has no real coach of its own. Some of the players who are more experienced instruct the others, while during the early part of the season several of the alumni assisted, but their services would have proved more beneficial if they could have remained with the team during the remainder of the season. Of the alumni Carpenter and Newman, and Twohey and Moan, both seniors, but ineligible to play, have been aiding the team at interval rest periods.

There are only four old men back. They are Capt. Wadhams, Vehe, Russell, and Ware. The others have not played football in high school. Following are the players, weights, and positions:

AT THE BILLIARD HALLS.

E. Steck [50] defeated H. Wolfe [44], 50 to 31, in the three cushion tournament at Steck's last night.

In the three cushion tournament at the Romeo rooms Staples [34] defeated W. Lusewich [50], 34 to 30. Tonight Stahl will play J. Lusewich.

Aided by runs of 62 and 53, George Wheeler last night defeated Al Mannassau, 500 to 253, in their 18-2 match at Fleiner's.

Gomm [150] went too fast for Rydberg [120] in the [14-2 tournament at Bensinger's, winning 150 to 92.

J. Smith [46] defeated Wehr [40], 46 to 34, in the three cushion tournament at Weghman's Madison street rooms.

Professionals George Wheeler and Al Taylor will meet in a 400 point match at 18-2 at the Illinois Athletic club tonight.

In the three cushion tournament at the Drexel, Benedict [47] defeated Hamilton [45], 41 to 23. Allen and J. Smith will play tonight.

Maj. White defeated Charles Tripp, the state pool champion, in their match at Benmer's last night, 100 to 81.

Two games were played last night in the 18-2 tournament at Massey's, Sheppard [160] defeating Anderson [150], 160 to 142, and Alexander [225] defeating Walker [180], 223 to 173.

Play in the local series of the schedule of the intercity three cushion tournament of the newly formed National Billiard league will start tonight when a Chicago player yet to be selected will meet a representative from Kansas City at Massey's rooms at 8 o'clock. Richard Norgrove and F. M. Keyes, the Missouri representatives, who played three matches at Pittsburg, will arrive today.

CONTEST HANGS IN BALANCE

Notre Dame May Receive Michigan Ultimatum Today.

BOARD TO SETTLE MATTER.

Authorities at the Catholic School Refuse to Discuss Question.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 2.—[Special.]—While Coach Yost and the varsity were hard at work behind closed gates this afternoon putting on the finishing touches for the clash with Notre Dame, the athletic authorities were puzzling over the question of the ineligibility of players Dimmick, Philbrook, and Matthews and wondering whether there would be any game at all.

The situation tonight is practically the same as last night except that Michigan made no formal move to take a firm stand in demanding the disqualification of the three athletes, who, it is claimed, have exceeded the limit already. The Wolverine board in control of athletics will meet tomorrow and it is thought that at that time Michigan will formulate an ultimatum which will put the issue squarely up to the Notre Dame authorities. Moreover, it is thought that the evidence that Michigan will present to Notre Dame will be of such a nature that it made public it will cause a mighty stir in western athletic circles.

"Have there been any developments today in the Notre Dame matter?" Chairman Holbrook was asked tonight.

"No, but there probably will be tomorrow," he replied. "The board in control will meet either tomorrow or Friday, when it is thought the matter will be finally settled."

Notre Dame Powers Silent.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 2.—[Special.]—Athletic authorities at Notre Dame declined today to discuss the ineligibility of the players protested by Michigan.

SMALLPOX FOOTBALL NEMESIS.

Games Scheduled by University of Colorado Nov. 5 and 12 Postponed on Account of Epidemic.

Boulder, Colo., Nov. 2.—The football games of the University of Colorado scheduled for Nov. 5 and Nov. 12 have been postponed because of the discovery of three cases of smallpox at the university here. John Clarke, a member of the football squad, is one of the victims.

High School Teams in Tie.

Lake View and Maywood High school football teams played a scoreless game at Gunther park yesterday. Lake View gained over twice as much ground as Maywood, but was unable to shove the ball across. On two occasions the league players reached the ten yard line and were held for downs.

PITTSBURG DROPS FINAL CUE GAME

Kansas City Takes Only Contest of Three Cushion Series by 50 to 37.

THIRD WIN FOR GOTHAM.

Blumenthal Scores Another Victory Over Boston Player by 50 to 31 Count.

Standing of the Clubs.

	W.	L.	Pct.		W.	L.	Pct.
New York	3	0	1.000	Chicago	0	0	....

Boston	0	3	.000	Philadelphia	0	0	....

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 2.—F. M. Keyes of Kansas City took the final game tonight in the series with the local team in the National Amateur Three Cushion Billiard league tournament, thereby redeeming the western team which had been defeated in the games of Monday and Tuesday nights. Keyes ran out his string of 50 to 37 for P. P. Trump and J. F. Wireback, the Pittsburg players.

The game was long drawn out and uninteresting. It took 129 innings for Keyes to finish. At the finish of the thirty-sixth inning Keyes had recorded only six billiards, while Trump had made eleven. Keyes gradually overcame his opponents' lead, however, and won out easily.

The Kansas City players will leave here tomorrow for Chicago. St. Louis players will meet the local men here Nov. 21, 22, and 23.

Third in Row for New York.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 2.—William Blumenthal of New York secured his third consecutive victory in the National Amateur Billiard league tonight by defeating William Heaton of Boston, 50 to 31. Blumenthal made an average of .74, securing a high run of 6, while Heaton's average was .45, with a high run of 4.

Blumenthal's previous wins were over Alex Mascot of Boston.

LATONIA RACE RESULTS.

First race, 1 mile and 70 yards—Wander, 118 [Gans], $3, $4, $2.10, won; Dander, 128 [Kling], $11.80, $4.30, second; Alice Baird, 123 [Goose], $2.70, third. Time, 1:46 3-5. Canopian, Olive Bee, Cornwell and Mr. Rumsey also ran.

Second race, 11-16 mile—Stafford, 123 [Davenport], $21.90, $23, $12.10, won; C. R. Patten, 118 [Koerner], $7.10, $5, second; Dancer, 109 [Kling], $7.30, third. Time, 1:08 1-5. Tom McGrath, Mary Day, Teddy Bear, Miss Primity, Temper, Judge Henderson, Inspector General, Joyance ran. Woodlane lost rider.

Third race, 1 mile—Leek, 106 [Goose], $30.70, $16.90, $7.10, won; Elmonte, 106 [Kling], $12.80, $4.40, second; Sir Dawn, 106 [Koerner], $2.80, third. Time, 1:42 2-5. Haldeman, Americanese, Sugar Lump, Rampant, Starry Herrmann, Alice A., Dale ran.

Fourth race, 1 1-16 miles—John Reardon, 101 [Koerner], $8.20, $3.80, $2.70, won; Leamens, 104 [Goose], $6.50, $2.60, second; Dr. Kleinman, 104 [Davenport], $2.90, third. Time, 1:47 2-5. Toboo ran.

Fifth race, ¾ mile—Merrick, 111 [Gross], $4.60, $4.40, $3.40, won; Camel, 110 [Reid], $5, $3.20, second; Sinfran, 100 [Goose], $8.40, third. Time, 1:16 4-5. Deconness, Buck, Alfred the Great, Glucose, Eye White and Jeanne D'Arc ran.

Sixth race, 1 mile and 70 yards—Ceremonial, 123 [Gross], $8.60, $3.40, $3.20, won; Mont Calm, 125 [Goose], $2.90, $2.60, second; Alma Goose, 102 [Gans], $4.90, third. Time, 1:48. Turnout, Shuman, Warden ran.

Clarence W. Driver Is Hurt.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 2.—[Special]—Word was received here today that Clarence W. Driver, formerly captain of the Purdue baseball team and a graduate of the class of 1910, had been probably fatally injured in a runaway accident at Wabash, Driver, who is in the employ of a heating company, had gone to Wabash to install radiators in a new building there, when the horse he was driving, frightened at an automobile, threw Driver out of the carriage, fracturing his skull and breaking both arms.

CRAWLEY STARS ON OFFENSE

Scores Three Touchdowns and Goals for Varsity.

YEARLINGS UNABLE TO GAIN

Two Complete Teams Fail to Progress with the Purdue Plays.

Capt. Crawley was the bright star of the Maroon squad in the scrimmage at Marshall field last night. The Midway captain carried the ball over the freshman goal line three times for touchdowns and kicked the goals in each case, the final score being 18 to 0.

Two complete freshmen squads were used in order to keep the varsity at top speed throughout the scrimmage. The first year men were unable to gain with Purdue plays, while the varsity swept down the field, using the new formations which Coach Stagg has invented.

Hume Young was out of the practice and may not be in tonight, but his slight injury will not keep him out of Saturday's game. George Kuh also is out of trim, but he is expected to be back in form in a day or two. In the absence of Kuh and Young, Joe Lawler ran the varsity. He has had few tryouts at quarter this year and kept the plays going in snappy style.

Except for the substitution of Lawler at quarterback, the varsity lineup was the same as it has been through the week. Capt. Crawley and Sauer played half, with Ralph Young at fullback, Kassulker and Menaul at end, Rademacher and Carpenter at tackle, Sawyer and Whitelike at guard, and Whiting at center.

The Maroon rooters are confident of a decisive victory over Purdue on Saturday, but the coach still is worried. He knows that his backs will be able to gain but he is afraid that the Purdue backs also will do likewise. He has no one who can be depended on to kick goals from the field, as in past years, and this handicap to the team's scoring ability must be made up in some way.

GOPHERS IN HARD SCRIMMAGE.

Coach Williams Teaches Squad New Plays, with Wolverine Contest as Goal of Season.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 2.—[Special.]—Hard scrimmage again has become the order of the day at Minnesota, although the general consensus of opinion is regret to the Wisconsin game is that the Gophers will have at easy time winning. Still the Badgers have a reputation for taking a brace towards the end of the season, and it is known that the Madison players are starting themselves to the utmost to outwit the Gophers. Consequently, Coach Williams does not intend to take any chances.

MANLEY EXPECTED TO HELP PURPLE IN ILLINOIS GAME.

Northwestern Captain Appears on Field Without Crutches and Team's Stock Goes Up.

The Purple rooters were made joyous yesterday by the news that there was a chance of Capt. Manley's being in the game with Illinois. A special examination of his injury was made by the physician in charge, and it was found that it was fast healing. He appeared on the field without clutches. He will not be allowed to engage in any work until Saturday.

A 75-minute signal practice was held on Patten field, followed by fifty minutes of hard scrimmage. With but four regulars in the varsity lineup, Coach Hammett ordered a rough workout, and the men came out of the grind with no injuries. Many of the team received slight injuries in the Wisconsin game, and therefore were kept out of the scrimmage. McPherrin, Parker, Schulte, and Pfeifer were the regulars who mixed it with the freshmen, the rest of the lineup being carved out of the scrubs.

Much of the time was devoted to individual drilling. Running back punts and tackling were also features of the workout. The Purple coach believes he has found a competent drop kicker in Werts, who plays full back.

HOOSIERS TO LOSE HATFIELD.

Star Tackle Suffers from Malaria and Will Be Unable to Play Against Illinois.

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 2.—[Special.]—Indiana's first streak of hard luck this season came today when the condition of Hatfield, the best tackle in the west, according to Coach Sheldon, became so much worse that he will not be able to play in the game against Illinois. He is suffering from an attack of malaria. He was so much improved on Tuesday that it was thought he would be able to join the squad tomorrow, but a change came today.

NEGRO CHAMPION HIT WITH BRICK

Jack Johnson Receives Scalp Wound While Riding in Nonunion Taxicab.

ON HIS WAY TO STATION.

Hurry Up Message Calls Fighter to New York to Defend Breach of Contract Suit.

In riding to the depot yesterday in a nonunion taxicab, Jack Johnson, heavyweight pugilist, was struck by a thrown brick and a large gash cut in his forehead. The champion, who received a message from his attorney in New York urging him to hasten east, packed his grip, summoned the first cab he could, and started for the station.

As the cab turned into Van Buren street from Clark, where a crowd of union drivers had congregated, some one threw a brick through the window, which struck Jack and stunned him for a few minutes. The driver of the cab hastened to the depot under police protection and Jack had his wound dressed in a nearby drug store.

The champion deplored the incident and said he never stopped to notice in what sort of a vehicle he was riding. Johnson asserted he felt sure the brick was aimed at the driver, but in a joking way said the next time any person threw anything he hoped they would have better control. The druggist who attended the champion said there was nothing serious and aside from suffering a headache, Jack said he was all right.

Johnson was called to New York by his attorney to appear in court tomorrow morning as defendant in a suit which a theatrical concern has brought against him for $5,000 for alleged breach of a contract. Before he boarded the train, the champion said the suit would not amount to much, as no papers were signed, and the officials of the theatrical agency cannot produce anything to show that he served to appear.

As soon as the case is disposed of, Johnson will go to Atlantic City, where he is scheduled to show for two weeks. At the end of this appearance he will return to Chicago to open a two weeks' engagement at a west side theater.

NELSON TO FIGHT AD WOLGAST.

Signs Up with Promoter Blot to Meet Lightweight Champion in Frisco on December 24.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 2.—[Special.]—After Coffroth thought he had a match already made between Bat Nelson and Owen Moran for this month, the Dane switched tonight and signed up with Louis Blot for a return fight with Ad Wolgast for the lightweight championship for Dec. 24. This fight will be in the afternoon, unless weather should prevent. Nelson refused to sign with Coffroth because the promoter didn't offer enough guarantee by $500. This match with Wolgast will draw a large house, as it was demonstrated Monday night local local police will not interfere with prize fighting any more.

Line Smash May Prove Fatal.

Bowling Green, Ky., Nov. 2.—[Special.]—Millard Baker of this place is at St. Joseph's hospital here suffering from a broken neck he sustained while engaged in playing football with the local team against Bethel college at Russellville. Young Baker was playing full back, and while smashing through center he received an injury which may prove fatal.

Robert Pettit Passes Away.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 2.—Administrator M. J. Hynes applied today for letters of administration to the estate of the late Stanley Ketchel's middleweight champion pugilist. Ketchel's San Francisco estate consisted of an automobile, which he left on his departure from this city several months ago.

SECRETARY LOCKE OF PIRATES SERIOUSLY ILL AT PITTSBURG.

Afflicted with What Appears to Be Ptomaine Poisoning—Will Go to Hot Springs When He Is Better.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 2.—[Special.]—W. H. Locke, secretary of the Pittsburg baseball club, is at his home here in a serious condition tonight as the result of what is considered ptomaine poisoning. After the world's series at Chicago he went to New York. En route he had dinner on the train, and when he arrived at his destination he suddenly became sick. His condition was not serious until today. President Barney Dreyfuss said as soon as Locke's physicians will permit he wants his secretary to pass some time at Hot Springs.

NEW YORKERS GROW FACETIOUS

Giants' Office Gives Out Word That It Will Pay Thirty Cents for Entire Cub Team.

New York, Nov. 2.—[Special.]—Regarding the reported statement of Charles Murphy of the Chicago club that he would give $30,000 for Pitcher Matthewson the following was sent out today from the Giants' office:

"The announcement in one of the morning papers that Murphy made an offer of $30,000 for the services of Christy Matthewson created much excitement at the office of the New York baseball club. John T. Brush, president, sent a hurry call for Manager McGraw. After a lengthy consultation it was decided not to part with Matty, but go the Chicago magnate one better by making him a bona fide cash offer of 30 cents in United States currency for his entire club, it being agreed and understood in the event of a successful consummation of the deal that the Chicago club is to have the privilege of retaining all its players except Pitcher Cole.

"Mr. Brush's reason for insisting on keeping Cole is because he is a barber."

The bloke with highbrow airs and ways I introduce to you
Belongs unto a genus comprehensive;
I'll not pretend that I portray a character that's new,
Nor claim that I've discernment that intensive.

This wiseacre by inference combines the owl and Sphinx;
By looks and not by words he gains his prestige.
He poses for a mystic with grimaces, leers, and winks,
But of knowledge he does not disclose a vestige.

He will not say your dictum either is or isn't so,
Though you suspect he's half a mind to scout it,
But he would fain impress you while affecting not to know
That he knows all there is to know about it.

The passing thrill of a fatal accident on a motor speedway reminds one of the simple and touching story of the seven-up game in smuggery back of a family liquor store. There are four players—three customers and the House. The name of one of the customers is Heinie. Heinie has one to go and the situation is intense, as you can well imagine. Suddenly the door is thrust open and a shock of blonde hair appears. The owner of the shock of blonde hair pipes shrilly: "Heinie! Come by the house once; fader iss dead." Then this from the bereaved Heinie: "T' hell he iss! Ven did he die? Vot's drumps?"

We are glad to hear from Minneapolis that the Gophers came out of last Saturday's game with the University of Chicago, "showing no ill effects." It was thought possible that some of them had gone stale through lack of exercise.

IT SINGS LOVELY.

Putting Jack Johnson's resolution to eschew motor racing and stick to his own game in the form of a "croon," it vibrates somewhat after this fashion:

Ah bought a racin' kyah
And Ah t'ought Ah'd be a stah—
Have white folks pinnin' medals on mah brow.
Dat dream will not come true,
Dat game Ah has done blew.
Ah wants no tombstone mahked "J. J. at rest."

Refrain: O—o—o—o— [hold it]
Dat racin' game it ain't no game fo' muh.
Ah raced a man an' finished numbah tuh.
Fo' business Ah'll go huntin' scraps,
Fo' 'musement Ah'll go back to craps—
Dat racin' game it ain't no game fo' muh!

Ah loves de straightaway,
But cubves! O, Lawdy, say!
Wen Ah hits dem mah heaht is in mah frust.
So, moto' track good-by.
Ah'm free. Ah hopes to die!
Dat Bahney Ol'fiel' man done got mah goat.
Refrain—

You can always depend upon Battling Nelson to come back, sufficiently at least to add a little bit more to his bank roll. Lightweights may come and lightweights may go—and the rest of it.

The annual ceremony of searching the Notre Dame football ship for stowaways is now in progress.

Spearing a passing reference to himself in these parts, Mr. C. A. Czalkowski enlarges thus: "My reelection to the presidency of the Northwest Chess club has been the result of my untiring efforts to further the interests of our club, but not alone that, also chess in general."

Which we have not the slightest cause nor inclination to doubt.

GREEK MEETS GREEK ON MAT

Demetral Tackles Tofalos at Coliseum Tonight.

ROLLER VS. WESTERGAARD.

Iowan Agrees to Throw Seattle Physician Once Within Hour.

Wrestling fans of Chicago will be given their first big show of the season tonight at the Coliseum, where the Empire A. C. has arranged five bouts, the final match being for the Greek championship of America, between Demetral and Tofalos, while the semi-windup will bring out Jesse Westergaard of Des Moines, who has agreed to throw Dr Roller once in an hour.

The match for the Greek title has created much interest among foreigners in the city and this bout is sure to result in some of the hardest and fiercest wrestling seen in the Coliseum in a long time. Tofalos has an advantage of about twenty-five pounds in weight over his opponent, but Demetral asserts he will make up for this handicap in speed and science. Each of these Greek wrestlers has plenty of admirers and there has been a lot of betting done by both factions.

Westergaard is hopeful of pinning Roller's shoulders to the mat in an hour. The Iowa grappler is out after the title relinquished by Frank Gotch and considers tonight's bout a stepping stone to the highest honor in the grappling game. Roller does not believe that anybody but a real champion can throw him in an hour, and, instead of taking the defensive, the Seattle physician said he is going right after his bulky opponent and try to throw him inside of the allotted time.

In the opening event Willie Schuis, champion of the German navy, will clash with Emil Victor, a local Polish grappler. This will be Schuis's initial public appearance. Karl Wehram, another German with wrestling ambitions, will tackle the "Mysterious Conductor," and in the fourth bout Charley Olson's new Turk, Hussane, will be pitted against Tom Winkleheofer, the Austrian. Owing to the length of the program, the first bout will start at 8:15 o'clock. Ed Smith will referee all the matches.

Yussif Mahmout, the Bulgarian, will meet Henri Paul in a finish match at a south side theater on Saturday night.

Charley Olson, the light heavyweight wrestler will meet "Mysterious Waffles" at the Empire tomorrow night, while Hussane will clash with Willie Schuis in the other half of the bill.

Olson Wins in Straight Falls.

Jackson, Mich., Nov. 2.—Charles Olson, champion light heavyweight wrestler, had no great difficulty in winning from Peter Pappas, the local Greek wrestler, tonight in two straight falls, requiring 24½ minutes and 21 minutes, respectively.

JACK BRADY BUMPS THE BUMPS

Basil G. Wyrick Defeats "Colbie" Editor in Newspaper Golf Semi-Final at Windsor.

Basil G Wyrick of the Associated Press defeated J. P. Brady of the Inter Ocean in the semi-final round of the newspaper golf tournament at the Windsor Golf club yesterday, 2 up. Part of the match was played through a driving snow storm. Wyrick was two down at the twelfth hole, but won the next four, putting him dormie two. Brady won the seventeenth and lost the eighteenth. D. J. Lavin of the Examiner and W. L. Wells of the Tribune will play their match in the semi-final round this morning, the winner meeting Wyrick tomorrow in the final for the Hobart Chatfield-Taylor trophy.

MIDWAY SOCCERS LOSE, 4 TO 2

Drop Fast Practice Match to Local League Players.

FULKERSON IS MAROON HERO

Scores Both Goals for Collegians; Illinois Here Saturday.

The University of Chicago soccer team had its final practice match yesterday in preparation for the game with the University of Illinois on Saturday. The Maroons met a picked up eleven of local league players and were defeated 4 goals to 2, the success of the leaguers being due to their better front line, which contained two or three of the best forwards in the city.

One half of forty minutes was played, the Maroons having the benefit of the wind. The Maroon right wing and Capt. Fulkerson in center did the best attacking. Stein and Lindsay worked hard and Spoesall made several good stops in goal. The half back line was kept busy watching the tricky forward line of the picked team.

The university team will practice today and tomorrow and on Saturday will meet Illinois at Marshall field, the game being played on a curtain raiser to the Purdue-Chicago intercollegiate match. Lineup:

Leaguers (4).		U. of C. (2)
Fitzroy	Goal	Sponsell
Foster	Right back	Stein
Massie	Right half back	Buck Benets
Turner	Center half back	Grossman
Martin	Outside right	Watts
Trowe	Inside right	Wood
Green	Center	Fulkerson
Coville	Inside left	Jennings

Goals—Fulkerson (2), Green (2), Coville. Turner. Referee—Ben Reed. Linesmen—G. Dunn and Jones.

"RUSSIAN LION" AFTER BOUTS.

George Hackenschmidt Here in Hopes of Getting on Another Match with Champion Frank Gotch.

George Hackenschmidt, the "Russian Lion," considered best of the European wrestlers, arrived in Chicago yesterday, and from now on until May 15 will fill all engagements that come his way. The grappler whom Frank Gotch wrestled for the world's title in 1908 looks 50 per cent better than on his first tour of this country. Hackenschmidt looks the picture of health, and weighs twenty pounds more than when he wrestled Gotch. Hack said he weighs 240 pounds, and is ready to enter the ring with any opponent any club selects for him.

The Russian Lion had no excuses to offer for his defeat by Frank Gotch, and no efforts will be made to secure a match with the Iowa farmer unless the latter issues a statement to the effect that he has come out of retirement. Hackenschmidt will try to get on matches with all the foreign grapplers in this country in the quest of American money with the proviso that all will be to a finish, best two in three falls.

Hackenschmidt produced a set of signed articles calling for a match between himself and Frank Gotch, which was scheduled to take place in Australia last year, and for which each grappler was to receive $10,000. Hack said he traveled all the way from England to the antipodes to fill the engagement, but the American never put in an appearance.

White to Meet Webster.

Charlie White, the local fighter, has been matched for a twenty round bout with Danny Webster of California, the fight to take place at Los Angeles on Thanksgiving afternoon. The boys will weigh in at 122 pounds. Tom McCarey is promoting the contest.

OVERALL BOASTS A BRAND NEW ARM

Cub Pitcher Visits "Bonesetter" Reese and Has "Wing" Put in Shape.

MAY GO BACK TO SLAB.

Prefers Holding Down First Base or Place in Outfield, but—Await Results.

BY R. W. LARDNER.

Mr. O. Overall is back from Youngstown, O., looking at life with a brand new pair of eyes and boasting of a brand new arm. He went down to see the famous "Bonesetter" Reese on the chance that the latter could do something for that wing which is so valuable when it isn't so painful.

Mr. Reese was at home. He told Orrie to be prepared for a moment of severe pain. Orrie set himself and raised his arm above his head. Mr. Reese cracked it, handling it so gently that its owner thought it had been broken off. Then the pain was over, and Overall was able to twist his whip into all kinds of shapes without its hurting him a particle. This was something accomplished in itself, for the arm had been like a toothache for a long time. Orrie settled and started back to Chicago, arriving yesterday.

Overall's Arm in Good Shape.

He wasn't as sure about giving up his pitching job as before he made the trip. He said his arm felt great and that he believed he wouldn't be troubled with it again. Nevertheless Overall would rather catch or play first base or the outfield than pitch. He may not have time to do any of these things if his gold mine comes up to expectations. He and Mrs. Overall and Mr. and Mrs. Mordecai Brown will leave for California tomorrow or Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. Brown will be guests of the Overall family for some weeks.

James Sheckard was another Cub who was feeling better about things. His wife was much improved and he said he thought she would be able to travel in a day or two. Mrs. Sheckard caught cold watching the Cubs lose the first world's series game played on the west side. If she is well enough she and James will start for Columbia, Pa., on Saturday.

Sheck came downtown to do some shopping. He went back to his lodgings with a new hat, a new fish pole, and a new cook book. He said D. A. Fletcher had offered him a five year contract at $100,000 a year to manage all the teams in the new league. He is thinking it over.

Murphy Fails to Show.

President Murphy did not put in an appearance as expected. Al Camplon, who was in charge of the office, thought he would be back from French Lick tomorrow morning. Secretary Thomas left last night for the east, where he will recuperate.

Tris Speaker, the star fielder of the Boston American league baseball team, who has passed two days in Chicago on his way to Texas, resumed his tour to the Lone Star state. Speaker, who is driving his Velie car from Boston to the home of his mother in Hubbard, Tex., expects to cover over 2,000 miles before he reaches his destination. From Chicago he went to Moline, and from there will take in St. Louis, Kansas City, and then go down into Texas.

The filler cap on the radiator of his machine is shaped like a baseball and in it is a message from the mayor of Boston to the governor of Texas. Upon his arrival in Hubbard Speaker will make his mother a present of the car he is driving.

President Ban Johnson of the American league returned yesterday from his trip to the happy hunting ground and reported a great time and an abundance of sport. President Comiskey and the others of the party did not put in an appearance. Ban said they were all enjoying themselves and that he would have stayed awhile longer if business hadn't called him home.

He received and accepted an invitation from Mayor Reyburn of Philadelphia to take part in tomorrow's celebration in honor of the champion Athletics. He will depart on one of the fast trains today.

Ketchel Property in West.

Derby, Conn. Nov. 2.—Robert Pettit aged 48, a former National league baseball player, died at his home here last night. Mr. Pettit joined the Chicago Nationals in 1883 and played with that team for several years, making the trip around the world with it in 1888. After leaving the major league he played in minor leagues, his whole career in baseball comprising about twenty-nine years.

AVIATOR MUST FACE CHARGES

Aero Club Framing Action Against J. A. Drexel.

BALTIMORE MEET OPENED.

Cardinal Gibbons One of Throng of Spectators.

New York, Nov. 2.—[Special.]—W. W. Miller, chairman of the committee of the Aero club having in charge the formation of charges against J. Armstrong Drexel, aviator, for his criticism of the management of the Belmont park meet, and also for his action in the Bennett cup race, spent some time today in putting the matter in proper form to be presented to Drexel. Mr. Miller said he was not in a position to make a statement.

Cortlandt Field Bishop, president of the Aero club, was asked if Drexel had been accused of deliberately losing the Bennett cup for America.

"That is a strong charge to make," said Bishop. "It has not been made."

Bishop said no statement would be made unless the charges were thoroughly substantiated.

It was said at the Aero club today that the charges are of a serious character and involve more than Drexel's resignation from the club. It was asked if the international body would interfere, but it is thought not, as it is a matter of interest only to the Aero club of America. It is argued that Drexel had at least a chance to have taken second place for America and that he had abandoned the race before he had completed less than a quarter of the distance without any apparent reason. His conduct prior to starting has also been censured.

Admirers of young Drexel believe his detractors will have difficulty in proving their assertions. Drexel is said to be only 19 years old, and his open attack on the Aero club is attributed to his youth rather than to a desire to stir up trouble.

Flyers Soar at Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 2.—Baltimore's aviation meet was opened today before a throng of spectators. When the bomb announcing the opening of the contests burst everyone was absorbed in watching Charles F. Willard, American, and James Radley of England, circling about overhead.

The bomb was three-quarters of an hour late, owing to the slight rainfall, but meantime Willard had taken up his Curtiss biplane and soon was joined in the air above course by Radley.

One of the spectators was Cardinal Gibbons. Gov. Crothers and his staff and Mayor Mahool of this city also watched the flights.

Will Try to Fly 50 Miles from Ship.

New York, Nov. 2.—It was announced tonight that J. A. D. McCurdy of Glenn H. Curtiss' staff will attempt to fly by aeroplane from the deck of a vessel fifty miles at sea to Manhattan island next Saturday. The Kaiserin Auguste Victoria will carry McCurdy and his biplane. The test is to demonstrate the feasibility of equipping the new liner Europia, the largest ship in the world, now under construction, with a regular aeroplane service for transferring mail at sea.

THIRTY-TWO ON MOTOR TRIP

Entry List for Reliability Run Breaks All Records.

START ON MONDAY MORNING.

Twelve in the Tourney Division and Twenty in Roadster Class.

BY JOHN G. DE LONG.

The entry list for the 1,000 mile reliability run of the Chicago Motor club which starts Monday morning, closed yesterday with thirty-two nominations.

Of the machines entered, twelve will compete in the touring car division for the Stewart speedometer trophy, while twenty will run in the roadster class for the Van Sicklen cup. The last two entries received by the contest board were those of a Haynes and a Lion. The entry is the largest secured by the local club.

A drawing for numbers followed the closing of the entry list and the cars will go on the long run through central and northern Illinois in numerical order. In the touring car division, No. 1 fell to the Abbott-Detroit, which is to be driven by George D. Brown, while corresponding honors in the roadster class were taken by Charles F. Van Sicklen, who will carry No. 100 on his Falcar.

At yesterday's meeting of the contest board, General Executive Charles Root announced that the start and finish of the five day's run will be from the garage of the Van Dyke Motor Car company, at Cottage Grove avenue and Twenty-fourth street.

Frank Wood, who was to have acted as pilot in his Knox car, withdrew as an official, and Oscar Vollen will mark the course as a Falcar. The official list of entries, together with the numbers and drivers, is as follows:

S. H. STRAWN TO HEAD U. S. G. A.

Chicagoan Is First Westerner to Be Honored with Nomination for Presidency of National Body.

Although the report of the nominating committee of the United States Golf association has not been made public by Secretary R. C. Watson, it was announced yesterday by those in a position to know that Silas H. Strawn of Chicago had been placed at the head of the regular ticket, which is equivalent to election.

Mr. Strawn consented to run shortly after W. A. Alexander of Chicago stated positively he would not be a candidate, owing to the fact he would be away from home for several months next year.

Mr. Strawn, who is a member of several Chicago clubs was a vice president of the national body in 1908 and 1909 and by virtue of legal training is fitted eminently for the position. He will be the first westerner to head a U. S. G. A. ticket.

Mr. Alexander has been renominated for the vice presidency in company with Milton Dargan of Atlanta, Ga. W Fellowes Morgan, who for five years was secretary and for two years has been treasurer, has been renominated and R. C. Watson of New York will succeed himself as secretary.

Invitations have been forwarded to the leading professionals of the country to take part in a two days' tournament at the Memphis Country club on Nov. 25 and 26. The prize list will total $500 A best ball match for professional and amateurs will be played on Nov. 24.

OLDFIELD LOSES LEGAL BATTLE

Famous Driver Argues in Vain for Right to Take Part in Today's Big Events.

ASKS $25,000 DAMAGES.

Sues American and Atlanta Associations for Barring Him; Court Gives It Up.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 2.—For over three hours this afternoon Barney Oldfield participated in a legal contest for the right to enter tomorrow's automobile meet here, and lost.

Attorneys for the American Automobile association held that, instead of an injunction to force the local racing association to allow him to race in defiance of his disqualification by the American Automobile association, Oldfield should have sought a mandamus to secure reinstatement.

Oldfield's attorneys brought suit for $30,000 damages against the American Automobile association and one for $5,000 against the Atlanta Automobile association, along with the injunction proceedings.

The hearing was before Judge G. L. Bell in the Fulton county Superior court. Oldfield's attorneys claimed that he had been disqualified by the American Automobile association without a hearing and that the disqualification of his 200 horse power Benz racer amounted to confiscation of property.

The attorneys argued that his race with Jack Johnson, which caused the disqualification, was justifiable because it would tend to discourage Johnson from future competition with white sportsmen.

The opposition counsel replied that Oldfield's disbarment was automatic under the rules he himself had signed, both against himself and his car. Though they said, was an attempt by Oldfield to show that he is bigger than the A. A. A. Judge Bell after three hours and fifteen minutes of argument, ruled that he had no jurisdiction.

The three days' racing begins on the Atlanta two mile speedway tomorrow at 11, with eight events, ranging from time trials to a 100 mile race for a trophy and a cash prize of $1,000.

Five Cars Are Withdrawn.

Because of the death of Al Livingstone last night as the result of an accident in practice work at the speedway yesterday the entire entry of the National Automobile company, comprising five racing cars, in charge of Johnny Aitken and Howard Wilcox, was withdrawn from the Atlanta meet. The cars were shipped back to Indianapolis tonight.

The funeral of Livingstone will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and the body will be deposited in a vault at Westview cemetery pending further arrangements for shipping it back to his home in New York.

Tyrus Raymond Cobb, the world's champion batter, and Napoleon Rucker, the star left hander of the Brooklyn team, will meet tomorrow afternoon on the speedway in a special match race.

Fight Stopped in Nebraska.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 2.—[Special.]—Prize fighting in Nebraska was given a black eye tonight and the fifteen round mill between Phil Knight of Kansas City and Tommy Bresnahan was stopped before it started. Chief of Police Reigan ordered it. The money was refunded. It is said Gov. Shallenberger sent word that if the fight was permitted he would bring proceedings under the state law against the chief of police.

THE CITY HALL BONDS.

The Democratic speakers and writers are trying to persuade the voters to defeat the bond issue. We can listen with mild amusement to Democratic professions of devotion to the public good and assurances of economic and efficient administration. They are commonplaces. We can put up with a moderate amount of campaign mud slinging. But when the local Democracy makes a wanton and dishonest partisan attack upon a just measure it is time to do a little plain talking.

At the beginning of the year Democratic and Republican aldermen united in making an appropriation for city hall construction. They voted that the money paid out from current revenues during the year should be reimbursed out of bond issues. There was not a word then of Democratic hostility to such issues. The men now denouncing them knew what was being done, but they were silent.

The more intelligent among them know what would happen if their campaign of false pretenses and fraud were successful. If there were no bond issue the city revenues could not be reimbursed. A deficiency would be created which would have to be made good out of next year's revenues. There would be much less money for general municipal purposes in 1911.

Let us be a little more specific so that the voters may know exactly the kind of feast to which the Democrats are inviting them. If no bonds were to be issued it would be necessary to make a heavy cut in the health department appropriation. So the Democrats who oppose an issue are ready, and even anxious, to cripple that branch of the public service. The protection of the health of the community offends them, or at least does not interest them.

It would be necessary to reduce the strength of the police department, and thus afford less protection to life and property. It seems as if the Democratic party wished to give aid and comfort to the criminal element in return for its votes.

It would be impossible to strengthen and might be necessary to weaken the fire department. Why should the Democratic party advocate that criminal policy?

The payment of moneys due on pension funds would have to be postponed indefinitely. That would be dishonest and cruel, but it does not distress the Democrats who are fighting the bond issue.

It would be impossible to order any permanent improvements. The bridges which the war department has ordered removed could not be replaced, and the public would be inconvenienced.

There is, indeed, one thing the city could do which might enable the municipal government to hobble along. It could make the city hall contractors and other creditors wait for their money, and perhaps force them to sue for it. Thus the completion of the city hall could be delayed indefinitely and the credit of the city damaged. Do the Democrats wish to force that alternative upon the city?

The old city hall was not a thing of joy and beauty. Democrats agreed with Republicans that it should be got rid of; that it was disreputable and not a fit place to do business in. Now that there is a new building which will be a credit to the city, the Democratic bosses act as if they resented it and wished to punish the community by maiming the municipal government.

The inevitable consequences of a defeat of the bond issue have been told. Now we can see the malignity and hypocrisy of the Democratic party and the falsehood of its assurances that it is advising the voters for their own good. Any voter who wishes to make next year an unsafe one for himself and his property will vote against the bond issue. But THE TRIBUNE hopes there will be few such, and that the Democratic taxpayers, at least, will unite with the Republicans in voting "yes."

The bond issue is a business proposition, a nonpartisan measure. The city cannot get along without it.

THE POT IS TOO BLACK.

The party which in the Sixth senatorial district of Cook county renominated the man who paid the jackpotters in a St. Louis hotel bathroom, and in the Twenty-seventh district renominated the man who bought votes for William Lorimer; the party which in its state convention gave a place on its resolutions committee to Lee O'Neil Browne; the party which in its state convention did not have the courage to express the honest opinions any part of it may have had regarding the corruption disclosed within it—that party appears ludicrously in the clothes of reform.

Who guarantee the uprightness of a Democratic administration should the voters put the affairs of the state, the county, the sanitary district, and the Municipal and county courts in the hands of candidates nominated by the Democratic organization?

Do Wilson, Broderick, and Browne? Do Kenna, Coughlin, and Brennan? Do Kenna, Skidmore, and "Boss" McLaughlin? Charlie Martin, John F. O'Malley, John Powers, Walter Lants, George McConnell?

Is this the bond offered the voters?

THE TRIBUNE is not governed by partisan influences in the local campaign. There are candidates on the Democratic ticket whom it prefers to their Republican opponents. There are Republicans against whom the Democrats easily might have set better men. It is the regret of THE TRIBUNE that they did not. What THE TRIBUNE desires to emphasize is the folly of expecting a practical reform from the men who control the Democratic organization.

The character of the managers of the local Democracy is such as to negative every promise of betterment through the agency of that party. Here and there an individual candidate, through his own individuality, might be relied on to arise out of the morass in which his candidacy had its roots. Such are exceptional.

Noisy mouthings come from the Democratic campaigners. To any voter who will look at the list of men powerful in that party the clamor against Republican misdoings will appear farcical. Until the Democratic party changes its management its promises will be enormously hypocritical. It gives a place in its councils not only to men who have been dishonest and corrupt in public life, but even to men who have made profit by commercializing the lowest, most vicious classes in the city.

This pot is too black to say anything about the kettle.

When the voters are asked to accept an entire Democratic ticket, or even the majority of such a ticket so controlled, for the sake of honest administration they must feel that their intelligence is rated cheaply.

ADDRESSED TO ATTORNEY ERBSTEIN.

Attorney Erbstein, for reasons after which nobody will have to climb up a tree, desires the public to believe that he is a Martyr.

Attorney Erbstein would like to shape a martyr's crown out of the true bills a grand jury of his peers have voted. He would have us believe that, like his employer, Mr. Lorimer, he is the victim of a conspiracy, or, to use his own phraseology, a "frame up." The object of this "frame up," Attorney Erbstein declares, is to check the overwhelming demand of the people of Cook county that he shall permit himself to be chosen state's attorney succeeding Mr. Wayman.

Putting aside the pleasant picture of Cook county in the hands of Attorney Erbstein, THE TRIBUNE begs to offer him the following suggestions.

1. Attorney Erbstein, being restive under the unjust charges nefariously trumped up against him, is naturally anxious for a speedy trial and a prompt judgment. Why not waive the tedious processes of trial by jury and submit his case to some judge of known probity?

Surely Conscious Innocence in the person of Attorney Erbstein will grasp at such a swift and certain release from injustice.

But this would merely establish the spotless quality of Attorney Erbstein's conscience. It would show him innocent. It would not show his conspiring enemies guilty. Therefore THE TRIBUNE suggests:

2. That Attorney Erbstein invite the Chicago Bar association, high guardian in this community of the honor of his profession, to inquire searchingly into any conspiracy against him, and if such exists, to brand the dastards publicly, procure the banishment from the profession of Mr. Wayman, and the condign punishment of his accomplices.

By taking this step Attorney Erbstein would have the advantage of forestalling action by the Bar association upon its own initiative—action which doubtless the Bar association already recognizes as its duty, as custodian of the honor and morals of the legal profession in the community, to investigate and fully expose the truth and all the truth about Attorney Erbstein and his activities or his sufferings.

WHAT IT WAS INTENDED TO BE.

The president's expert commission on the waterway project, after investigation, has concluded that Mr. Lorimer's plan is impracticable and visionary.

Thus an entirely nonpolitical, nonpartisan, and disinterested body has come to the conclusion at which the observant citizen of Illinois, we trust, already has arrived.

But the citizens should go one step further and realise that Mr. Lorimer's plan is not only impracticable and visionary, but that it was meant to be, and likewise that his and his Democratic allies' opposition to action by the state prior to federal coöperation is a part of the same strategy.

The object of this strategy is the obstruction of President McCormick's and Gov. Deneen's plan now favored by the president's experts and the postponement of all measures for the protection and development of the people's water power property, present and potential.

TWO JUDICIAL CANDIDATES—AND A DANGER.

Two men on the Republican ticket merit special attention. Other Republicans and some Democrats are entitled to commendation—THE TRIBUNE hopes to fulfill its obligations to them later—but two candidacies, because of the importance of the offices they involve and because of the personality of the men offered, should be emphasized.

These two candidates are County Judge Lewis Rinaker and Probate Judge Charles S. Cutting.

It is the principal object of the agents of William Randolph Hearst in this election to secure control of the Chicago election machinery. Prior to the Democratic primaries Roger C. Sullivan and Democrats associated with him were subjected to an extraordinary campaign designed to make them see the advantages of a "harmonized" Democracy which would offer Hearst an opportunity to get the election commissioners' office in his hands. Sullivan and his associates gradually were convinced. Hard names were used for a week, but when they consented to accept John E. Owens, an Independence league product and Hearst politician, as the slate candidate for county judge the abuse ceased. Mr. Sullivan was transformed from "The Jolly Roger" of the black flag into a saintly person of reforming habits.

The halo which the Hearst agents suddenly placed on his brow sat for awhile on an uneasy head, but Roger is reconciling himself to his compulsory goodness, and Mr. Hearst waits in hope that the voters of Chicago will be foolish enough to elect his candidate for county judge and thereby place him in control of elections for the next four years.

To make this harmony possible Mr. Sullivan sacrificed a Democratic attorney of excellent character—this being merely an incident to be considered for what it is worth.

John E. Owens means Hearst. As county judge he will mean Hearst in the election commissioners' office; Hearst in control of Chicago judges and clerks of election.

Judge Rinaker, the Republican candidate, has administered the affairs of the election office for four years with admirable fairness and impartiality. He has endeavored to protect the elections, to insure an honest casting of ballots, and an honest count of them. He has proposed betterments in the election methods and has instituted many, being prevented in others by unscrupulous legislative objection.

His reelection means the continuance of the fair and courageously honest administration of this office. The election of Owens means Hearst.

Judge Cutting's record constantly recommends him for return to the office of Probate judge. His efficiency and his scrupulous character are above attack even from an irresponsible opposition.

In both instances the voters have presented to them two judges whose records compel respect and demand recognition at the polls. In the one instance, in addition to this, a political danger is involved in the candidacy of a Hearst owned Democrat, who, if elected, will be a Hearst controlled head of the election office.

FRANK A. VOGLER.

In one of its happier moments the last legislature was persuaded to pass a law which would result in removing some of the reasons for just complaint against the sheriff's office in Cook county. The new official to be elected next week will take up his duties with a good opportunity to set a new standard of efficiency. THE TRIBUNE is convinced that Frank A. Vogler, the Republican candidate, has the ability and the disposition to do so. He has shown in other offices that he is efficient, and THE TRIBUNE recommends him to voters seeking an improvement in the administration of this office.

IN A MINOR KEY.

Opie's Latest Exploit.

Old Opie Dilldock, who was spending an evening at the Tom Pepper club's bungalow—country club dialect for shack—being called upon to set forth in narrative form his most recent hunting adventure, modestly complied.

"I was out hunting rabbits the other day," he said, "and was having poor luck. I hadn't shot more than twenty-five or thirty and the afternoon was half gone. I was getting tired. So I picks up a charred stick of wood and makes a big round black spot on the sawed off end of a huge log that was lying on the ground. Then I goes and hides behind a stump and sends my dog chasing around through the woods. Well, sir, whenever he started up a rabbit he'd head it in my direction, and the rabbit would see that black spot on the end of the log and think it was a hole, and then it would dart at it, slam bang, and butt its brains out. I stayed there till I had got forty-six more rabbits, and then I quit and painted out the black spot. I don't like to see a man act the hog, even when he's hunting."

"Was it a chestnut log?" inquired one of the members of the club.

But Opie paid no attention to the insinuation. C. W. T.

MEMORIES of a royal romance of thirty years ago have been recalled through the death at Breslau in Silesia of a local practitioner named Dr. Melchoir Willim. In 1874 and 1875 he was one of the young physicians called in to assist the leading medical authorities in the care of the late Duke Eugene of Wurtemberg.

The duke cared little for his only son and namesake, nor for his wife, but was deeply attached to his only daughter, Duchess Pauline, who nursed him throughout his illness with the utmost devotion. In this way she was brought into contact with young Dr Willim and fell in love with him and he with her, her father, of course, knowing nothing about the matter.

After his death Duchess Pauline and the doctor determined to wed, but found all sorts of obstacles in the way of their union. It was not until five years later that the Duchess managed to effect an arrangement with the late king of Wurtemberg and her relatives whereby she was able to wed Dr. Willim.

According to this agreement, she renounced her royal status, her titles, and all her prerogatives as a duchess of Wurtemberg, and as a princess of the reigning house, being created by the king a member of the petty nobility, with the name of "von Kirbach." It was as "Miss von Kirbach" that she married Dr. Willim on May 1, 1880, and went with him to live at Breslau, where he had built up a considerable practice. At the same time she gave an undertaking not to return to Wurtemberg, where by reason of her near relationship to the reigning family her presence might have proved awkward.

Apparently she never regretted her choice and was perfectly content and happy with her lot. She made no attempt to assert her royal birth and took pains to avoid royal visitors whenever they came to Breslau, where she took an active part in the woman's rights movement, being even suspected of harboring socialist sympathies. When last I saw her she had lost all traces of any beauty she may have had, and was, to say the least, eccentric in her dress, showing a decided preference for red blouses, which naturally were construed as a manifestation of her alleged socialist leanings. She has several children now grown up.

André Massena, who, at the age of 19, now succeeds, through the death of his enormously stout father, to the latter's honors as fifth Prince d'Essling, and Duc de Rivoli, is a great-grandson of the first Emperor Napoleon's most celebrated marshal—namely, André Massena, who, of Jewish origin, was created Duke of Rivoli for the battle of Rivoli, in Italy, and Prince of Essling, for his services in connection with the French victory of Essling, in lower Austria.

The emperor also inscribed him and his heirs, in male line direct, in the pages of the grand livre de France, for an annuity in perpetuity of $18,000 a year, which was commuted by the late prince after much negotiation, with the present republican government, for a large sum. The annuity was given to Marshal Massena, not so much for his military services as for his ready diplomacy in taking upon himself, without an instant's hesitation, the full responsibility for the clumsiness of his sovereign in destroying one of the eyes of Marshal Berthier, Prince de Wagram, at a shooting party at Fontainebleau. After the downfall of Napoleon Marshal Massena joined the Bourbons and had his titles confirmed by Louis XVIII.

The late prince was familiar, both under the name of d'Essling and of Duc de Rivoli, to many American visitors and residents of the French Riviera as president of the Cercle de la Mediterranee, the principal club at Nice. He served as officer of cavalry in the Austrian war of 1859 and again in the Franco-German war of 1870, and was among the few who remained wholly loyal to the Bonapartes after their downfall following the battle of Sedan. It was this fidelity, as well as his artistic talents and his wonderful cleverness as a raconteur, that commended him to the good will of the late Queen Victoria, who was fond of him, and who frequently invited him and his consort to visit her at Windsor.

The princess died in 1908, within twenty-four hours of the Princess de Wagram, a curious coincidence, since Napoleon's great victories of Wagram and Essling were fought on two successive days, July 5 and July 6, 1809. Princess d'Essling, like the late Princess de Wagram, was a member of the Jewish race, though a convert to Roman Catholicism, the Princess de Wagram being a daughter of one of the Barons Rothschild of Frankfort, while the Princess d'Essling was Cecile Furtado, a niece and adopted daughter of the multi-millionaire, Mme. Furtado-Heine, so famous for her philanthropy that it won for her the cross of officer of the Legion of Honor—a unique distinction for a woman.

The late Princess d'Essling at the time of her marriage to the prince was the widow of Gen. Michael Ney, Duke of Elchingen, and Prince de la Moskowa, by whom she had two daughters, Rose Ney, married to the Duke Lanza de Camastra, and Violette, wife of Prince Eugene Murat, as well as two sons, the elder of whom, Napoleon Ney, Prince de la Moskowa, is judicially separated from Princess Eugénie Bonaparte (of the Roman Bonapartes), while the other, Charles, Duc d'Elchingen, has as wife the widowed Countess Charles de Breteuil, nee Roussel. These four children of Princess Essling by her first marriage are, therefore, half-brothers and half-sisters of the new Prince d'Essling.

The death of Gen. Michael Ney, Prince de la Moskowa, grandson of the first Napoleon's famous Marshal Ney, whom the great emperor proclaimed to be "the bravest of the brave," remains to this day shrouded in mystery, which his relatives and the authorities alike refrain from making any attempt to unravel.

He was found slain in 1881 in a deserted house at Croissy, half way between Paris and St. Germain, under such unsavory circumstances that it was concluded that private and public interests would best be served by abstaining from any inquiry as to whether he had been actually murdered or had been driven to take his own life by the blackmailers who already had succeeded in extorting large sums of money from him.

It would be impossible to make any mention of the name of his grandfather, Marshal Ney, in an American newspaper without calling attention to the fact that he is believed by many to have survived his execution in Paris on Sept. 7, 1815, when he was shot by the soldiers in fulfillment of the judgment of the court martial, and to have come to this country, where he is said to have spent many years, dying here at an advanced age. So much has been written, however, about this story in the American press—a story always denied by the Ney family—that it is unnecessary to make any more than the briefest reference thereto.

In conclusion I may mention that the late Prince d'Essling was one of the most noted bibliophiles in Europe and has left not only a magnificent library, but an unrivaled collection of engravings of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Should this collection and his library come under the hammer the auction would attract book and art lovers from all parts of the world.

Although identified with Crete, and denounced by the sublime porte as an Ottoman renegade, M. Venezelo, the new Greek premier, and the most important figure in Greek politics at the present moment, is of old Hellenic stock, and can show a more ancient and illustrious line of Greek ancestry than any other public man in Greece today.

The English traveler, Wheeler, who was at Athens in 1676, mentioned the Venezelos among the five chief families of the city, from each of which were chosen the Epitropoi, or magistrates who were appointed to settle disputes arising among the Christians. The other families, who included the Pittakoi and the descendants of the historian, Chalcocondyles, have become extinct and M. Venezelo represents the only one of the five houses in question that is left.

SO much poetic guffle has been written about My Lady Nicotine that many people, including writers, really believe that tobacco is an aid to literary composition. A number of authors were lately questioned by a French journal, and here are some of the replies:

Jules Claretie: "I smoke cigarets, but do not know why; certainly not for pleasure."

Georges Fedyeau: "I used to smoke a great deal, but have given it up, because I found it impaired my memory."

Alfred Capus: "I would be glad if I could give up smoking, for it gives me no pleasure, and in the long run tobacco is an undesirable collaborator."

Maurice Donnay: "Since I gave it up I can work whenever and as much as I please."

In the District court of Crawford county, State of Kansas, sitting at Pittsburg. . . .

Mattie Case, plaintiff, vs. I. N. Skinner, defendant. . . .

The plaintiff further says that about a week after the mutual exchange of their said promises of marriage, the defendant to indulge the plaintiff and encourage her in the belief of his good faith and earnest intentions regarding the said marriage contract, proposed that she should no longer defile her little hands with suds and dishwater in the scullery of pots and kettles, for that by virtue of his high and exalted position as chief of police of the great city of Pittsburg, he exercised a despotic supervision over a rushing flood of intoxicating liquors, made inexhaustive and grew like summer grass, fastest by night, unseen, yet excessive in its quantity, by the vigilance of his subordinates, and that tribute-like to this flow of liquors could be ingeniously diverted to her residence and disposed of to the mutual delight and profit of both plaintiff and defendant, and soon thereafter all kinds and brands of intoxicating liquor began and continued to arrive at her residence in the night time, and was delivered there by orders of the defendant from the city's conservatory of liquefied evidence, bottled and prima facie, and stored in the gruesome corridors in the basement of the city hall, and the defendant frequented the house of the plaintiff thereafter, and they consumed a quantity of the liquors themselves and distributed the balance among friends and acquaintances, and the defendant, on every occasion of his visits, invariably expressed his solemn and earnest protestation of devotion and love for the plaintiff, and when he tenderly whispered of the final consummation of their marriage, eyes looked love to eyes that spake again, and again they pledged with wine and exchanged their nuptial vows.

THE ROAD TO SANITARIA.

Besides dieting, worrying, and reading medical books, it is a good plan to fletcherize your food, lying prone on the floor whenever possible. This position insures the tongue hanging correctly and conserves the natural saliva resources. To realize the wonders of fletcherizing, compare the elderly Mr. Fletcher, aged seventy-something, with the elderly family dog, aged 12. Mr. Fletcher chews and chews and chews; Fido bolts his food. If Fido could be taught to fletcherize his bone or biscuit, he might live to be seventy-something. Therefore chew and chew and chew.

APROPOS of Sylvia, contributes H. W. W., these can be taken off or put on: Spectacles, curls, smiles, puffs, rouge, skates. There are at least two hundred other things.

WORLD CLINIC IN CHICAGO.

Clinics which will make Chicago a surgical mecca for two weeks will open next Monday, when demonstration of every branch of medical science will be shown in twenty-one Chicago hospitals simultaneously.

For every day after that more than 2,000 of the best known surgeons in the world, until Nov. 19, will spend their time going from one clinic to another, gathering new ideas and methods of performing operations from their professional brothers.

All—not surgeons of the United States army have been ordered to attend.

With Dr Franklin H. Martin, managing editor of Surgery, Gynecology, and Obstetrics, originated the idea of combining the medical profession of the United States into one large clinical society. Invitations were issued to 12,000 surgeons, and more than a tenth of the number already have accepted.

Headquarters will be established at the La Salle hotel, where a corps of clerks will act as a reception committee and issue tickets of admission to the clinics. The clinics will be posted at least twenty-four hours in advance.

Local medical societies are preparing a program. Six evenings of the two weeks will be given over to literary discussion of surgical subjects. The speakers will be selected from the men in the United States and abroad who are considered authorities on the particular subjects selected.

Dr. Chas. H. Mayo will lead a discussion on "Ligation or Partial Extirpation of Exophthalmic Goiter" before the Chicago Medical society on Wednesday evening. Another subject of interest to laymen is a discussion of infant paralysis, which was recently epidemic in various parts of the country, especially in Minnesota. Dr. H. E. Robertson of the University of Minnesota will illustrate the talk with lantern slides.

Among the social affairs is a reception by the editors and their wives in the red room and banquet hall of the La Salle hotel on Nov. 15, a smoker in the same place the 17th. On Tuesday, Nov. 8, Dr. Alexander Hugh Ferguson will give a reception at his residence.

Dr. Franklin Martin in commenting on the selection of Chicago for the clinics declared the local health department is recognized as an example for other cities.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

VOTE FOR JUDGE CUTTING.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—There is just one place in this great city where all its citizens are equally interested; one place where all meet on a common plane—where politics should never enter, and where peace and justice should, as now, ever abide. I refer to the Probate court, now so ably presided over by Judge Cutting and his efficient assistants. There pass through their hands every year nearly seven thousand estates of deceased persons, amounting to many millions of dollars. It is true that many of these estates are small, but they constitute the sum total of the earthly possessions of people in moderate circumstances, and in many instances in humble homes. Then, too, moneys realized for death claims, where men have been killed, and moneys realized from life insurance, must, in most cases, pass through, or be directed by this court. Children under age must have guardians, both of person and property, and the duty of selecting and appointing these officers devolves upon this court. Many of the people interested in the smaller estates and damage claims fall into the hands of men who call themselves lawyers, and who seek always to retain under one pretense or another for service rendered, a large percentage of the moneys involved, thus really robbing widows and children. The court, as at present organized, often thwarts attempts of this kind, and protects the weak.

In Judge Cutting the public has a servant of acknowledged ability, of superior wisdom and knowledge of the law; a man possessed of physical and mental powers that give him great strength and force, and with it all a keen sense of the eternal fitness of things. He knows and acts intuitively, and without hesitation, showing that his own composition is keenly adjusted to the law. He rules in kindness, yet with firmness. It is rare that appeals are taken from his decisions. I doubt if there is a man in the county that is so well equipped for the duties of this important office as Judge Cutting, and I know that it is not possible for any man to render more valuable and conscientious service, both to the public and the individual who must use this court.

The good, the brave, the wise, the just. The friends thou hast, and their adoption tried, grapple them to thy heart, with hooks of steel."

The voters of this county at the coming election will best serve their own interests by retaining this faithful officer as long as he will continue to serve them. Vote for Judge Cutting!

NO LIQUOR "ADS."

Clinton, Mo., Nov. 1.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Your great journal is certainly entitled to great praise for the assistance it is giving to the revival now in progress in Chicago. But a greater meed of praise is due it, because a close observation of the Sunday edition failed to discover a single liquor "ad." If this policy is continuously and persistently pursued, I consider it a greater evidence of clean and good journalism than even the publicity given the great revival.

What would you think, Mr. Editor, if I should come to your home every day while you and your wife are not on guard and thrust a bottle of liquor into the faces of your children and use all manner of wiles and blandishments to get them to drink the stuff? That is just what the liquor advertisement in a family paper does. And the cleaner the paper the more forceful is the advertisement. W. M. GODWIN.

CONGRATULATIONS FROM STERLING.

Sterling, Ill., Nov. 1.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Apropos Erbstein: "Delighted." E. L. R. AND DECENT CITIZENS EVERYWHERE.

WORTH INVESTIGATING.

[From the Los Angeles Herald, Monday, Oct. 24.]

Of interest here because of the aqueduct power which Los Angeles will have for its own uses and for sale is the situation in Chicago, which city has developed the first public central station to be run under public management. Great success has attended the venture since the sanitary district that has charge of the investment was rescued out of the hands of machine politicians.

Previous to the incumbency of Robert R. McCormick it was the prey of politicians, who played into the hands of its enemies in business. Now an election is impending on the question of extension, and every public service corporation and machine politician is working for the defeat of McCormick.

As Collier's Weekly tells it, the sanitary district now has fully 200 miles of transmission lines within the Chicago city limits, and is supplying 200,000 kilowatt hours daily. The profit over running expenses, repairs, and depreciation averages $25,000 a month, which is an interest rate on the investment of 7 per cent. From a financial point of view, however, the greatest benefit is in the cost of street lighting, which has been reduced in Chicago and other towns which are supplied by over $300,000 a year. Mr. McCormick, if this work is not interfered with, expects a total financial saving of not less than $1,000,000 a year. He sees in the development of some of the power sites enough power for municipal subways and other similar purposes.

It is the old story of the public welfare against selfish private interests seeking special privilege, and the outcome of the election on Nov. 8 will be looked for with interest. As Collier's says, "if McCormick is beaten in November the joy of the machines and public service corporations will have no bounds. If he is reelected a big progressive work will be carried further."

Los Angeles can probably find in the Chicago experience some valuable information to apply to the problem on hand in this city. The question of the disposition of our power is so important as to justify the hope that Mr. McCormick will be invited to come to Los Angeles and give the people of this city the benefit of his knowledge.

IN THE RELIGIOUS WORLD.

Missionaries to Celebrate.

Chicago becomes the center next week of a nation-wide celebration of the foreign missionary movement. Fifty years ago this month the first women missionaries left America for work in foreign lands. Since then all the great religious denominations have established bureaus of foreign missionary endeavor and have sent to every land under the sun women missionaries.

The Women's National Foreign missionary jubilee was begun along the Pacific coast several weeks ago. Celebrations of the fiftieth anniversary of missionary endeavor on the part of women were held in San Francisco, Seattle, Butte, Salt Lake City, Spokane, Los Angeles, St. Paul, and Denver. On Nov. 9 and 10 a two days' celebration will be conducted in Chicago. This will be under the direction of the Allied Foreign Missionary societies of every church denomination in the city. Mrs. Andrew MacLeish is the general chairman. Back of the celebration is the International committee of the Women's Foreign Missionary board in Boston.

Wednesday afternoon an illustrated lecture will be delivered in Orchestra hall by the Rev. Sumner R. Vinton on "Western Women in Eastern Lands." It will illustrate the success of the work in Japan. A set of moving pictures shows child life in many phases, especially children at their games. Ramabai's 1,800 widows in procession, school children at their meals in a boarding school and at physical exercise.

The pictures dealing with the life of women in foreign lands show the cramped and crippled womanhood in China, burden bearing life of women in Buddhist countries, child marriage and perpetual widowhood in India, and polygamy in Africa and mohammedan lands.

Wednesday night group meetings are to be held in the Fourth Presbyterian church on the north side, in the Park Avenue Methodist Episcopal church on the west side, and in the Forty-first Street Presbyterian church on the south side. These meetings will be addressed by Mrs. Helen Barett Montgomery, once president of the Federated Women's clubs in New York City; Dr. Mark Noble, head of a mission hospital in north India; Mrs. W. T. Elmore of India; Miss Susan A. Searle, president of Kobe college, Japan; Mrs. Mardin of Turkey, Miss Florence Miller, Miss Ella D. MacLaurin, and Miss Harriet Taylor, secretary of the national board of the Y. W. C. A. in America.

Thursday morning there are to be parlor conferences at the residences of Mrs. Luther Bodman, North State street; Mrs. N. H. Moore, Oak Park, and Mrs. William Rainey Harper, Woodlawn avenue.

On Thursday at 1 p. m. a banquet to 1,000 women will be served in the banquet hall of the Auditorium hotel. Addresses will be delivered by the speakers mentioned above.

Thursday afternoon there will be a number of denominational rallies in the various churches centering about Moody church, and at 7:30 Thursday evening the jubilee celebration will be concluded with a massmeeting at the Moody church, where addresses on foreign missionary topics will be delivered by Mrs. Montgomery and Prof. E. D. Burton of the University of Chicago.

Mission Workers Hear Roosevelt.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 2.—For a few hours today ex-President Roosevelt had a respite from the stress of the campaign, turning from politics to missions. He stopped off at Baltimore on his way to Iowa to speak at a Methodist missionary meeting.

Bishop Earl Cranston of Washington and Dr. Eugene A. Noble, president of Goucher college, an institution for women, took the colonel in hand. They took him to Goucher college, where he made a short address to the students and faculty. He told the young women that a college education was no passport to an easy life and that they ought to study hard and stick to it.

The evening meeting was held in connection with the annual gathering of the general committee of the board of foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal church, the first regular session of which is to take place tomorrow.

"Although I am a member of the Dutch Reformed church," said Col. Roosevelt, "I always feel at home among the Methodists; and there are times when my opponents say that I talk like a Methodist lay preacher. I only wish that I could talk half so effectively."

The colonel told of his visits to missions in Africa during his hunting trip and of the work which is being done there.

Col. Roosevelt is to spend tomorrow on the train, reaching Chicago at 8:45 p. m. and leaving there at 10 p. m. for Davenport, Ia.

CHICAGO HARBOR LAGS BEHIND CITY

Opportunity Now Knocks at Door of Residents to Make Improvements.

DELAY MAY BE PERILOUS.

President McCormick of Sanitary District Tells Strides of Rival Ports.

Robert R. McCormick, president of the sanitary district, visited a number of cities in Europe last summer, studying drainage and harbor problems. His observations of the European harbors which have been published in THE TRIBUNE have been of unusual interest at the present time when the harbor question is so actively before the public. In the following article Mr. McCormick turns from the European harbors to the Chicago harbor, telling facts he believes are vital to the knowledge of all Chicago residents.

BY R. R. M'CORMICK.

It has been said that three factors determine the commercial supremacy of a seaport city: First, its potential tributary commerce; second, the size and accessibility of its harbor; third, the development of its wharves to meet the requirements and accelerate the growth of its commerce. These statements in a large degree apply to Chicago as a lake port.

The potential tributary commerce of Chicago is immense. The great field of the middle west as a producer and as a consumer has never show a sign of having reached the limit of its growth, and its potential commerce is without measure.

The second statement bids us pause. What is the size and accessibility of our harbor? Today only a favored few have wharf privileges. Tramp steamers have little chance in Chicago harbor, and the concerns now located here have small space for expansion. The accessibility of the harbor can be seen in the continual complaints against bridges, current in river, accidental obstructions, tug charges, etc. Chicago harbor is not easy of access.

Traffic Requirements Not Met.

The third statement finds no accompanying condition in Chicago harbor today. There has been no development of wharves and piers to meet the requirements of our present traffic, leaving aside the possibility of increased lake commerce.

For a number of years the precarious condition of Chicago's lake commerce has been well known. There have been attempts to bring the matter before the people, so that steps might be taken to develop a harbor suitable to Chicago's needs. The matter is again up for discussion, and interest should not lag until the new harbor is an assured fact.

The state of New York is spending more than $100,000,000 on the Erie canal. There is hope that a lakes to gulf waterway will be built. All this means increased water traffic, and Chicago lies at the junction of these two great waterways.

Chicago will not have to spend tens of millions of dollars for an adequate harbor. It is estimated that a harbor sufficient for Chicago's needs for ten or fifteen years to come can be built for $10,000,000 or less. This expenditure need not be a burden on taxpayers.

Many Advantages in Sight.

Harbor charges can be assessed which will cover interest and maintenance charges and which will provide a sinking fund for bonds. And even with these charges, harbor dues will be less than at present. Better freight handling facilities, better rail connections, quicker delivery of freight from boat to rail and from rail to boat, at a reduced cost, will be possible. The development of a barge and lighterage service will tend to reduce the traffic in Chicago streets. These are only a few advantages that will be gained.

That it is a good policy to provide harbor facilities in anticipation of present needs is well understood by seaport cities. This policy has been pursued by the port of Liverpool. A comparison of that port with the port of London, where facilities in excess of existing traffic have not been provided, shows the striking advantage gained by Liverpool in the extension of docks in anticipation of increased commerce.

Delay in the matter will be serious. It is not a question of diverting traffic from the rail lines to the lakes. The rail lines will hold their own and increase their business as long as they provide increased facilities. The lake traffic is business that can be created and, in part, diverted from other ports.

Trade Habits to Be Encouraged.

Business tends to identify itself with localities, and lake traffic once attracted to a port by reason of superior facilities is not easily diverted to other routes. Trade habits are formed and shippers continue to follow these lines because of their familiarity with them. Allied improvements, such as better warehouses and better rail connections, will be introduced and new brokerage houses, new banks, new wholesale houses will be created, all of which tends in time to increase the traffic.

Shall Chicago sit supinely by and see other lake ports, by reason of their progressiveness, take the business which is Chicago's? Milwaukee is preparing to increase her harbor facilities. Chicago has already lost some coal traffic to Milwaukee. Today package freight is shipped by boat to Milwaukee and thence to Chicago by rail. This is but a beginning and the end can easily be foreseen unless Chicago takes steps to prevent the diversion of her lake commerce.

This is not a question of a river harbor or a lake front harbor or a Calumet harbor, but it is the question of a harbor. Study will show the best location and no interest or group of interests should be allowed to interfere with the decision which will place the harbor where it will benefit all Chicago and not a few Chicagoans.

Control Should Be Liberal.

There is no question as to what the administrative control of the harbor should be. No private interests should be allowed to control the city's lake business.

The administrative control of the harbor should be placed by the city in the hands of a harbor board or similar body. The paid officials of the organization should be of the highest type, as the efficiency of the harbor will depend to a large degree on their capacity and ability. Great freedom should be allowed the harbor board, so that needed changes and improvements may be made in time to secure the greatest benefit.

The time is ripe for Chicago to take advantage of her opportunity. Favorable legislation can be secured at this session of the state legislature and of congress, and every effort should be made to prepare the way for immediate construction. The Hon. Martin B. Madden has signified his willingness to urge the necessary federal appropriations for harbor protection. The city should not be behind in doing its part if favorable consideration from congress is desired.

A Chicago harbor is the next big work of the second city of the United States.

ISSUE OF FOREST PRESERVE INDORSED BY REALTY BOARD.

Body Committed to Support by Vote of 23 to 14—Action Not Taken on Drainage Canal Power Development.

The questions of whether the Chicago Real estate board should indorse the proposition to create a forest preserve in Cook county, which is to be voted on at this election, created considerable interest in the meeting yesterday.

Resolutions were offered by the committee on physical improvement pledging the indorsement of the board to the forestry preserve proposition on the little ballot, and also to work for the immediate development of the water power in the drainage canal.

Marvin A. Farr interposed an objection on the contention that it would cost too much and would add another taxing body to the county. George Birkhoff Jr. said that he was opposed to the scheme because he wasn't sure that it wasn't merely a cloak for some real estate scheme. Joseph Donnersberger and Edward A. Halsey each spoke adversely to the measure, which was defended by Benjamin A. Fessenden, chairman of the committee.

A roll call committed the board to the indorsement of the proposition by a vote of 23 to 14. The water power resolution was put over until next month.

A proposal that President McCormick of the drainage district be asked to listen to a report of the drainage canal committee of the board was withdrawn. It was explained that the report, which summarized soundings of the canal, was merely intended to "lie dormant."

WOMEN AID REOPENED THEATER

Members of Daughters of Isabella to Act as Patrons to College Playhouse.

A number of women prominent in the Knights of Columbus circles will act as patrons for the College theater, at Sheffield avenue, near Webster, which will reopen on Sunday. Mrs. John MacMahon, president of the Catholic Woman's league, will be of the number, as well as Mrs. Roswell Rittman, Miss Victoria Warnesson, district deputy of the Daughters of Isabella, and Mrs. Julia A. Ward Clingen. The aim will be to inaugurate and maintain a high moral and esthetic tone in the productions. T. C. Gleason, prominent in the Knights of Columbus, will manage the theater, and a stock company, organized in New York, will present the plays. Miss Bertha Creighton will play the leading woman's role.

GRAND JURY GETS I. C. GRAFT CASE

Former Officials Harriman, Taylor, and Ewing Held Under $10,000 Bonds.

DEFIES ORDER OF COURT.

Bruggemeyer Acts Despite Habeas Corpus Writ Issued by Chetlain.

Frank B. Harriman, C. L. Ewing and J. M. Taylor, the former Illinois Central officials accused in the $2,000,000 car repair fraud case, were held to the grand jury yesterday under $10,000 bonds each by Judge Mancha Bruggemeyer, on the charge of conspiracy to obtain money under false pretenses.

Judge Bruggemeyer thus replied to the action of Judge Chetlain of the Superior court in issuing a writ of habeas corpus at the instance of the defendants on Oct. 22.

Shortly afterward the attorneys for the defense renewed their efforts to free their clients by securing from Judge Chetlain another writ on the charge that Judge Bruggemeyer had acted in contempt of court by ignoring the previous writ and proceeding with the case. The hearing on both writs has been set for Saturday.

Court Believes the Charges.

The decision of the judge, who has conducted the preliminary examination of the Illinois Central charges since Aug. 26, followed a day and a half of argument on a motion to dismiss the case. In denying the motion he said in part:

"The court believes that the offense charged exists, has existed, and was committed and that there is probable cause to believe that these three defendants were parties to the offense."

The bonds for each of the three defendants, which call for their appearance in the Criminal court on the first Monday in December, were furnished by Henry B. Smith. Assistant State's Attorney Barnes prepared to present the evidence to the November grand jury which will be impaneled this week.

The charge of operating a confidence game, which also is pending against the three men, was continued to Nov. 10 and was transferred to Chief Justice Olsen of the Municipal court for assignment to another judge.

Evidence Goes to Grand Jury.

"The decision means that the evidence will be heard before the grand jury," said Attorney Walter L. Fisher, representing the railroads.

"The new writ," said Attorney John F. Tyrrell, "simply sets up the fact that Judge Bruggemeyer proceeded with the conspiracy case without warrant under law and is in contempt of Judge Chetlain's orders. While Judge Bruggemeyer said he had no official knowledge of the first writ he would have, had he examined the files in the proceedings before him."

NEW MOVE IN YERKES CASE MADE BY MERGER INTERESTS.

Attack Jurisdiction of County Court and Ask Change to the Federal—Mayer Opposes Petition.

Petitions filed by the Illinois Trust company, the Central Trust company, and the Chicago Railways to have the Yerkes case transferred from the Circuit court of Cook county to the United States Circuit court occupied the attention of Judge Jesse Baldwin yesterday to the exclusion of the question whether or not Louis S. Owsley, executor of the Charles T. Yerkes estate, violated the temporary injunction and disposed of the Consolidated Traction bonds to interests friendly to the reorganization committee of the Railways company.

The attempt on the part of the banks and the Chicago Railways company to take the matter out of the hands of Judge Baldwin was made on the ground that several of the parties named in the bill for an injunction are nonresidents of Illinois.

Attorney Isaac Mayer, representing Mrs. Yerkes, opposed the petition to remove the case to the United States court, and in his argument declared that Mr. Owsley "is a thief according to the bill and has violated his trust."

CONCERNING THE BEANS

"She seen her duty and she done it."

It was only necessary to point out to Chicago that she wasn't buying LIFE in the quantities she ought considering her population and intelligence.

Beans had nothing to do with Boston's superiority. The reason was that no one had called Chicago's attention to LIFE'S merits.

But speaking of beans, the Thanksgiving number of LIFE is now on sale. It's a wonder—72 pages of high-class pictures, fun and satire.

HOPES TO LEARN TAFT'S PROGRAM

New York Chamber of Commerce Expects Wickersham to Reveal Secrets.

SUBWAYS ALSO AN ISSUE.

Annual Banquet Will Have Great Influence on Finance of the Year.

BY HOLLAND.

New York, Nov. 2.—[Special.]—A week after the meeting of the Academy of Political Science in connection with the national monetary conference, the chamber of commerce will hold its annual banquet. In the past this organization has made a point of getting some member of the national administration at Washington in the expectation that this guest of honor might expound financial policies of the government, or might be persuaded to tell of some of the purposes of the administration with respect to financial, industrial or commercial legislation and policies.

The chamber has been fortunate in obtaining several important revelations, among others that of former Secretary of the Treasury Foster, who gave the first intimation that the treasury department might be compelled to buy or borow gold, or else lapse to the exclusive silver basis.

The banquet committee has received from the attorney general, Mr. Wickersham, acceptance of an invitation to the dinner this year. And we hear hints that the attorney general is expected to speak of certain corporation subjects and possibly to forecast the attitude of the administration if the Supreme court interprets the Sherman law in the Standard Oil and the Tobacco company cases in such manner as to support the government's contention.

Will Tell Subway Opinions.

After all, it is probable that the more important feature of the banquet will be discovered in the presence of the president of the Pennsylvania railroad, Mr. McCrea, and his associate, Vice President Rea. Within a few days after the banquet, the Pennsylvania railroad will have put in complete operation its tunnel system, of which there has been partial operation between Manhattan and Long Island since the summer.

Vice President Rea is the directing head of the entire tunnel construction. He has some strong convictions as to the nature of the subway system which New York city is speedily to construct, if capital, legislation and the public utilities commission are able to reach an agreement.

It is therefore expected that the president and the vice president of the Pennsylvania will take this occasion to expound their views as to what the subway system of New York shall be. They would not be afraid to recommend a system that might cost a hundred millions, perhaps more. The building of adequate subways for Greater New York would be of more than mere local consequence, since large financial questions would be involved, and the construction of adequate subways would lead to large contracts for iron and steel material.

Oppose Delay by Commission.

There begins to be some uneasiness on account of the procrastination of the monetary commission. There are private intimations that the commission will not be able to report anything to congress in the short session which begins in December, and the doubt is increasing that the commission will be able to make any report or recommendations at the first session of the congress which is to be elected in November.

Senator Aldrich, however, and some of his associates on the commission, explain this procrastination by saying that the commission desires to do a complete work. They refer to some of the expert commissions in Germany and in Great Britain. They sometimes require as many as five years for the completion of their work. Senator Aldrich believes that the commission should do its work thoroughly, should make haste slowly.

It is presumed that Aldrich will, at the banquet of the Academy of Political Science, which is to be held on Friday of next week, tell the members who they delay has been so great, and may tell them how far the work has progressed. The difficulty that now presents itself is this, that the public may become weary because of the procrastination, so that what was a year ago great and widespread public interest may lapse into indifference.

Business Activity in South.

Some of our business men have recently been in touch with men of great business activity in the south, and especially with those associated with industrial progress in the state of Texas. These southern men bring a message to New York to the effect that in the south there has been a decided change in public feeling.

It was expressed in Texas by the attitude taken by the governor with respect to industrial and corporate legislation. He feels that the time has come for Texas to welcome and encourage capital, and that nearly all the legislation needed in order to prevent encroachment of capital or monopolistic tendency has been secured.

So it is reported here that not a new nationalism, but a new industrialism, is the animating spirit of the south, and especially of the southwest. Some of these business men say the south passed through phases of radical agitation long before that spirit reached other parts of the country. There has been a wonderful awakening of the business men of the south to the superb resources and opportunities which are there at hand awaiting development.

West Turning from Colonel.

There come east strange, unexpected reports telling of a remarkable change of feeling throughout many parts of the west towards Col. Roosevelt. This change has come suddenly, although that is in accordance with the precedents. The changes of view in which a man of great political prominence has sometimes been involved, has usually come with cyclonic swiftness.

And what is reported from the west is to some extent confirmed by statements made by impartial observers in this state. As for instance, a judge of one of our higher courts said recently to his associates:

"I formerly had a large clientage among the farmers and the plain people in southern New York state. Heretofore, their admiration for and confidence in Roosevelt have been unshakable. But in recent conversations with them I find that they are 'letting him go.'"

And this expression, namely, that the people are 'letting him go,'" was regarded by the judge who heard it as perhaps the most compact statement of the new feeling. However, there are many who believe that election day will show that the farmers and the plain people are not letting him go.

SOME FIRES OF A DAY.

LONDON, Ky.—An entire block in the business section of London was burned out with an estimated loss of $200,000. Among the buildings destroyed were the Catching hotel, the postoffice, and the First National bank. The fire is believed to have been caused by an incendiary.

FORT MADISON, Ia.—The business section of Denmo, a coaling station on the Santa Fe, sixty miles east of here, was destroyed by fire with a loss of about $50,000.

HAMILTON, N. Y.—The silk mills of the International Fur company of New York, at Hyatt, were destroyed by fire. The loss is $150,000.

SIDORA, Ia.—The flouring mill of J. V. Bass & Co., Standard Rock, burned as the result of spontaneous combustion. The loss is $30,000.

FORT MYERS, FLA.—The Peninsula and Continental hotels, cook and laundries and Grand Central hotel were destroyed by fire. The loss is $300,000.

LATE WALL STREET NEWS AND GOSSIP.

New York, Nov. 2.—[Special.]—October sales of the American Radiator company not only came up to expectations but surpassed the same month last year, which had been the record month. Although the volume of business done was greater than in 1909 it is doubtful if the profits for the month will be as large, for the cost of production increased while prices are practically the same.

Directors of the American Beet Sugar company met Tuesday, but transacted only routine business. A member of the board says the question of common dividends has not yet been placed before that body for action. Everything points to a record year. It is not considered likely, however, that any disbursement will be made on common before the first part of the year. By that time the company will have paid off the greater part of its indebtedness and be in firm position as regards cash working capital.

The Bethlehem Steel corporation is operating practically to full capacity. Rail mills are running full and structural mills have sufficient business on their books to keep them in operation for six months. A larger percentage of the ordnance department is in operation than at any time in several years, due largely to recent Argentine contracts. Five furnaces are in blast and two larger furnaces now in course of construction will be ready to start early next year. The Bethlehem company will then have a capacity close to 1,000,000 tons of pig iron a year.

When asked about the rise in American Can preferred this morning an official of that company said there was no movement on foot to the pay the full dividend on the preferred stock.

George H. Parks has been elected vice president of the International Paper company. Parks formerly was general manager of the Great Northern Paper company.

Headed by President Charles M. Hays and Vice President E. H. Fitzhugh, both of Montreal, all of the directors and officers of the Central Vermont railroad were reelected at the annual meeting of the stockholders.

NEWS NOTES OF FINANCIAL WORLD.

The Baltimore and Ohio has issued specifications for seventy-five all steel passenger coaches and thirty baggage coaches, which will probably cost around $1,200,000, and the Boston elevated railroad company is already in the market for 100 composite steel surface cars. The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western is expected to place its order for 500 all steel hopper cars of 100,000 pounds capacity, and 500 all steel box cars of 80,000 pounds capacity shortly. The Pressed Steel Car company is now repairing 1,000 gondola and 250 box cars for the Chicago and Alton.

The Seaboard Air Line has maturing next year $14,651,000 in 5 per cent collateral trust bonds, and refunding bonds to the extent of between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 are generally expected to be issued in the course of six months or so. These bonds would, as to lien, come between the $12,775,000 outstanding first mortgage 4s and the $25,000,000 adjustment bonds, which issues are now selling at around 86 and 72, respectively.

It is understood that the dividends on the stock of Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie will be paid quarterly in the future instead of semi-annually.

Stockholders of the Boston and Maine railroad at a special meeting voted to increase the capital stock by the issue of 106,637 shares of common stock for additional equipment. It was voted to issue the new stock at 11 0s share, both common and preferred stockholders being given the right to subscribe in the ratio of one new share to three shares now outstanding.

The Wayagamack Pulp and Paper company has been incorporated in Ontario, Canada, with capital of $5,000,000, and authorized bond issue of $5,000,000, $3,000,000 of which has been underwritten. A large mill will be operated at Three Rivers, the buildings designed for a daily capacity of 100 tons.

The proposition to issue $750,000 for the building of a new water works plant for Akron, O., to take the place of that now operated privately, has been defeated by popular vote, opposed by the element favoring the purchase of the present plant.

The Central Kentucky Phosphate company has been incorporated for $400,000 and plans the establishment of a large plant near Versailles, Ky., for the development of phosphate in properties purchased in that vicinity.

Sales of beer in Chicago during the month of October, according to the number of government stamps sold, totaled 453,547 brls. This compares with 489,190 in September, and 373,797 brls in October one year ago.

GAIN IN CORPORATE OUTPUT

October Total Eclipses That of Preceding Month.

COMPARISONS ARE MADE.

Public Slow to Invest in Securities Pending Decisions.

New York, Nov. 2.—[Special.]—According to the Journal of Commerce, the output of new corporations in the eastern states last month with an authorized capital of $5,000,000 overreached a total of $95,605,000. This is an increase of $35,585,000 over September but a decrease of $51,805,000 compared with October of last year. Charters taken out by other companies with an industrial capital of $100,000 or more, including other states than those of the east, bring the aggregate up to $176,457,317, against $114,593,000 in September and $227,119,400 in October of last year.

With important decisions yet to be made by the Supreme court in regard to the two largest industrial combinations, and with the advance in railroad freight rates still held up by the interstate commerce commission, the promoters found it extremely difficult to induce the public to invest in new securities.

Comparative Figures Given.

Following are comparative figures of companies incorporated in the eastern states during the last two years with an authorized capital of $1,000,000 or more:

	1910.	1909.

New Bond Issues Are Less.

Railroad, traction, industrial, and mining corporations in the United States issued only $56,076,200 in new bonds, notes, and stocks during October, according to the Journal of Commerce, this total being the smallest for any month since September, 1906, and a decrease of $51,504,800 compared with October last year. For ten elapsed months of 1910 the grand total has been $1,298,963,630, against $1,323,386,480 in 1909, a decrease of $24,422,841. The transportation companies floated only $20,525,200 of new securities last month, compared with $63,500,000 a year ago, while other corporations put out $35,550,900, a decrease of $8,530,100.

The following table summarizes, classifies, and compares the financing accomplished during October.

HIGH FINANCE TOLD IN COURT

Afterthought Copper Company Got Big Loan from Bank.

SIGNED PAPER; TOOK CASH.

Merged Firms, Sued in Missouri, Move Offices to Indiana.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 2.—[Special.]—The Afterthought Copper company was promoted by the sale of nothing but paper and by the marketing of promises for $125,000, according to the story of high finance revealed on the witness stand today by Theodore S. Henderson, vice president of the company.

The Afterthought concern is the followup firm of the Great Western Gold company, which, it has been sworn, produced returns of $1,600,000 from stock sales and the mining of ore, and was capitalized in Arizona for $10,000,000, none of which was paid in. The concern is $92,000 in debt.

The officers of the Afterthought company, which inherited the assets and liabilities of the Great Western concern, were attempting to borrow $500,000 when their plans were frustrated by the institution of receivership proceedings by John C. Grafing, secretary of the William A. Sickney Cigar company and owner of 19,000 shares of Great Western stock.

Bank Loaned Large Sum.

Loans made to the Great Western company by the Shasta County bank at Reading, Cal., involved the institution in difficulties with the bank examiners, Henderson testified.

"The bank of Shasta county," he said, "which has a capital of $100,000, loaned $121,000 to us without note or security. Could you beat that in St. Louis? The bank examiners got after the bank and trouble was brewing. So we had to raise $125,000 from the stockholders to relieve the bank."

"How did you get the $125,000?" asked Attorney S. T. G. Smith, who is representing Grafing.

"By the sale of nothing but paper," the witness replied, "just as if you would pick up a piece of paper there and sign your name to it. We raised the money by virtue of our personality—that's about it. For the $125,000 we sold promises—promises to deliver Afterthought stock in the future."

Offices Moved to Indiana.

Scores of stockholders have visited the offices of the companies in the Commercial building since the hearing began and demanded the return of the money invested in stock. They were greeted by a woman stenographer, whose formula of reply was: "I know nothing about it. I've been here only two weeks. Write your complaint to the president, Thomas H. Adams, in Indianapolis, Ind."

It has been testified that two days after the filing of the suit the directors voted to send their books and record to Indianapolis and to remove from Missouri any moneys they might have on deposit in the state. The companies, for the last few weeks, have maintained offices in the Meridian Life Insurance building in Indianapolis.

PLAN AS TO PEABODY FUND.

Men Who Have Been Looking After Trust Will Take Steps for Distribution of Remaining Capital.

New York, Nov. 2.—[Special.]—The annual meeting of the Peabody education fund drew together today a body of men in what is believed to be next to the last, if not the last yearly meeting of the men who have had the trust. Steps were taken looking to the formal dissolution of the board and distribution of the remainder of the fund.

During the year two members of the board died, Chief Justice Fuller and Senator John W. Daniel of Virginia.

A committee was appointed to consider and "report whether the terms of the Peabody trust require the board now to distribute the remaining capital, and if so, by what vote to reconsider and rescind the board's action Jan. 24, 1905, to continue to use and apply the income fund; the committee, if reporting in favor of the present distribution of funds, to report a scheme for such distribution."

CHICAGO FIRMS BEFORE BOARD.

Capital Stock Committee of Illinois Equalization Body Considers Cases of Local Concerns.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 2.—[Special.]—Capital stocks of Chicago corporations occupied the time today of the capital stock committee of the Illinois board of equalization, in session at the state house. It is said none of the "big" corporations of Chicago was touched, the bury day having been spent on the business of concerns of smaller capital. The committee held no hearings.

CALIFORNIA HOME LAND SHOW PRIZE

Board Which Governor Heads Promises Five Acre Tract in Winterless Garden.

ACRE SUPPORTS FAMILY.

Federal Seed Testing Station for Rare Plants Is Located in Wonderful Valley.

A farm in California will be given to some fortunate visitor to THE TRIBUNE'S land show in the Coliseum between Nov. 19 and Dec. 4.

The promise of an opportunity to own a residence in the Golden state comes from the California development board, of which Gov. James N. Gillett is president. The farm will consist of five acres of choice land in Butte county, not far from Chico, the county seat.

The representatives of the Pacific coast intend to storm Chicago in force. They will come on a special train and will bring with them a carload of choice fruit that is to be given away on California day.

It is possible that the farm will be given away the same day. The party of visitors will include a number of prominent officials of the state who are active in the campaign to secure the Panama exposition for San Francisco in 1915.

Chico is in the heart of the Sacramento valley. It was founded by Gen. Bidwell about forty years ago and is one of the most attractive spots on the Pacific coast.

Government Seed Test Plant There.

Close to the town the United States department of agriculture has established a plant introduction station, where the rare seeds and bulbs brought to America by the official explorers are sent out and become adapted for use in this country. A mild climate and one regarding the reliability of which there can be no question is a first requisite for such a station; and that is why the government's experts selected this valley.

Speaking of one of the valleys of California, former President Roosevelt said that five acres of such land was ample to support a family. But the Sacramento valley has done better than that, for Samuel Cleek and his wife lived for years off the proceeds of one acre at Orland and in addition to their living put $400 a year in the bank, all of which was taken from their little farm. Mr. Cleek is dead, but his remarkable farm is pointed out to those who visit the 14,000 acre project being built by the United States reclamation service at Orland.

Any of the products of the temperate or semi-tropic climates can be grown on the farm that is to be given away. Oranges planted in the Sacramento valley will ripen about six weeks earlier than those in the groves of the southern part of the state, according to fruit experts. A lemon grove, an orchard of figs, or of the commoner fruits, all are within reach of the winner of the farm to be offered. With proper care the farm will yield enough within a few seasons to pay for the construction of an attractive home.

Little Frost and Snow.

Frost is almost unknown in the vicinity of Chico and snow is seen only in winters of exceptional severity. The surrounding mountains protect the inhabitants of the valley from severe storms, in addition to offering ample opportunity for recreation. The prospects for an increase in the value of land is excellent on account of the rate at which settlers are pouring into the valley.

The great basin of California, of which the Sacramento valley represents one part and the San Joaquin valley another, contains more than 15,000,000 acres of land, most of which, it is claimed, will be occupied by settlers within a few years. Residents of the great basin believe it will be the scene of a great popular movement within the next few years, as it contains the largest body of undeveloped, irrigable land in the United States.

FREE RIDES FOR HOBOS TO BE ASKED OF RAILROADS.

James Eads How at Brotherhood Welfare Association Meeting Also Tells Benefits of City Lodging House.

Several of the oldest traditions of trampdom were shattered last night by James Eads How, the "millionaire hobo" and national organizer of the Brotherhood Welfare association.

In an address before the members of the local branch of the association at 36 South Desplaines street he advocated shower baths, fumigation, work for the unemployed, and "cushions" to ride on.

National Organizer Eads reported the association to be flourishing in St. Louis, Kansas City, Cincinnati and New York. He succeeded in securing a unanimous vote to a resolution to appoint a committee to confer with railroad presidents regarding free transportation in passenger coaches to hobos en route to points where labor is in demand.

The committee also was empowered to see to it that the members of the association be treated with more respectful consideration by Supt Rogers of the Municipal lodging house, and to start a movement toward a national free employment bureau.

"After I had my bath the attendant put my clothes in a little bag and fumigated them. Next day I felt clean—and it feels good to be clean after you have been on the road for a week."

Chairman W. J. Nolan will appoint a committee before the next meeting to visit Mr. Rogers and the railroad presidents. The latter will be asked to give members of the association the free use of unfilled coaches when they are bound for points where men are needed for labor. The committee will be instructed to point out the dangerous method of travel now in vogue by hobos looking for work.

INSURANCE MEN ARE ACCUSED OF HAVING ILLEGAL COMBINE.

Pittsburg Agent Files Suit Against the Underwriters' Association, Alleging Restraint of Trade.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 2.—[Special.]—Nearly every fire insurance company in the United States and many which have home offices in foreign lands are affected by a suit filed here today to dissolve the board of fire underwriters of Allegheny county, alleged to be an illegal combination. The 800 members of that board are made defendants to the action brought by Edward C. Tole, known as an "outlaw agent."

Tole says scores of citizens will follow his example and that the board will be abolished and every agent forced to make his own rates.

The primary cause of the suits is that Tole wrote insurance policies for the Allegheny Steel company and the Iron City Sand company of this city and placed the insurance through Logue Bros. Later the policies were canceled after prtoests were made to Logue Bros. by the other members of the federated underwriters.

LEHMANN NOT A SPENDTHRIFT.

Jury Fails to Support Wife's Charges and Husband Will Seek Legal Separation.

A jury in the Probate court yesterday failed to support charges preferred by his wife that Ernst E. Lehmann is a spendthrift, and a conservator will not be appointed unless an appeal now sought by Mrs. Lehmann's attorney, J. W. Moses, is successful. Mr. Lehmann said if his wife did not start action for a legal separation he would go on.

Investigators, but had already been detected by the architects:

The Italian marble was not up to contract and had been condemned.

The cabinet work was rejected on several floors because of inferior finish.

The steel beams in the saw tooth skylights had been ordered fireproofed and the bookfile, which had been whitewashed, had been ordered plastered.

Hollow places on some floors had been condemned.

What the Architects Found.

The original discoveries of the architects were these:

Steam pipes were concreted on several floors and would have to be freed before heat could be turned on.

Steel columns on the northwest corner were not properly concreted on two floors.

The Bottichni marble on the vault floor was cracked and damaged in setting.

There were thus six defects unearthed as the net result of the investigation of which only two are noted by the experts as at all serious. These two, the omission of concrete on the ten light court columns, and the placing of concrete around the steam pipes, by their contrast of too much and too little concrete, seem to indicate that carelessness rather than design is the root of the trouble.

Most Important Defect Found.

As to the first of these defects, Prof. Talbot says:

"The omission of the concrete coating of the columns around the light court constitutes the most important defect discovered. The purpose of this coating of concrete is twofold, first for fireproofing purposes; second, to protect the steel work from corrosion.

"The omission of the concrete protective coating does not affect the structural strength of the building. It may also be stated that even around these columns there is fireproofing formed by four inches or more of brick work built up in a manner which is not uncommon practice in building construction over the country. Further, wherever the steel of the columns and beams was exposed the surface of the steel was found to be well coated with paint.

"The amount of expense required to put in this concrete was not large and there was little incentive to skimp work other than haste and carelessness. The conditions found in these ten columns show that the supervision and inspection in this part of the work must have been lax.

General Construction Is Good.

"It is proper to point out that, with the exception of the defects already noted, the quality of the general structural construction found was satisfactory. The concrete protective coating about the steel columns was hard and dense and of excellent quality. The brickwork was well laid. The joints were full and the mortar unusually good. The joints between pieces of terra cotta were well filled with good mortar. Concrete floors were solid and strong, and in all such matters there was every indication of thorough and substantial construction. There is no reason to doubt that the structural steel work of the building is satisfactory and safe."

He concludes with the statement that the initial showing of Coulson to the bureau warranted the extensive investigation, though "fortunately many of the claims made by Coulson were not substantiated."

Rubbish Not Menace to Building.

As to the second of the "substantial charges," Col. Wells wrote:

"There are indications that the tops of the tile arches, particularly at the haunches, were not carefully cleaned off, some broken tile, bricks, and rubbish were covered over. But in no case did I find sufficient rubbish to injure the strength or fireproofing qualities of the concrete.

"These floors are most excellently laid and are a strong, substantial job in every sense of the word."

He notes that the concrete spoiled by freezing is being torn out by the contractors, having been condemned by the architects. Other items in his report state:

"The glazed brick work in the light courts is particularly good and the best of work.

"The tile floors are well laid and set up, except that there are a few hollow spots of which the architects are aware.

Some Marble Already Condemned.

"The English vein Italian marble above the fifth floor is of most excellent stock, carefully selected and matched, of proper thickness, and well set up. The marble work on the lower floors is not up to that on the upper floors. I find many blue pencil markings upon this work, which, the architects inform me, are their markings for condemnation.

"I have examined the terra cotta and stone work, and find it up to the requirements of the plans and specifications.

"The ornamental iron work is good work, substantial, and up to the requirements.

"The fire escapes are as per plans and specifications.

"The window frames, sash, doors, partitions, base, picture molding, chair rails, hardware, glass, and so forth are up to the requirements, substantial, well built in and set up.

"The stock of the cabinet work, particularly in the council chamber, is most excellent, evenly matched, and properly erected.

Calls Flooring Rebate Fair.

"The specifications call for seven-eighths inch maple flooring, but 13-16 inch flooring has been laid. A rebate of $5 a thousand board feet was allowed by the contractor for this change, which, in my opinion, is fair. These floors are of excellent material and are well laid.

"The plaster work is well done.

"Roof and general metal work has been done in accordance with the plans and specifications and is good and substantial.

"Most of the plumbing and gas fitting work has been covered up, but such as is exposed is well done and in accordance with the plans and specifications in so far as I can see.

"There are five water tube boilers which contain 3,000 feet of heating surface in each boiler, and there is one horizontal tubular boiler. The piping around these boilers is well done. Chain grates and boiler trimmings are as per plans and specidcations. The boilers are well and properly lined with No. 1 firebrick. Pipe covering is well put on.

"The elevators are the latest type and are properly installed."

No Attempt to Cheat City.

Mr. Hammond's report is substantially the same as Col. Wells', although he is emphatic in pointing out that the city made ample provision for rigid inspection. He concludes his report with the statement:

"It must be recognized as a pertinent fact that in such a large structure some work may be slighted by careless workmen, and will have to be corrected, that inferior stock and materials will be furnished, and these must be condemned, and the specific instances which have been pointed out are comparatively small when the building is taken as a whole. They indicate the ordinary skimping which occurs in contract work. There is no evidence of any general and determined effort to skimp the job.

"The design of the building is beyond criticism, up to and ahead of the best modern practice of steel frame buildings, and the building has, in general, been well constructed."

Detailed reports were turned in by each of the experts, James Hollis Wells of New York, Prof. Arthur N. Talbot of the University of Illinois, and A. J. Hammond, engineer of the bureau. In these reports Coulson's written charges are taken up one by one and are followed by the findings with regard to glazed brick work, marble, mosaic and tile work, ornamental iron work, structural steel work, fire escapes, carpenter and cabinet work, flooring, plaster, roof and general metal work, plumbing and gas fitting, heating and ventilating, boilers, pipe covering, elevators, pumps, and electrical work.

STOCK WATERED? 'NO,' REPLY

SAYS THE TOTALS MISLEAD.

Burlington Head Asserts Shippers' Attorney Misused Figures.

Charges of railroad overcapitalization to the extent of over $400,000,000 placed before the interstate commerce commission at the rate hearing on Tuesday by Attorney Thorne were characterized as grossly misleading and a misuse of figures in a statement issued yesterday by Darius Miller, president of the Burlington.

"Mr. Thorne said that the Minnesota railroad commission valued the railroads in that state at $299,858,186," said Mr. Miller in refutation of Mr. Thorne's estimate that the capitalization of the roads in four states exceeded the valuation by $400,000,000.

"As a matter of fact, the Minnesota commission made six appraisals on six different bases, because it was not sure as to the basis on which the courts would hold that railways must be valued for rate making. The appraisal mentioned by Mr. Thorne is the lowest that the commission made. Its estimate of the cost of reproduction, new, of all the roads in Minnesota was $411,735,195, which is almost $77,000,000 more than the roads are capitalized for.

Cites Opinion of Low Values.

"Furthermore, Master in Chancery Otis, who heard the testimony in the Minnesota rate case, in which the correctness of the Minnesota commission's valuation was tested, held that as to the three roads directly involved in that litigation—the Northern Pacific, Great Northern, and Minneapolis and St. Louis, the commission's valuations were too low. The commission's highest estimate and the valuations made by the master are as follows:

	Northern Pacific.	Great Northern.	Minn. & St. L.
Commission's estimate	$99,397,955	$104,074,102	$16,022,225
Master's valuation	80,204,545	128,425,291	21,008,404

"It is true, as Mr. Thorne says, that the railways in Texas are capitalized for $412,465,743, and that the railway commission estimates their physical value at $212,794,588. But that the railway commission's valuation is grossly and unfairly low is demonstrated by the fact that the appraisal placed on the roads by the state tax commission, and on which they must pay taxes, is over $419,000,000.

"Mr. Thorne was equally unfortunate in giving misleading figures regarding the valuation in Wisconsin," continues Mr. Miller. "The valuation which was made in that state by the state tax commission in 1906, shows that while the roads were capitalized for but $38,424 a mile, the cost of reproducing them would be $34,630 a mile.

"The only figures as to the capitalization and valuation of the railways in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Washington, and Texas which are of any value whatever for practical purposes show that their capitalizations and their valuations are as follows, these figures being based on the reports of the railway commissions and the tax commissions:

	Valuation.	Capitalization.
Minnesota	$ 411,735,195	$354,979,693
Wisconsin	247,085,650	238,486,946
Washington—
Great Northern	59,977,212	58,903,000
Northern Pacific	110,908,450	114,482,662
C. R. & N. Co.	27,000,000	20,541,000
Texas	419,800,000	212,794,588
	$1,275,005,907	$975,181,889

"These figures show that the value of the railways in these states exceed their capitalization by almost $300,000,000.

"The popular notion seems to be that the railways fear a physical valuation. They oppose it, not because they think railways are overcapitalized, but because they do not believe that physical valuation is the proper basis on which to base rates. They are confident that a fair physical valuation would show that the cost of reproducing the railways of the United States would enormously exceed their capitalization."

Will Protest Western Advances.

E. J. McVann, traffic manager of the Omaha Commercial club, is in Washington preparing to present a protest to the interstate commerce commission against the action of the western railroads in advancing their rates to the Missouri river in the face of a decision of the commission reducing the rates on behalf of the shippers of Omaha, Kansas City, Sioux City, and St. Joseph who will be affected by the rates.

The protest will be made with a view of suspension of the rates by the commission when they take effect on Dec. 1 pending an investigation.

RULING ON RAIL VALUATION.

Olympia, Wash., Nov. 2.—The physical valuation placed upon railroads for rate making purposes by the state railroad commission is not binding upon the state tax commission, according to a decision of Judge Mitchell of the Superior court.

The court today dismissed the application of the Oregon Railway and Navigation for a writ of review of the action of the state board of equalization.

The railroad commission fixed the valuation of the company's property in Washington at $19,500,000, and the tax commission fixed it at $27,500,000, the difference meaning the payment of $70,000 in taxes and penalties by the company.

TRUST 'BLUE BOOK' STILL ISSUE

Government Continues Pittsburg Hearing Into Price Methods of Combination.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 2.—Edwin L. Weyman, who for three days has been the only person interrogated by the government representatives in the investigation of the so-called "bathtub trust," was still the target of examination throughout today.

The "blue book" of which Weyman told yesterday, became the main object of the government's attack today. This book, according to Weyman, was a list of plumbing supply dealers that had signed a price agreement.

It was also testified that three patents in the enameled iron ware trade which were controlled by the sixteen defendant companies represented an expenditure of but $6,000, yet controlled a business of from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000.

ATTACKS THIRTY CHICAGO ROADS

Board of Trade Files Strong Protest Against Santa Fe and 29 Other Lines.

OBJECTS TO NEW RULES.

Complaint to Commerce Commission Alleges Regulations Are Impracticable.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 2.—[Special.]—A strong protest was filed with the interstate commerce commission by the Chicago board of trade against the Santa Fé and twenty-nine other railroads operating out of Chicago, complaining that they were discriminating against that city by refusing to replace transit privileges in handling grain with flat rates.

The board of trade attacks the railroads' recently promulgated rules governing joint transit privileges on transit grain at Chicago district stopover points.

The complaint alleges that these rules, which were effective yesterday, are impracticable and in several respects impossible of performance; that they are unreasonable and prejudicial to Chicago as compared with competing markets, and that they unnecessarily complicate the use of transit rights and do not replace transit privileges with flat rates, as the railroads claim.

The board also alleges that the rules increase the cost of grain transported and, while relieving the common carriers of their proper obligations, they impose an unjust burden on the shippers. The complaint asks adequate relief.

Asks for Through Routes.

The establishment of through routes and joint rates from Chicago, St. Louis and other Mississippi river points and from Denver and Pueblo, covering the shipments of all commodities and classes of freight moving to points on the Nevada Northern railroad from Chicago and eastern points through Chicago, is asked in a petition filed with the commission today. The petitioner is the Giroux Consolidated Mines company of Duluth, Minn., and Kimberly, Nev., and is against the Nevada Northern, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania and fifteen other railroads whose commodity and class rates are attacked as unjust and unreasonable.

The Commercial club of Omaha loses its fight for institution of through routes and joint rates, on butter, eggs and poultry in carload lots from Omaha to points in Central Freight association and Atlantic seaboard territories, under a decision announced by the interstate commerce commission today.

Two Validation Problems.

Validation problems growing out of the sale of limited excursion tickets figure in two decisions announced by the commission. In one, the case of George W. Riter against the Oregon Short line and other roads, the complaint that the railroads' exaction of a 50 cent validating charge operates as a fraud upon the public, is disposed of with the conclusion that it is not a violation of the law to exact a part of the tariff rate at the selling ticket office and the rest at the validating agency.

In another case the commission sustains the regulations of the Las Vegas and Tonopah and three other western lines, making provision for refund of excess amounts collected on account of passengers' failure to validate round trip excursion tickets.

Damaged Goods Ratings.

Pressing commercial and industrial needs generally are expected to be met by railroads making special ratings for the movement of defective or damaged goods, under a decision of the commission reaffirming its conclusion not to disturb the ten day period within which shipments refused at destination may be returned at reduced rates.

The commission says such special ratings should be based entirely on the low value of the traffic and should disregard the "returned" element, for the law does not justify a special rating on unsalable goods, whether moving as a returned shipment or otherwise. The rating based on low value would not permit jobbers and manufacturers to secure the return of unsalable goods at one-half the regular rates.

Charges of Discrimination.

The Southwestern Produce Distributers of St. Louis complained to the commerce commission that the Wabash railroad had set aside a large part of its inbound freight house, with trackage facilities, for the use of the American Central Fruit Auction company to the exclusion of other consignees without rent or other charge.

The Southwestern company says the railroad will permit only the complainant's cars to be set into the freight house on condition that the goods be auctioned by the American company. This competitor, says the complainant, uses the space only every other day and the complainant was refused facilities when the depot space was only half occupied.

Naming the Great Northern and twenty-seven other railroads as defendants, the Anaconda Copper Mining company, employing 18,000 men filed a complaint with the commission alleging unjust, unreasonable, and discriminative rates on its traffic. It charges that the roads impose unjust commodity and class rates on the company's traffic from the Denver district and other territories to what are known as the Montana common points, the tariffs being in favor of Salt Lake City and Spokane and their common points.

ATTORNEY SUES DETRACTORS.

E. J. Ader, Who Defeated Disbarment Charges, Asks $50,000 Damages from Henneberrys.

Following dismissal of charges aimed to disbar him, Attorney Edward J. Ader yesterday brought suit for $50,000 in the Circuit court against the Henneberry company, printers, William Henneberry, George F. Henneberry, and H. M. Crouse, an employe of the company, who filed the charges with the bar association. G. W. Plummer, who represents Ader as counsel in the suit, declares the charges made by Crouse before the bar association were incited by the printing company, which had trouble with Ader over a bill against the latter.

SHARP RECOVERY MADE IN WHEAT

Heavy Purchases of Futures by Armour Check Decline and Force Rally.

NEW LOW FIGURES EARLY

Coarse Grains Weak at Start, but Close Higher; Product Is Irregular.

Buying of an immense line of May and December wheat yesterday, with heavy buying credited to Lichtstern, gave the wheat market much needed support. This buying checked the decline just when it looked as if nothing could stop another savage drive at prices, and not only absorbed the heavy offerings but rallied the market, which closed at a sharp advance after touching new low figures early.

Local bears did not give up the fight without a hard struggle and in spite of the enormous purchases the market turned weak several times under liquidating sales helped along by aggressive work on the part of the bears. Armour was credited with buying at least 2,500,000 bu and other commission houses bought at least as much more. Final quotations showed a firm tone with net gains of ½@¾c.

News Is Mostly Bearish.

Early news of the day was bearish and there was a world of wheat for sale at the opening apparently. Armour, Peavey, Jackson Bros., Lowits, Logan-Bryan, Chapin, and Press selling heavily, Chapin alone unloading about 1,000,000 bu wheat, mostly May. On the break to below 95c purchases by the Armour brokers and firms supposed to be acting for Lichtstern became noticeable and was continued throughout the day with the above result. Harris-Winthrop and Wrenn were heavy buyers.

Liverpool closed 1¼@2¼d lower and this with bearish reports on Argentine and Australian conditions, with lower and heavy offerings of wheat from competitive nations, induced renewed selling pressure here. But for the timely support the market would undoubtedly have sold much lower. Shorts covered near the close, making the final bulge.

Export Sales Are Reported.

Export business was reported from St. Louis late in the day, but the general situation in this direction appears to be hopeless under present conditions. Canadian wheat of good milling quality is offered at Buffalo duty paid at 4½c over Duluth No. 1 northern. This in itself would appear to preclude any big advance, although the Canadian market would be helped immensely by any resumption of export buying of importance.

Domestic conditions are now more favorable to the bulls. Primary receipts continue to run small compared to a year ago, and with any improvement in the milling demand the disparity in the receipts compared to a year ago would become more noticeable. For the day total primary arrivals were 849,000 bu, against 1,473,000 bu a year ago. Minneapolis and Duluth receipts were 331 cars, against 730 cars a year ago, and Minneapolis stocks gained only 300,000 bu for four days.

The cash demand here was a little better and there were sale of 50,000 bu spring wheat to go to eastern millers. Outside markets were firm. Receipts here were 36 cars, with 30 cars the estimate for today. Clearances for the day were small at 149,000 bu wheat and flour.

Trade in Corn Moderate.

Trade in corn was not particularly active. The market did not respond to the early break and did not show much snap when the wheat turned strong later. Final prices were ¼@¾@⅞c higher. Weather conditions continue favorable and husking operations are being carried on at a rapid rate. Farmers are busy and consequently are not selling much corn. Consequently shorts are a little nervous owing to the small stocks and possibility of a moderate run.

Cables were unchanged to ½d higher. Primary points had 678,000 bu, against 482,000 bu a year ago. Receipts here were 269 cars, with only 157 cars the estimate for today. Cash prices were unchanged to ½c higher and sales were 200,000 bu. Export bids were within 1c of the market on new corn. The domestic demand is quiet.

May Oats Under Pressure.

Armour sold a big line of May oats early, but they were snapped up by A. S. White and King-Farnum and the market was not especially weak at any time. Commission houses in general again were on the buying side. Prices at the finish were unchanged to ¼@½c higher, May being unchanged. Shorts in December were fair buyers.

The cash demand was fair with sample prices unchanged to ½c lower and sales of 195,000 bu. Primary arrivals were 430,000 bu, against 884,000 bu a year ago. Receipts here were 133 cars, with 127 cars the estimate for today.

Slight Changes in Product.

Provisions were not much changed, a generally firm undertone prevailing after the start. Last statistics were regarded as bearish, an increase for October compared to a big decrease a year ago being a factor. The light run of hogs in the west and a strong tone at the yards offset the effect of the stock's statement. Packers were not conspicuous in the trade and local traders were not much disposed to take an aggressive stand either way.

Receipts here were 23,000, instead of 28,000 estimated, and prices were firm. The estimate for today is 17,000. Western points had 57,000, against 69,400 a year ago. Receipts of product here were 42 cars with shipments of 120 cars. Foreign markets were steady.

Flaxseed Prices Lower.

Flaxseed had a break of 1½c. No. 1 northwestern closed at $2.61½. No. 1 from the northwest, $2.58½; No. 1 southwestern, $2.48½, and rejected, $2.59@2.49½. Receipts, 1 car. Duluth closed ½@1¼c lower; November, $2.60; December, $2.56, and May, $2.54. Receipts were 36 cars. Minneapolis, 1½c lower; cash on track, $2.59. Receipts were 68 cars.

Timothyseed was quiet and unchanged. March closed at $9.75 bid and $10.25 asked. Country lots, $8.00@9.25. Clover seed easy. March, $14.40, nominal. Country lots, $10.00@13.50.

No change was noted in prices for rye. No. 2 was quoted, 76c; No. 1, 77c, and No. 3, 69@70c. There were no fresh receipts on the market.

Barley was in light supply and met with a good inquiry at 1c advance in prices. Malting was quoted 69@75c; mixing, 55@56c, and screenings, 50@55c. Receipts were estimated at 85 cars.

AMERICAN GRAIN MARKETS

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—FLOUR—Was quiet and nominally lower; receipts, 21,070 brls; shipments, 3,000. Rye flour steady. Buckwheat flour quiet; quoted $3.10 per 100 lbs. BUCKWHEAT—Quiet. CORNMEAL—Steady. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 2.—WHEAT—Prices today went to a new low record on the turn, but during the late session the market became oversold and a firmer tone resulted. December closed 4@5c higher than yesterday and May 4@4½c higher. Elevator stocks increased 350,000 bu for four days. Minneapolis received 199 cars of wheat, against 378 a year ago; Duluth, 125, against 261; and Winnipeg, 625, against 675. December opened 86¾@99¾c; high, 89½c; low, 89¾c; close, 90¾c. May opened $1.04@1.05⅝; high, $1.04⅝@1.04¾; low, $1.03¾; close, $1.04⅜@1.04⅝. Cash wheat is about steady. Minneapolis is asking for all milling grades of spring wheat. Winter wheat and durum slow. Premiums steady. No. 1 northern sold for 1¾@2¾c above December. Close: No. 1 hard, $1.03¾; No. 1 northern, $1.01¾@1.02¾; to arrive, $1.01¾@1.02¾; No. 2 northern, 97¾@1.00¾; to arrive, 97¾c@$1.00¾; No. 3 wheat, 94¾@97¾c. CORN—No. 3 yellow, 49@49½c. NEWS AND GOSSIP OF BOARD OF TRADE.

St. Louis wired that a reliable concern reported a round lot of Missouri river wheat had been worked for export. Local exporters did not give the report much credit, saying that bids were too far out of line. It is understood that the through billed export rate from the southwest enables wheat to be sold cheaper than from Chicago.

While there were rumors of export business, it was significant that No. 3 Manitoba northern spring wheat was offered c. i. f. Buffalo, duty paid, at 4½c over the asking price for Duluth No. 1 northern c. i. f. Buffalo, winter storage included. As No. 3 Manitoba wheat is of nearly the same grade as Duluth No. 1 northern, the significance can easily be appreciated.

In regard to the export situation, Ames-Brooks of Duluth wired C. W. Re-Qua:

"The American situation may save itself, but if any one has the idea this decline puts us any nearer an export basis they can reconsider. Foreigners can buy in Winnipeg at 82c wheat just as good as our No. 1 northern at $1.02, and the export trade is still slow."

Late reports from the seaboard said that 320,000 bu Manitoba wheat had been taken by foreigners the last two days.

"I expect to see a liberal movement of oats from the country prior to the first heavy run of new corn," said S. P. Arnot. "Country houses have liberal stocks and in order to make room for corn there should be a liberal movement. At present local public stocks of oats are the largest in ten years and with the exception of one year, 1905, total stocks are the largest in that length of time, the total at present being placed at 11,688,000 bu.

"For the next few weeks I think corn should hold reasonably firm, although the theoretical position is unquestionably weak. A year ago farmers were slow in husking and consequently a lot of corn went into the winter in the fields. This year farmers are busy taking care of their grain and sales are likely to be light for some time. There are practically no corn stocks anywhere, and should bad weather or car shortage develop December shorts might easily get into trouble."

Close observers in the wheat pit estimated that Armour brokers bought at least 2,500,000 bu, and it was supposed that Lichtstern also covered a big line of wheat through Wrenn, Harris-Winthrop, and other houses The heavy buying, whether it was at short wheat or not, tightened up the market, but so heavy was the selling that the market was groggy much of the day in the face of the support. Scattered liquidation of long wheat was a feature and enabled the big shorts to cover a world of wheat.

St. Louis wired that messages from the Armour Grain company said: "There has been so much wheat taken out of the pit that unless it again comes on sale it looks as if the market will work higher."

Traders generally were of the opinion that a further rally would be natural after such a pronounced break.

It is understood there are at least big lines of long wheat, mostly of the May, that now show big losses, but which the bears have been unable to shake out. Theodore H. Waterman is supposed to be long December and May, and also is credited with owning a fair amount of cash wheat. W. H. Colvin is also credited with being long several million bushels long wheat for big interests.

The trade is well aware of the staying qualities of Mr. Waterman, and the interests controlling the other lines are just as tenacious. All concerned are willing to hold on indefinitely, and efforts to bring out this wheat so far have been unavailing. If necessary, it is claimed that the cash wheat will be taken in and paid for.

W. E. White on the wheat situation: "Of course, unexpected rallies are to be anticipated as a result of oversold pit conditions, but they will continue to prove of effervescent character until prices reach a commercial basis. A severe epidemic of the high-price-itis is responsible for America overstaying her market. The trade is beginning to realize that it is just as logical to assume that we can force a quart of water into a pint cup as to assume that we can consume our entire production."

Bradstreet's report of the available supply last week shows the following increases:

	1910.	1909.

Oats	605,000	880,000

*Decrease.

Traders who are bearish on corn point out that, just because country offerings of corn are not heavy at the moment is no sign there will not be a heavy run later, when farmers are less busy. Shorts have covered freely because of the little stronger cash position, but yesterday the buying appeared to lag a little.

Fairbank & Co. estimate world's lard stocks at 123,180 tcs, compared to 119,916 tcs a month ago, and 106,798 tcs a year ago. The gain for October was 3,564 tcs, compared to a decrease in October last year of 46,415 tcs.

B. W. Snow says that conditions in the southwest are excellent for winter wheat, as a dry fall makes for a strong, and vigorous plant. To much growth in the fall makes the wheat liable to winter killing.

David T. Hammond has applied for membership on the board of trade. Frank T. Blakemore has posted his membership for transfer.

W. H. Samuels, Mark Mason, and E. S. Lillard have formed a $25,000 corporation to conduct a general commission and brokerage business.

Receipts of wheat at Winnipeg were 633 cars, compared with 450 cars a week ago and 675 cars the corresponding day last year.

Minneapolis wheat stocks increased 300,000 bu for four days.

BUILDING IN LOOP SOLD FOR $450,000

Charles W. Pardridge Buys the Schiller Property as an Investment.

GETS BUSINESS BLOCK.

F. M. Lowe Acquires Premises at 537 to 541 West Sixty-third Street, Valued at $60,000.

The Schiller building, at 108-109 Randolph street, on the north side of the street, between Dearborn and Clark streets, and the leasehold interest in the ground, 60x180 feet, have been purchased by Charles W. Pardridge from the Schiller company for $450,000, the amount at which the building was valued by the board of review.

The sale was negotiated by Albert L. Strauss, in connection with Farnham, Willoughby & Co., the latter having had the management of the property for several years.

The purchase was made as an investment by Mr. Pardridge, who is a large owner of choice State street frontage, and he is said to plan the expenditure of considerable money in improving the building.

The ground on which the building stands belongs to the Slater estate of Boston, and was leased by Francis H. Bartlett of that city, trustee, to Frans Amberg in 1890 for a term of ninety-nine years at an annual rent of $17,500. This leasehold interest subsequently was conveyed to the German Opera House company, composed of a number of wealthy German citizens, and having a capital stock of $500,000, which erected the building, which long has been one of the most conspicuous structures in the central district. It is seventeen and a half stories high, and was erected after plans prepared by Adler & Sullivan, at a cost of about $600,000.

Company Is Reorganized.

It was the purpose of the company to make it a center for grand opera and theatrical productions in German, but the project was not successful, and the company was reorganized in the latter part of 1899 by the Harris Trust company, representing the holders of the first mortgage bonds, the new organization being called the Schiller Building company. The reorganization proved successful, and the bonds have now been called in at 103 and interest. The Garrick theater has for several years been located in the building.

Following so closely on the heels of the long term lease of the Trude and Leiter properties on Clark street, between Washington and Randolph streets, by James O. Heyworth and associates, the transaction will attract renewed attention to the activity and development movement in the north end loop district.

Conveyances by Young Estate.

There was filed for record yesterday a conveyance by the estate of Otto Young to the Fair of the leasehold estate in 190x166 feet of ground at the northeast corner of Dearborn and Adams streets, and 70x122 feet on State street at the corner of Adams street, including the improvements. The transaction is of a purely formal character, its only significance being that it marks the payment by the Lehmann estate of money due the Young estate as the result of the sale of Mr. Young's interest in the Fair in 1905. These properties were given as security and the debt having been discharged the properties are conveyed back to the Fair.

The Pleasant apartments at the southeast corner of Pleasant and Lombard avenues, Oak Park, containing sixteen apartments of four and five rooms each, has been sold by Henry Hajans to M. Clinton Mason and others of Rockville, Conn., for $60,000, subject to an incumbrance of $20,000.

Thirty Acre Tract Brings $30,000.

Mr. Mason and Mrs. Hattie M. Mason of Carthage, N. J., have sold a tract of thirty acres at North and Austin avenues for $30,000 to Henry W. Austin.

Nils Erickson has sold to De Forrest A. Matteson and Andrew Sandgren the property at the northwest corner of Lake View avenue and Roslyn place, 90x149 feet. The purchasers will improve with a three story fifteen apartment building in connection with which they have secured a loan of $55,000 seven years at 5½ per cent from Moses E. Greenebaum.

Record has been made of the ninety-nine year lease by Robert J. Bassett to Martin A. Devitt and Alfred Henry Shotwell of the 214x189 feet at the southwest corner of Adams and South Morgan streets at an annual net rent of $4,000. The lessees will improve with a high grade factory building.

Names Waterways Committee.

At the monthly meeting of the Chicago real estate board President Wallace appointed the following to represent the board at the deep waterways convention to be held at St. Louis Nov. 22: Frank G. Hoyne, Frederick S. Oliver, Ayres Beal, H. H. Walker, and Edward S. Halsey.

The following nominating committee also was announced: Albert H. Wood, Marvin A. Farr, William A. Bond, Adolph Kramer, and Frank M. Smith.

A resolution also was adopted that the president exchange honorary membership with other boards and that with the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges.

R. H. Kohlsaat and Clinton Evans of the Economist will talk on the benefits of real estate advertising at today's weekly luncheon of the Chicago real estate board.

BUSINESS, COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL SECTION

DUTCH INVESTORS GET CAN SHARES

Amsterdam Stockholders Responsible for Activity of Last Few Days.

CARBON BUYING GOOD.

Comes from Inside Sources; Match Appears to Have New Level Around 95.

For several days there has been good buying of American Can shares. It develops that the purchases have been for the account of certain Amsterdam shareholders who became interested in the American Can company through one of the large New York banks. Within the last fortnight representatives of these foreign stockholders have been in New York and as a result of their investigations of the company's position and prospects they have acquired a considerable volume of the company's stock.

So far as can be learned there are no business developments that would warrant special buying. The earnings are averaging a little better than last year. The preferred dividend is apparently assured and the management is generally accorded among bankers as being high class.

National Carbon common opened at 144½ on the local exchange and closed at 143. The buying has been of good character, since it came from inside sources. Official denial was made that the company is to be absorbed by the General Electric. This is repeated for what it may be worth. It is a fact, however, that the company is now a good earner, has a relatively large surplus, and it may be reasonably expected that the stockholders will in time profit by these accumulated earnings.

Diamond Match stock appears to have struck a new level around 95. There was a fair amount of trading in the issue. Sears-Roebuck common was firm.

Chicago Railways Series 1 certificates sold at 77. Series 2 sold for 20½. The first mortgage 5 per cent bonds were firm at 98¾.

Michigan Central Notes.

The Vanderbilt lines and other railroads contemplating extensive financing in the near future find little encouragement in the recent sale of the Michigan Central's $30,000,000 one year notes. This is the outcome of long negotiations which it was hoped would secure $15,000,000 or $20,000,000 for a longer term, carrying indirect advantage to the other Vanderbilt lines.

The sale of the new notes, presumably, merely cares for the debt to the Lake Shore for money advanced to pay off the $10,000,000 notes maturing last February. The small floating debt of the beginning of the year has probably been paid off from surplus, but the Michigan Central is clearly in need of funds for ordinary improvements. The company has never been able to find a sufficiently good market for the $15,000,000 guaranteed Detroit river tunnel bonds.

The recent transaction seems to preclude the sale of bonds by the New York Central itself, and suggests as alternative the offering of new stock with rights to shareholders. Stock means 6 per cent dividends, whereas there was hope of getting the funds from 4 or 4½ per cent bonds. Among the available bonds are $11,000,000 of the first mortgage 3½s and $17,500,000 first mortgage bonds on the Spuyten Duyvil branch. There is also $20,000,000 in unissued, authorized stock.

Stock Dealings Fall Off.

The report of September transactions on the New York stock exchange showed that the month was the poorest September in ten years. With the exception of 1903, the same was true of the month of October. The total sales of shares for ten months exceeds the total for the corresponding period of 1903 and 1904, but is lower than the total for other years succeeding 1900.

In the bond market October's total was again the lowest record in ten years, and the ten months' total was below that of the corresponding periods in all but one of the years since 1900.

Total transactions during October and ten month periods for ten years compare:

Nevada Consolidated.

Directors of the Nevada Consolidated Copper company will meet Nov. 25 for organization and for dividend action. While no official statement is made at this time, it is reported that S. W. Eccles, vice president of the company, will be selected to succeed James F. Phillips Jr., retired, as president.

Morris & Co. Bonds Listed.

At the meeting in the afternoon the governing committee of the Chicago stock exchange admitted to the list the $12,000,000 first mortgage sinking fund 4½ per cent bonds of Morris & Co., recently admitted to the New York exchange list.

Francis Gates Porter of the firm of Smart, Porter & Co. was elected to membership in the exchange.

Crucible Steel Changes.

Directors of the Crucible Steel Company of America organized during the day by the election of the old officials and members of the executive committee, with the exception that John A. Sutton was elected to the office of first vice president, which office has been vacant for some time. Mr. Sutton and H. D. W. English were elected members of the executive committee, succeeding J. D. Lyon and Reuben Miller.

Express Company Earnings.

The report of the American Express company for the month of July shows larger gains in expenses than in gross revenue causing a decrease in net and a heavier loss in surplus from tax increase. The Pacific Express company shows a decrease in gross and a cutting in half of net. The figures filed with the interstate commerce commission follow:

Personal Mention.

John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank, returned from New York. He said the banks were feeling comfortable over the money outlook and there was a generally cheerful sentiment.

Dividends Declared.

The American Tobacco company has declared the usual quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent and the customary extra dividend of 1½ per cent on its common stock, payable Dec. 1 to stock of record Nov. 15. This makes 40 per cent declared on the issue for the year.

The American Smelters Securities company has declared the regular quarterly dividends of 1½ per cent on its preferred "A" and 1¼ per cent on its preferred "B" stocks, payable Dec. 1. Books close Nov. 22 and reopen Dec. 1.

The Diamond Match company has declared a dividend of 1½ per cent on the capital stock, payable Dec. 15 to stock of record Nov. 22.

Most of Shares Traded In Close the Day with Fractional Advances.

PRICES ARE IRREGULAR.

Adjustments Incidental to Nov. 1 Payments Have an Effect.

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

New York, Nov. 2.—[Special.]—Net gains exceeding 1 point in Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting and fractional advances in most of the other stocks which contributed to any substantial extent to the day's trading, which was slightly larger than that of the previous day, were the chief results of today's transactions on the stock exchange.

Among exceptional movements of the day was a net loss of 2¾ points shown by Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago, and St. Louis on a total range of 3 points in that stock, to which attention had been directed by the violent fluctuations of the previous day and a net loss of 1¾ points in Canadian Pacific, which on Tuesday, when the London market closed, had sold up to a new high record.

Price Movements Irregular.

Price movements displayed considerable irregularity during the session, but at the close a majority of stocks were within small fractions of the best prices of the day. The general narrowness of the day's movements except in a few issues, is indicated by the fact that the changes in most of the active stocks were confined to fractions.

The further influence of money market adjustments incidental to payments on Nov. 1 was reflected in the 4½ per cent rate for call money as the day's maximum, but the average rate was no higher than on Tuesday. Banks again showed a loss in cash in their transactions with the subtreasury, the net loss to that institution since last Friday amounting to $2,529,000, compared with a loss of $4,000,000 for a corresponding period last week.

Slight Advance in Discounts.

The day's European advices bearing on the monetary situation recorded a slight advance in discounts in London, although the Bank of England profited by gold arrivals from Brazil and gained $4,500,000 gold on balance. The weekly statement of the Bank of Germany, which was influenced by Nov. 1 settlements, showed a loss of something over $10,000,000 in gold holdings, and an increase about $23,000,000 in circulation.

Money on call strong, 5½@4½ per cent; ruling rate, 5¾; closing, bid 5¾; offered at 4. Time loans firm, but dull; sixty days and ninety days, 4½@5 per cent; six months, 4¾@5. Close: Prime mercantile paper, 5¾ to 6 per cent. Sterling exchange steady at recovery, with actual business in bankers' bills at 4.8220@4.8230 for sixty day bills and at 4.84 for demand. Commercial bills, 4.81¾@4.81¾. Bar silver, 56. Mexican dollars 46. Government bonds steady; railroad bonds irregular.

IN THE FOREIGN STOCK MARKET.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Money was in moderate supply and good demand today. Discount rates were easy on the arrival of gold from Brazil. The stock market reopened quietly, and ruled irregular. The settlement in consols was arranged with barry over rates at 2 per cent. A firm tone prevailed in the copper, diamond, and American sections but the rest of the markets were easier on realizing and lack of support. American securities opened firm and a fraction higher. Fair buying followed and prices advanced from ¼ to ⅝ during the forenoon. The strength was maintained on Wall street buying during the early afternoon but offerings from the same quarter caused a fractional decline in the late trading. The market closed easy.

BERLIN, Nov. 2.—Trading was light and irregular on the boerse today. American securities declined. Exchange on London, 20 marks 48 pfennigs for checks. Money, 4¼ per cent. Private discount rate, 4⅜ per cent.

PARIS, Nov. 2.—Prices were lower on the bourse today. Closing: Three per cent rentes 97 francs 25 centimes for the account. Exchange on London, 25 francs 26 centimes for checks.

IN THE BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 2.—[Special.]—Coppers were in good demand today and prices advanced sharply. Lake Copper gained 2 points and held it to the end. North Butte was active and holds its advance of yesterday. Indiana was up 1 and East Butte 1¼. New York was a steady buyer here. Business was brisk all day especially toward the close, which was generally at the best prices of the day. Call money, 4@5 per cent; time loans, short dates, 5 per cent; time loans six months, 5@5½ per cent; time loans, year, 5@5½ per cent.

HOCKING VALLEY IS INDICTED BY THE FEDERAL GRAND JURY.

Twenty-nine Counts Returned Against Railroad and Nine Against Sunday Creek Coal Company at Toledo.

Toledo, O., Nov. 2.—Twenty-nine counts were returned against the Hocking Valley railroad this morning by the federal grand jury called two weeks ago to consider charges of discrimination against the road growing out of its connection with the Sunday Creek Coal company. The grand jury also returned nine counts against the Sunday Creek company.

Should these indictments be sustained after a trial of the case and the imposition of the maximum penalty the Hocking Valley will be subject to a fine of $580,000 and the Sunday Creek company $180,000, as the penalty for conviction under the law is a fine of from $1,000 to $20,000 in each case.

The railroad was indicted on the ground of discrimination against shippers and showing favoritism to the Sunday Creek company, a majority of whose stock was owned by the Hocking Valley.

The case is one of the most important ever brought to the attention of the federal government here as there is involved in it the question of whether a railroad can demand cash payment for freight from one of its shippers and extend unlimited credit to another.

UNSTEADY TRADING IN COTTON WITH PRICES SLIGHTLY LOWER.

Rumors of Bearish Crop Estimates by Southern Authorities Factor in New York Market—Receipts Smaller.

New York, Nov. 2.—Today's cotton market showed continued nervousness and irregularity, an advance being followed by a decline on rumors of bearish crop estimates by various southern authorities. While some of these rumors were subsequently denied, the close was barely steady at a net decline of 4@8 points.

Receipts at the ports today, 55,000 bales, against 68,035 bales last week, 57,573 bales last year. For the week 400,000 bales, against 301,183 last week, and 462,640 bales last year. Today's receipts in New Orleans, 11,013 bales, against 19,350 bales last year, and at Houston 10,766 bales against 2,576 bales last year. Spot closed quiet and unchanged; middling uplands, 14.55c; do gulf, 14.80c; sales, 247 bales. Quotations:

PRICES $10 to $25 per acre, quality and location considered. You can't get better in Michigan, or the U. S. TERMS as low as $10 to $20 down and $5 to $10 per month on 40 acres. Act now, before prices go up. Come and see this wonderfully developing district. Two new townsites; business and residence lots; resort lots on Crystal Lake; 10-acre farms in the location. Send for free booklet about Michigan and large map, also improved farm list—all free. MY INSURANCE gives your family the farm free if you die. Excursion leaves my Chicago office 12:30 a. m. Tuesdays, Nov. 15 and Dec. 6, for Wellston; teams and guides free; fares rebated on purchase. C. G. SWIGART, Ludington, Mich.
1268-40-50 First National Bank Bldg., Chicago.

FOR SALE—ADVANCE INFORMATION—LAND—Through the president and controlling factor of a new railroad now building in a magnificent section of southwestern Texas, heretofore unknown except as cattle country, I can secure tracts ranging from 5,000 to 150,000 acres at prices from $7.50 to $25 an acre, where values are easily double within 90 days, and will undoubtedly increase 100 per cent to 500 per cent when the route of the road is positively known. This is one of the few remaining opportunities of this kind for individual or syndicate purchases, to be held, developed, or exploited for colonization. Can probably lease these lands for return 3 per cent until ready to sell or develop. Address for one week B 213, Tribune.

BUSINESS CHANCES.

"WE FOLLOWING APPEARED IN THE NEW York American on Aug. 23, 1910, written by Mr. ...stwell, financial editor of that paper:

"WALL STREET HAS PAID LITTLE ATTEN... ...tion to news of extreme importance from British Columbia. The Grand Trunk Pacific has this week ...let a $10,000,000 contract to Foley, Welch & Stewart ...for a third section of 140 miles of trackload in British ...Columbia. The company is building east from ...Prince Rupert and west from Yellowhead Pass. It ...will have trains running from Prince Rupert to Tel... ...ed Pass in two years, and will open some of ...purchased Pass in two years, and will open some of ...the most magnificent timber, farming, and mining ...country in the world. Although the region is say... ...ported to be within the influence of the Japan cur... ...rent and the Chinook winds. The region is destined ...to become one of the richest in America.

"WALL STREET MAY MARVEL AT A RAIL... ...road outlay of $30,000,000 in a single year in the ...province of British Columbia, but it forgets that ...British Columbia has seven times the area of the ...State of New York; that it has double the mileage, ...and mineral and agricultural wealth surpassing that of the German empire, and a climate ...of unsurpassed salubrity. Moreover, its fisheries ...are the richest on the continent and its inland, its ...lake, its river and mountain scenery outrivals that ...of all the world.

"BRITISH COLUMBIA, OF ALL PARTS OF the North American continent, should be watched ...by commercial men. The energy of 20,000,000 ...horses can be harnessed from its rivers, and its ...coal, iron, gold, silver, lead, antimony, ...and zinc mines will yet rival the greatest of the ...world. Moreover, it is a white man's country, with ...the lowest taxation and the best popular govern... ...ment on the continent."

VICE PRESIDENT AND GENERAL MAN... ...ager Chamberlin of the Grand Trunk Pacific rail... ...way says:

"PORT GEORGE IS DESTINED TO BECOME ...the most important point and the greatest city be... ...tween Prince Rupert and Edmonton, and is the ...point from which we propose to enter the rich terri... ...tory to the north and south."

PORT GEORGE IS THE CENTRAL AND DIS... ...tributing point for central British Columbia today; ...and its natural geographical location and strategic ...position are such that it will continue to be the ...chief commercial place of central British Columbia. ...The Province of Central British Columbia is sufficient... ...ly vast in extent to support many cities. But there ...is destined to be one pre-eminent place of com... ...merce, manufacture, one metropolis, and it is ...inevitable that it place and site is where Fort George ...now is. Fort George will be tributary all the natural re... ...sources of central British Columbia, and lesser ...towns and cities, but central British Columbia is ...sufficiently rich in natural resources to support a ...population of millions.

AN INVESTMENT OF $100 A FEW YEARS ...ago at the beginning of any of western Canada's ...business centers, Winnipeg, Edmonton, Saskatoon, ...Calgary, Vancouver, is now worth $50,000 to $100,000. ...Port George will inevitably be one of the ...larger cities on the continent; you have the op... ...portunity now to get in at the beginning. The gov... ...ernment owns one-quarter of the town site and ...guarantees it three title. We are joint owners ...and sole agents. You can buy one of the choicest ...lots for a short time only on payments of ...$10 to $20 per month. No interest. Let us send ...you a free copy of "British Columbia Bulletin of ...Facts," giving official and up to date news of ...the richest province of the continent and its inland, its ...lake, its river and mountain scenery outrivals that ...of all the world.

"WE REGARD NORTHERN BRITISH CO... ...lumbia as our great field and we shall spare no ...effort or expense to develop that country in the ...most effective manner. As soon as our main line is ...completed we shall undertake the construction of ...branch lines and one of the first we shall put in ...hand will be one to the north of Fort George. Our ...plans our engineers proposed to start from the ...Fraser from the Bulkley valley, but we have now come to ...the conclusion that Fort George is the best point ...at which to connect it with the main line, and form ...our main junction point. There is a vast, rich ...country awaiting transportation, and we ...shall supply it.

BUSINESS CHANCES.

HERE'S A YOUNG MAN, with vim and "go" in his blood, who has evolved a brand new idea in magazine publishing. His judgment of the winning possibilities of this idea is pronounced sound by older heads than himself, who say: "There's a fortune in it"; and his out of the ordinary training as a newspaper and magazine man makes certain that the project will attain startling success in his hands. He lacks the cash vital to start the ball a-rolling, but is confident there is some one in Chicago, man or woman, able and willing to back a man who can satisfy any one that he is "right and square." An interest in a better paying proposition (than the Saturday Evening Post will be the reward of the one who can see this "right." The proposition requires about $15,000; a little less might do, but with that it is bound to succeed. Address N N 96, Tribune.

FIRE INSURANCE— We are purchasing good agencies in Illinois for business transferred to us we pay about $200 for each $1,000 of business placed in Chicago by an agency. You can then continue to place the business with us and receive a better deal than you now have. Thus you have a good cash bonus and a better future arrangement. Or we will purchase outright. Write us in strict confidence. The Assured's National Mutual Fire Insurance Company, Decatur, Illinois.

POSITIVELY GREATEST OPPORTUNITY TO get into an honorable lucrative business; if you wish to secure the sole agency of a high class line of merchandise which is in demand by almost every factory store, and home; sells rapidly; practically for cash, gives perfect satisfaction; an investment of only $1,000 necessary for our merchandise. Will guarantee against loss. Unless you can furnish still edge references as to character and ability don't answer. Address M 322, Tribune.

FOR SALE—OR TRADE VALUABLE PATENT rights for new typewriter attachmentsis already in use in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and other cities; owner too busy in other lines to develop; will sell for cash or on royalty or will trade for land, buildings, business or other valuable equity. Write T. EVERETT FORD, 215 Dearborn-st., Chicago.

CHILD'S HOSPITAL WILL COST $300,000

Late Mrs. Nelson Morris' Bequest Gives Chicago Best in Middle West.

BEGIN WORK IN SPRING.

Plan Outdoor Treatment in New Addition to Big Medical Research Group.

The largest hospital for children in the middle west will be constructed soon with $300,000 given by the executors of the late Mrs. Nelson Morris to Edwin G. Foreman, president of the Michael Reese hospital. It is to be called the Sarah Morris Hospital for Children.

This gift is the second providing for extensions of the present Michael Reese hospital facilities. The first was given by Mrs. Morris some time before her death. The amount, $250,000, was for the creation of a medical research institution. Ground for this latter building, known as the Nelson Morris Hospital for Medical Research, was broken on Oct. 17.

The ground for the new children's institution has been purchased at the southeast corner of Groveland avenue and Twenty-ninth street. Plans for the building will be completed this winter and the work of construction will begin early in the spring.

Studies Hospitals in Europe.

The latest ideas in the treatment of children will be used in the institution. Dr. I. H. Abt of the children's staff at the Michael Reese hospital was dispatched to Europe to study modern children's hospitals there. He will return about Nov. 15 and will consult with Mrs. Morris' executors and the officers and physicians at the Michael Reese hospital.

Mrs. Morris superintended the plans for the medical research hospital and left the details of the children's institution to her executors. They are Edward and Ira N. Morris, Mrs. Maurice L. Rothschild, and Mrs. Henry C. Schwab.

President Foreman said concerning the hospital:

"It is proposed to include this new structure in a splendid group of buildings with the Michael Reese hospital and the Nelson Morris Hospital for Medical Research.

Plenty of Outdoor Air.

"One of the chief features of the new building will be plenty of outdoor space in the shape of sun parlors and broad porches so sick children can have fresh air at all times of the year.

"It is planned to have a tunnel connecting all three buildings of the group."

It is planned to open the medical research building about May 1, 1911. The children's hospital, it is thought, will be ready for occupancy by Dec. 1, 1911.
